The best way to do your homework is to have a right attitude. Just remember that you have to do it, and then get it done as soon as you can. Putting it off doesn't work. You will sometimes run out of time or something will happen to stop you from finishing it on time.

Don't try hard to come up with a good excuse when you can't get it done. You should do your homework no matter what happens. Every minute you spend doing it helps you improve in some ways. It will either improve your knowledge, your thinking skills, or your self-discipline. Any one of them will do well in your life, but if you have all three, you will be ahead of many people throughout your life.

If you are having difficulty in doing your homework, don't be afraid. Your friends and parents can help you, or you can leave it for the next day and ask the teacher for help. Do remember never to copy other's work.

36. The best way to do your homework is to finish it in class.

37. If you don't finish your homework as soon as possible, something will probably stop you from finishing your homework on time.

38. You can think of a good excuse for not doing your homework.

39. Doing your homework can only improve your knowledge.

40. If you have difficulty in doing your homework, you must work it out yourself.

Every year on April 22, Earth Day is celebrated (庆祝) all over the world. It is for keeping our earth clean. People plan projects to clean up the land, air and water.

The U. S. Senator Gaylord Nelson first thought of the idea for Earth Day in 1962 when he saw polluted rivers and cities covered with smoke. Senator Nelson needed to get support from Americans to clean up the earth. Finally, on April 22, 1970, 20 million Americans celebrated the first Earth Day! Now many countries around the world celebrate it, and so can you.

How can you celebrate Earth Day? Here are a few ideas:

- Join a clean-up project — Clean up your street or a favorite beach.
- Save energy — Turn off the lights when you leave a room, and use public transportation.
- Use less water.
- Reduce (减少) /Reuse / Recycle — Practice the three Rs: First, reduce how much you use. Then reuse or recycle what you can.

You can make a difference on Earth Day and every day!

41. When was the first Earth Day?
    A. On April 22, 1970.　　B. On April 22, 1962.
    C. On April 22, 1771.　　D. On April 22 every year.
42. _____ made Gaylord Nelson first think of the idea for Earth Day.
    A. The beautiful environment
    B. Projects to clean up the land
    C. Support from Americans
    D. Seeing polluted rivers and cities covered with smoke
43. How do prople around the world celebrate Earth Day?
    A. By using more cars.
    B. By helping to clean up the land, air and water.
    C. By polluting rivers and cities.
    D. By taking fewer buses.
44. Which of the following sentences is NOT true?
    A. Americans celebrated the first Earth Day.
    B. Three Rs mean reduce, reuse and recylce.
    C. Now about 20 million people celebrate the Eatrh Day.
    D. People celebrate Earth Day by helping to do some public cleaning.
45. The best title for this passage is _____.
    A. Three Rs　　B. A Clean-up Project
    C. Celebrate Earth Day　　D. Save Energy

It's over three years since I began to learn English. I am glad that I am getting on well with it.

I find English quite difficult, but very interesting. When I started, I thought I had only to remember the new words and learn some grammars. I know little about English idioms (习语). I thought each English word has the same meaning in Chinese. When I learned to say "I see a book on the desk", I thought the English word "see" was just like the Chinese word "kan". So one day when my teacher asked me, "What are you doing?" I answered, "I'm seeing a book." "That's wrong," the teacher said. "You don't see a book. You read a book. You can't use an English word like a Chinese one. Be sure not to make the same mistake again."

After that I began to pay more attention to the differences between Chinese and English. For example, in English we say a "high mountain", but a "tall man". In Chinese we use the same word "gao" for both. Again in English we say "take part in the sports meeting", "attend a meeting" and "join the army", while in Chinese we can use "can jia" for all three. Interesting, isn't it?

So to study English doesn't only mean hard work; it can be great fun, too! We not only have to pay attention to pronunciation, grammar, spelling and handwriting, we also have to understand English idiom. We can learn English well only in that way!

But all this is only a beginning and I still have a long way to go. I'll try my best and work even harder than before. I must speak and listen to English more both in and out of class. I must learn English well so that I can work well when I grow up.

46. I have learned English for _____ years.

A. one B. five C. three D. more than three

47. When I started to learn English, I _____.

A. knew more English words B. knew some English idioms

C. used an English word like a Chinese one D. found English easy and interesting

48. I began to pay more attention to the differences between Chinese and English _____.

A. after the teacher told me not to use an English word like a Chinese one

B. when I said "I see a book on the desk"

C. before I began to learn English

D. when I began to learn English

49. We should speak and listen to English _____.

A. only in class B. both in and out of class

C. out of class D. when we want

50. To study English well, we have to _____.

A. remember the new words and learn some grammars

B. know the differences between Chinese and English

C. pay attention to pronunciation, spelling, handwriting and idioms

D. do all the above things

How can you think in English? I think the best way is to practice as what a football player does every day. During the practice the football player will pass the ball to his teammates over and over again. So (A) he won't have to think about passing the ball in the game; he will just do it.

(B) You can train yourself to think in English in this way. The first step is to think of the words that you use daily, simple everyday words like book, shoe or tree. For example , whenever you see a "book", you should think of it in English instead of in your mother language.

After you have learned to think of several words in English, then move on to the next step — think of sentences in English. (C)听是学英语的一个非常有用的方法。Listen first and don't care too much about whether you fully understand what you're hearing. Try to repeat (重复) what you hear. (D)The _____ you listen, the _____ you learn. After you reach a higher level, start having conversations with yourself in English. This will lead you to think in English.

1. 请将画线部分(A)改成同义句。

   He _____ think about passing the ball in the game.

2. 请将画线部分(B)翻译成汉语。

   _____

3. 请将画线部分(C)处翻译成英语。

   _____

4. 根据短文内容补全空白处(D),每空 1 词。

   The _____ you listen, the _____ you learn.

5. 根据短文内容完成句子。

   The first step is to think of the words, and the second step is to _____.

China produced 30 million pairs of glasses last year, second only to the USA. The number reflects(反映) China's huge population. According to a survey, about 210 million people in China wear glasses. Of these, one third live in cities.

Old people and students are among the glasses-wearers. They have short-sightedness, far-sightedness or presbyopia vision(老花眼).

Doctors and teachers say there are many reasons why students develop poor eyesight. The main reason is that they are often overloaded with lessons and homework, but don't have enough time for sleep, sports and other activities.

根据短文内容完成下面的表格。(5 分)

(A)

Country	Glasses production
China	1
The USA	2

(B)

	Glasses-wearers
City	3
Country	4

(C)

The number reflects China's huge population.	The number shows China has a large number of 5

Passage 1

Have you heard the saying, "If you want a friend, be one."

Here is how one new teacher made friends with the girls and boys in her class on the first day of school. As the bell rang, the teacher smiled at each girl and boy. Then she said in a quiet voice, "Good morning. How nice it is to have all of you in my class this year. I'd like to know each of you. I am sure we will enjoy working together." Everyone felt happy and relaxed because of her sweet voice and her friendly look.

She told the girls and boys her name and wrote it down on the blackboard. Then she told them some of the things she liked to do and she was hoping to do with them during the year.

Then she said to the class, "Now you know my name and the things I like and I want to know your names and the things you like. Then I will feel that I know you."

Could you make friends by doing the same things as the teacher did?

One way of getting to know and to like the other girls and boys in your class is to find out more about them. It is often easy to be friends with those people. They have the same hobbies with you, play the same games, and have made the same journeys you have.

You may find that some new comers in your class may miss their old friends and feel strange and lonely, and you can invite them to walk to school or ride bikes with you. You will find many things to talk about. Just talking together in a friendly manner(方式) is one good way to make friends.

Passage 2

Zengzi's wife was going to the market. Her little son wanted to go with her, making a tearful scene. "Stay at home." she said to the boy. "When I come back, I will kill a pig for you." When she came back, Zengzi got ready to kill the pig. His wife stopped him, saying, "I was just kidding (开玩笑)." "A child is not to be kidded like that!" he replied. "A child does not know much and

Dear Editor,

I'm confused these days. We are taught at home and at school that violence(暴力) is bad. For example, last week, my friend and I were playing at the beach. We found a really beautiful shell. My friend picked it up, but I saw it first, and I said it was mine. He said it was his. I really wanted the shell, and I even thought about hitting him. That's how angry I was.

Now should that be right? No! I shouldn't use violence. I should talk with my friend instead, and solve that. My parents and teachers often tell me that using violence is the least civilized(文明)
