● 前 言

越来越多的城市人渴望回到过去的时光，通过重现那些现代工业化产品无法取代的传统手工制品，浸润在古老手工艺之中，来汲取符合心灵和精神需求的一种文化源泉，让自己那些深埋在心底的、经久不衰的古老情怀，可以在世代相承的手工技艺中得到释放和彰显。从而，再次思考、欣赏、保护，重拾这些古老遗产背后深厚的文化价值和精神意义，成为当代人逃离高度物质文明压力和缺乏灵性生活环境的一种方式。

技艺中更多获益，从而也能获得更多动力把这项古老技艺更好地保持和传递下去？

● PREFACE

As human beings have evolved into contemporary society, constant change has characterized our surroundings. Our modern lifestyle and unique aesthetic reveal a monotonous life depleted of personality and humanism. Though our ambitions can clash with modern civilization, we yearn eagerly to enhance society so that local culture and traditions can be maintained to achieve the ideal harmony between man and nature. In this day and age, art has become appreciated as a channel to release stress from daily life. We can balance our emotions through participating and interacting with art. Hence, the true significance of handicrafts was rediscovered.

More and more city-dwellers are pining to return to the good old days. Irreplaceable by contemporary industrial products, traditional handicrafts allow city-dwellers to immerse themselves in an ancient art to fulfill their spiritual needs, as well as experience healing nostalgia. Other modern human beings have discovered that the renaissance of these handicrafts is a way to evade the intense pressure of our materialistic culture. Most importantly, many have recognized the urgent need to reconsider and reevaluate dull environments void of beauty, and protect and renovate the profound cultural and spiritual values behind such ancient heritages.

Meanwhile, handcrafters who have lived their entire lives in the countryside are simultaneously attracted to and confounded by the outside world. Market economies, therefore, have brought both opportunities and challenges. On one hand, villagers hunger for the recognition of their rare skills and handicrafts by the fast-paced outside world so that their work can bear value and be appreciated by more people. On the other hand, they also hope to preserve the intricate artwork techniques passed down from previous generations for their children. These conflicting desires have gradually destroyed their firm persistence in the ancient arts.

Danzhai is an ethnic small village in the southeast area of Guizhou Province. It is located in the Yunnan-Guizhou Plateau that borders on the Hunan-Guangxi Hills, and the scenery is characterized by magnificently beautiful karst formations. Many ethnic minority groups, including the Miao, Dong and Buyi reside in this town; therefore, this area is a great resource for the ethnic culture of China. It also holds one of the most concentrated Miao populations in China—traditionally, the area has been called the “Hinterland of Miao Territory”, “Headquarters of Miao Groups”, and “Museum of Ethnicity”.

The Miao ethnic minority group in Danzhai has enjoyed a hundred years of batik production. Though there are many places of batik production in Guizhou, Danzhai batik has historically established itself as a unique batik group known for its intricate composition, antique patterns, abundant themes and exquisite techniques. Unfortunately, Danzhai batik has not been largely recognizable in the past because of its remote location. After reform and opening up, however, Danzhai batik has attracted wider attention from around the globe. Local Danzhai artists have traveled around the world on performance and display tours to bring recognition to their local culture and heritage. Consequently, the world has been amazed by ancient Miao culture and their superb batik techniques.

Danzhai's unique and rustic beauty may not evoke feelings of amazement upon first sight. On closer investigation of these antique patterns of blue flowers, however, a viewer can perceive a more full-bodied sense of freshness, peacefulness, and highly astounding beauty that directly touches the soul. For generations, Miao women in Danzhai have been expressing their passions for life through the batik knives in their hands and recording memories of their ancient ethnic culture and traditions. Each ingenious pattern blooming on the blue batik cloth can represent a concentrated and beautiful story, narration of history, or vision of the Miao people's future.

Many scholars and experts have attempted to achieve the ideal unification of a global economy and pursuit for cultural diversity through traditional culture preservation and community development. This focus has asked how to better utilize the abundant resources of Danzhai batik so that it can be recognized by the world beyond the village. The goal is to have more people recognize the beauty of these blue flowers and the essence of Miao culture so that this delicate and fragrant flower of art in the fields of Guizhou can bloom among a forest of cultures more freely. There is, however, the question of how Miao women, who have practiced batik for generations, can benefit more from their artistic inheritance and subsequently, become more motivated to pass on this precious cultural asset.

Funded by Citi Foundation and operated by the Community-based Conservation and Development Research Center of Guizhou Normal University, the Danzhai Handicraft Development Project selected Danzhai batik because it was a project of distinguishing geographical and cultural features. This project was initiated with the proceeds from “Blue Flower”, a cultural awareness event that strove to reconstruct the cultural value of the Danzhai batik. While integrating multiple resources of corporations, the government, research institutions and the media, the project offered moderate intervention from the perspectives of capability, mechanics and industry. The project’s achievements have so far included community construction, cultural promotion, product development and market promotion. By analyzing ways to sustain and innovate the forms and content of traditional Miao batik techniques, the industry has the potential to achieve a sustainable development production chain. Meanwhile, we hope that aiding local governments and private batik organizations operating on a reasonable industry development program, cultivating branding and guiding standard industry management methods, the project can provide support for the protection and continuance of the traditional Danzhai batik art. In addition, we hope that it can reveal key insights on the sustainable development of the Miao community. This book contains systematic analyses and conclusions on the development progress and lessons learned from this project in the hopes of instigating fruitful discussions on the current state and future of continuance and development of traditional Chinese handicrafts.

From a broad perspective, projects that aim to study and enhance the conservation and development of traditional art embody both cultural and economic significance. On one hand, as resources of batik art are gradually unearthed, the potential of local batik industry can be explored. Local batik workshops will be able to produce local and ethnic cultural products that can enter the market for economic benefit and provide the possibility to rise to affluence. On the other hand, such projects also uncover, preserve, and develop folk and ethnic culture in a genuine movement towards the reconstruction of a traditional art. Through this cultural reconstruction, the project aims to not only revive the value of traditions in modern life, but also infuse a sense of honor in participants and local folk artists who gain recognition from these regional and familiar cultural traditions. In the long-term, this will be a sustaining motivation for development within the community.
