Today we learned all about Earth Day. It is a special day.
It is when we celebrate our planet.

We watched a movie about the Earth's climate. Climate is how hot or cold it usually is outside. The Earth is getting hotter and the ice at the North Pole is melting!

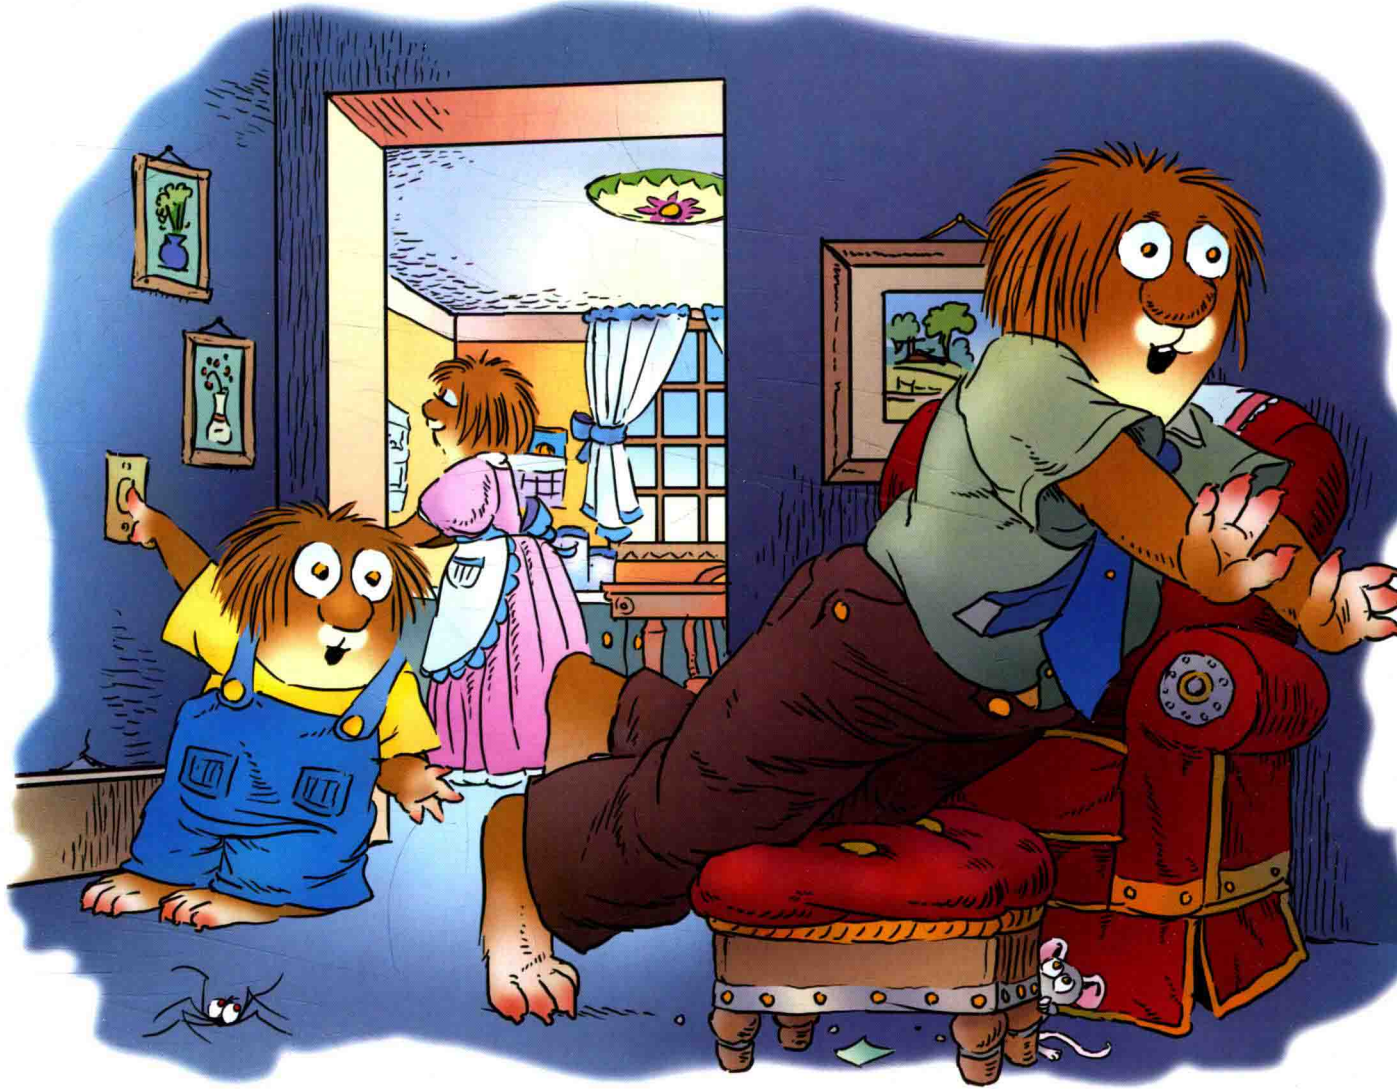

That's where the polar bears live. Yikes! I have to help slow down the melting.

“Dad!” I asked. “What can we do to stop the ice from melting?”
“Let’s find out.” he said.

It turns out that the energy we use doing everyday things like driving cars and watching TV are making the Earth warmer.

“We have to save energy.” I said. I turned off the computer and all the lights as fast as I could to save energy.

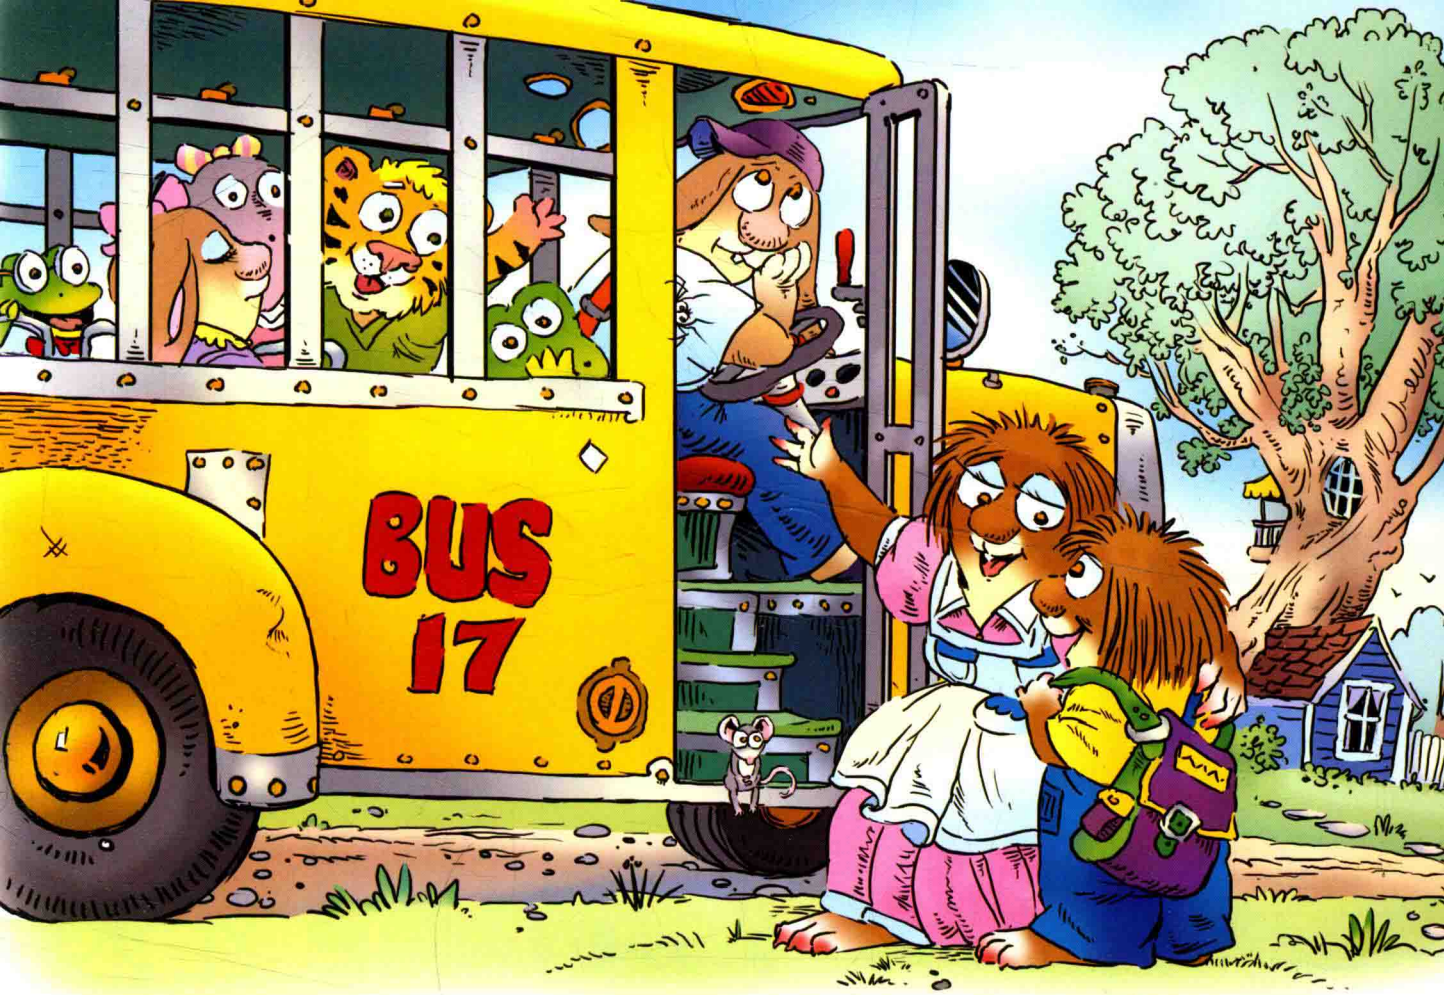

“Be careful, Dad,” I said.

The next morning, when Little Sister was brushing her teeth, I turned the faucet off.

“Saving water helps the polar bears,” I said.

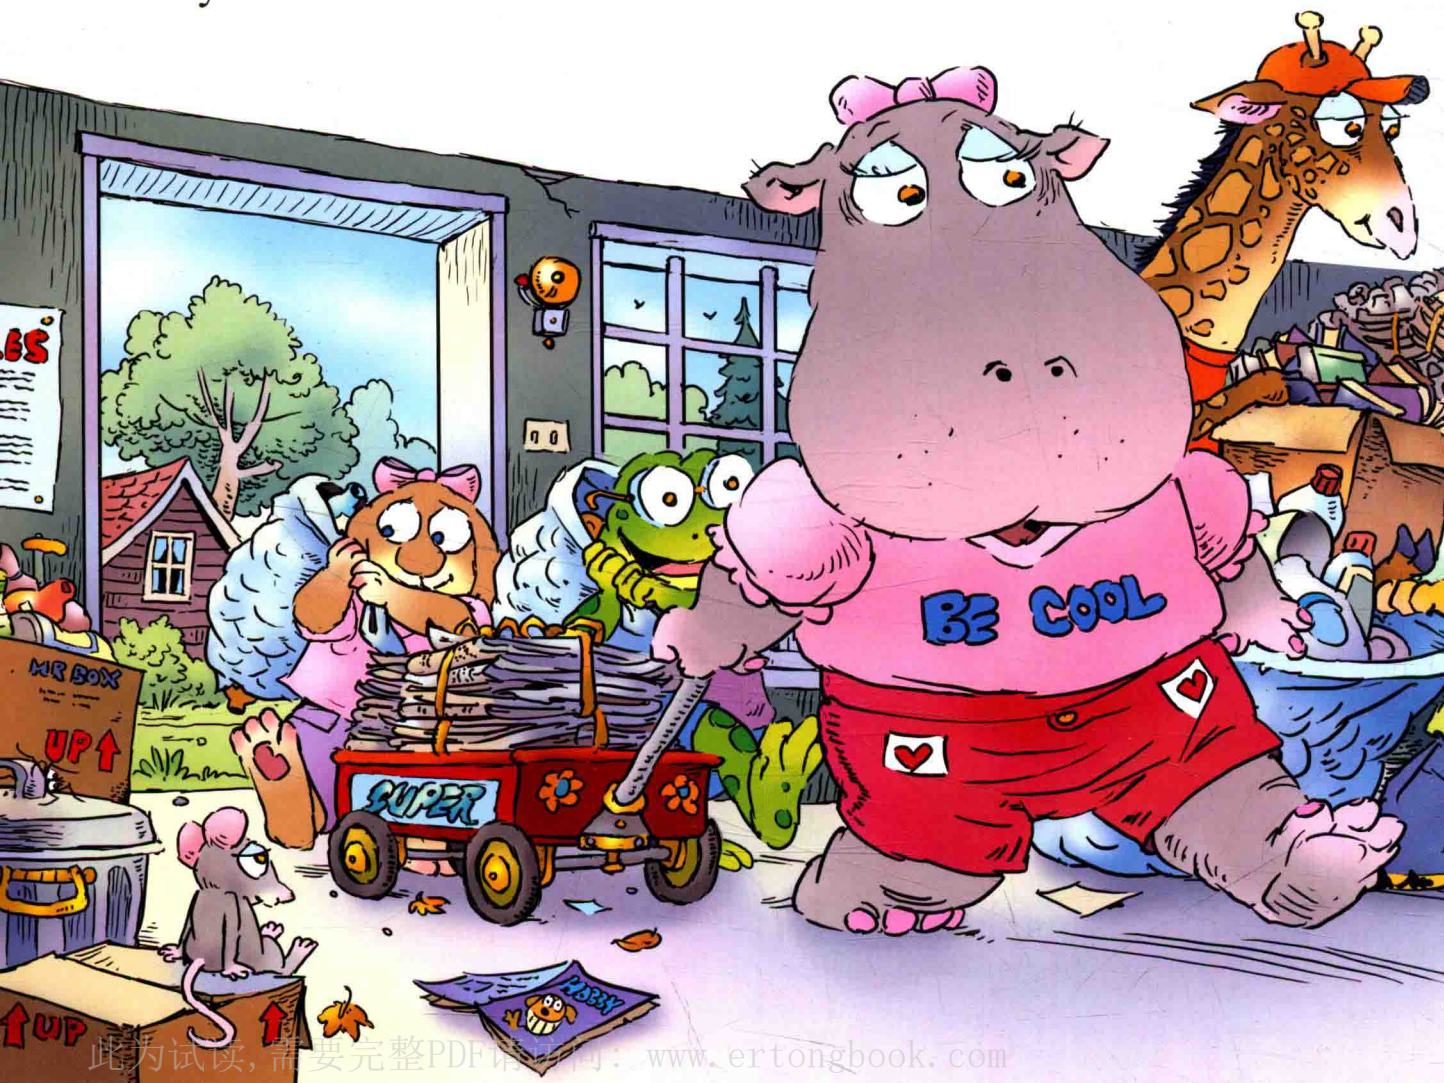

I didn't want to take the school bus the next morning. But Mom said, "The bus saves energy because all the moms and dads don't have to drive their cars."

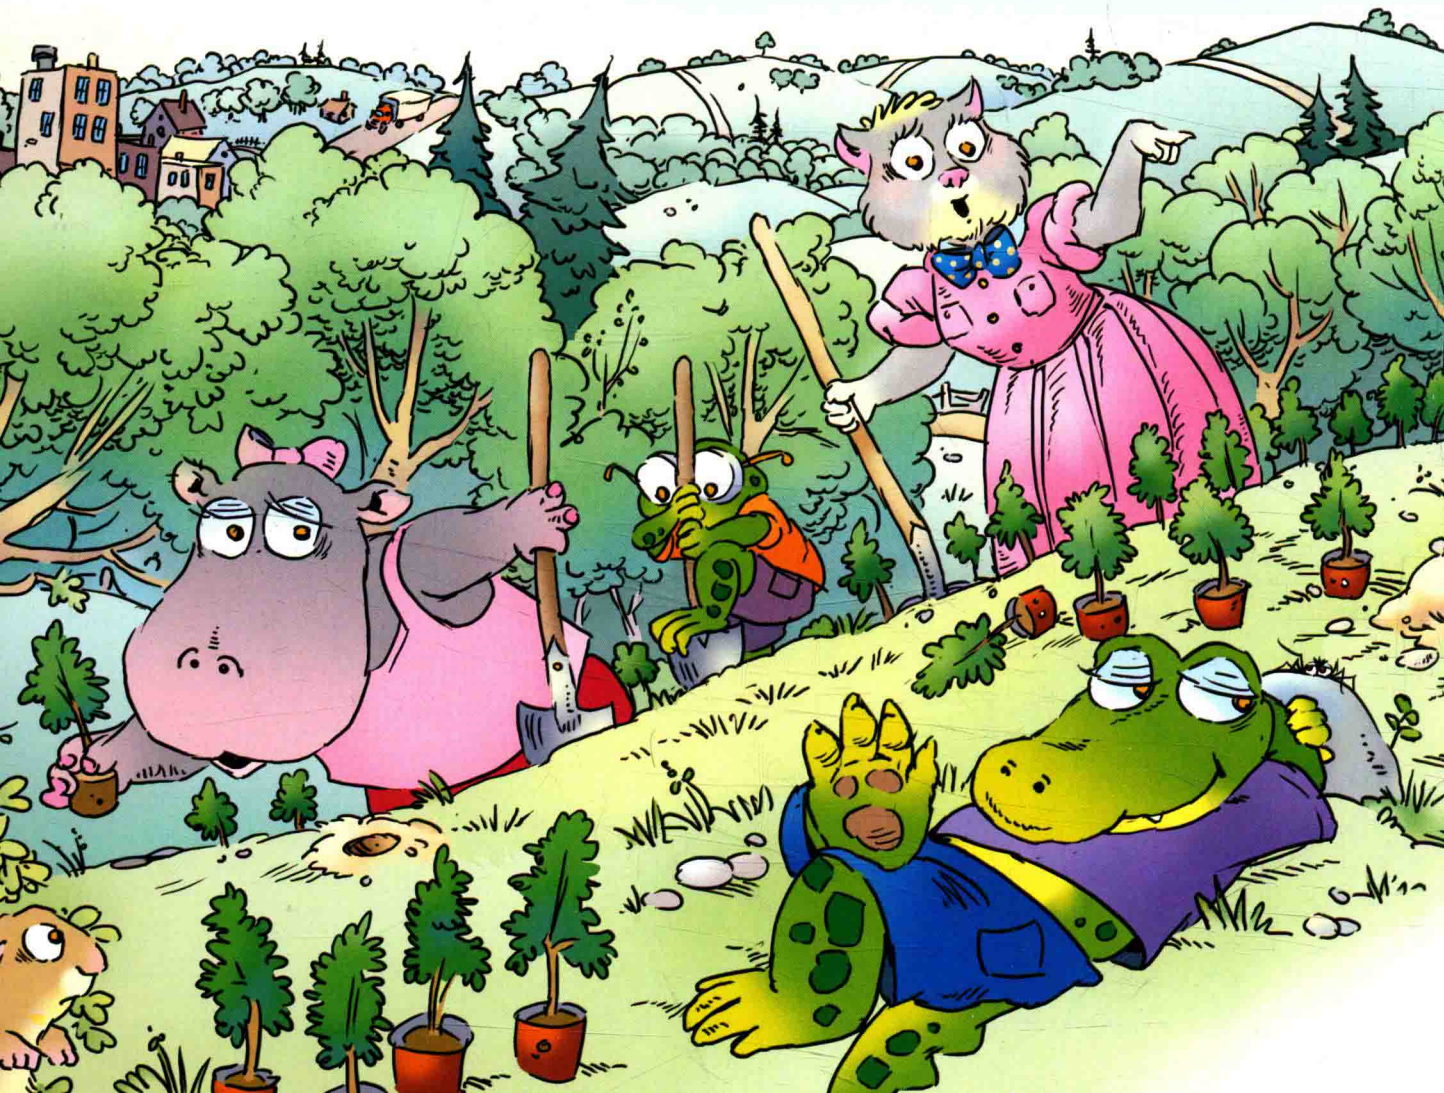

Good thinking, Mom.

After school, my friends and I collected cans, bottles, and newspapers, and then took them to the recycling center. We put the money we earned in a big jar to give to a Critterville charity called We Love Polar Bears.

The next day was Earth Day. Our whole class went to the park to plant trees. Trees are good for the Earth. They help suck up bad stuff in the air.

It was hard work.

“Come on, guys,” I said. “Do it for the Earth and for the polar bears!”

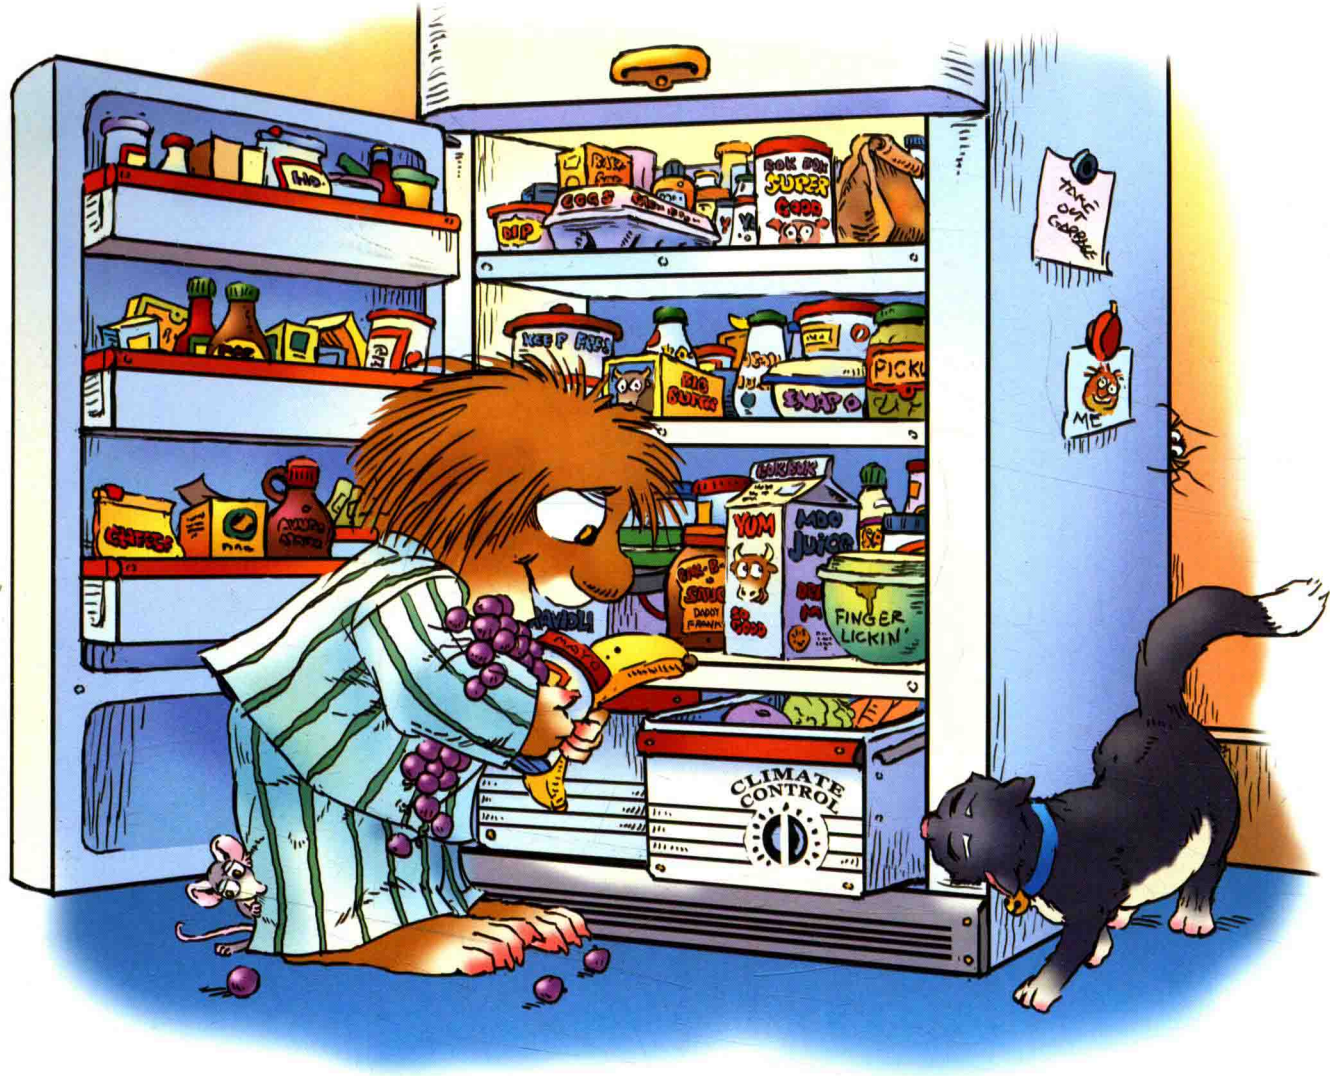

Our teacher thought I should dig smaller holes.

We made signs that said: REDUCE! REUSE! RECYCLE!
Then we put the signs up everywhere to remind everyone how they can help, too.

That night I couldn't sleep, so I went to the kitchen for a snack. Then I saw a little sign that said: CLIMATE CONTROL.
