6 Who sits where ?

6.1 The tactful host's seating plan — problem solving

Eight foreign experts from different countries, working in different places in China, are now coming together to have a grand dinner. Four foreign affairs officials, each having information about two foreign experts, meet to discuss how the eight ought to be seated round a circular table.

Work in groups of four. Imagine you are the four foreign affairs officials meeting to discuss the dinner. Each of you will be given information about two of the foreign experts. Exchange information and work out an ideal seating plan for the dinner. Write each expert's initial in one of the seats in the diagram below. When you have finished, compare your plan with that of the other groups.
