Part.

Once upon a time, there was a pretty little town lived a pretty little girl.

The girl always put on a little red riding hood. So people called her Little Red Riding Hood.

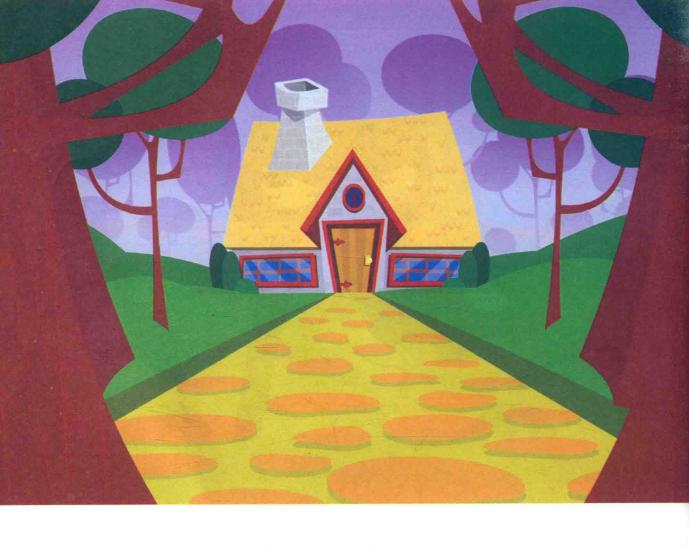

One day, Little Red Riding Hood's mother said to her, "dear daughter, your grandma is ill. Please take this basket of food to her."

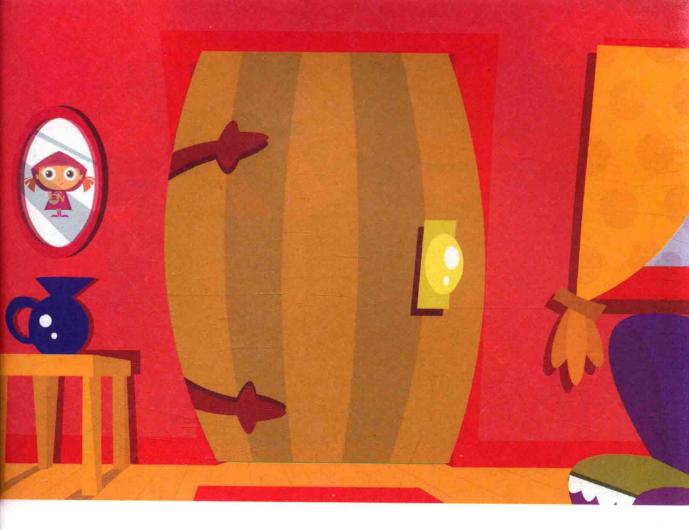

But at that time, a bad wolf stood near their window. And he heard the mother's words.

He wanted the food for himself. So he thought and thought, and he got an idea.

The wolf ran to grandma's house quickly.

When he got there, he knocked at the door.

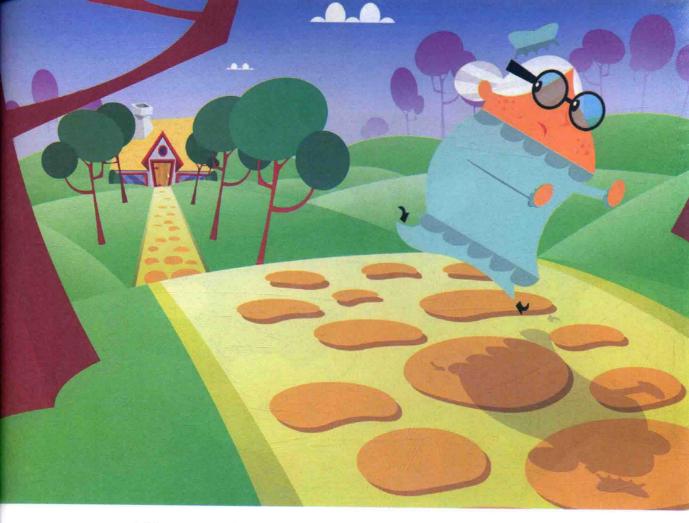

"Who's it?" asked the grandma.

"It's me, Little Red Riding Hood!" the wolf swept his voice and his voice was so sweet.

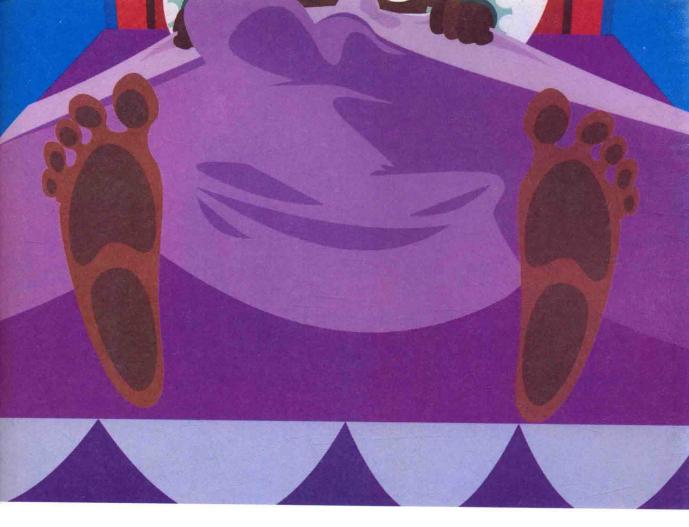

Grandma opened the door.

When she saw the wolf, she ran out of the house.

Then, the wolf came into grandma's house.

He put on grandma's clothes, laid on grandma's bed, and covered his big nose with the blanket.
