成人本科学士学位英语备考复习方法

对于备战成人本科学士学位英语考试的莘莘学子来说，有正确合理的复习策略和学习方法才能确保自己立于不败之地。学苑教育（www. xycentre. com）结合多年成人本科学士学位英语考试辅导经验和考生的情况，为大家总结了一些有效的学习方法供考试参考。

[三大复习阶段]

第一阶段

(1) 掌握大纲提供的词汇和词组；

(2) 浏览近几年的真题，弄清考什么、怎么考；

(3) 明确自己的薄弱点，如词汇语法、阅读能力、写作水平等；

(4) 每天读 3～5 篇英文短文，有意识地不断提高英文水平。

第二阶段

细水长流、大量练习巩固阶段。根据自身的薄弱环节，复习巩固已学知识，认真分析总结历年真题，定期或不定期地计时做模拟训练，对知识进行全面的检查和积累。

第三阶段

英语水平基本确定阶段。关键是考生要保持良好的竞技状态，不断调整备考心态。要坚信：我是最棒的，我一定可以通过考试！信心是最重要的。

[三大复习重点]

1. 词汇

第一个重点是掌握大量的英语词汇。因为词汇是英语考试的基础，没有词汇量，很难取得高分。考生在第一个阶段就必须不断扩大自己的词汇量。背单词的秘诀就是“大量和重复”。

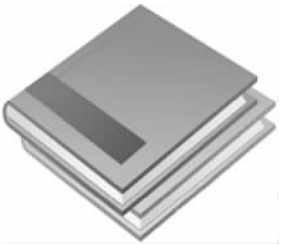

2. 阅读

第二个重点是大量的阅读。在半年的复习备考中，除了要做专门的阅读理解练习外，还要阅读一定量的英语报刊。同时，还有训练自己的快速阅读能力、上下文推理能力等，这对于解答新题有很大好处。

3. 写作

第三个重点是英语写作。英语写作一定要写真题作文，写完后再与范文对照，检查是否切题，行文是否流畅，有无低级的语法错误，是否包含考试要点，用词是否广泛，句式是否有变化。也可以背诵一部分作文模板，在考试时直接套用。

Passage One

One of Britain's bravest women told yesterday how she helped to catch suspected (可疑的) police killer David Bieber, and was thanked with flowers by the police. It was also said that she could be in line for a share of up to the £30,000 reward money.

Vicki Brown, 30, played a very important role in ending the nationwide manhunt. Vicki, who has worked at the Royal Hotel for four years, told of her terrible experience when she had to steal into Bieber's bedroom and to watch him secretly. Then she waited alone for three hours while armed police prepared to storm the building.

She said: "I was very nervous. But when I opened the hotel door and saw 20 armed policemen lined up in the car park I was so glad they were there."

The alarm had been raised because Vicki became suspicious (怀疑) of the guest who checked in at 3 pm the day before New Year's Eve with little luggage and wearing sunglasses and a hat pulled down over his face. She said: "He didn't seem to want to talk too much and make any eye contact (接触)." Vicki, the only employee on duty, called her boss Margaret, 64, and husband Stan McKale, 65, who phoned the police at 11 pm.

Officers from Northumbria Police called Vicki at the hotel in Dunston, Gateshead, at about 11:30 pm to make sure that this was the wanted man. Then they kept in touch by phoning Vicki every 15 minutes.

"It was about ten past two in the morning when the phone went again and a policeman said 'Would you go and make yourself known to the armed officers outside?' My heart missed a beat."

Vicki quietly showed eight armed officers through passages and staircases to the top floor room and handed over the key.

"I realized that my bedroom window overlooks that part of the hotel, so I went to

Passage Two

A university graduate described as a "respectable and intelligent" woman is seeking professional help after being convicted of shoplifting for the second time in six months.

Ana Luz, recently studying for her PhD, has been told she could end up behind bars unless she can control the desire to steal from shops.

Luz, who lives with her partner in Fitzwilliam Road, Cambridge, admitted stealing clothes worth £9.95 from John Lewis in Oxford Street, London, on March 9.

Phillip Lemoyne, prosecuting, said Luz selected some clothes from a display and took them to the ladies' toilet in the store. When she came out again she was wearing one of the skirts she had selected, having taken off the anti-theft security alarms.

She was stopped and caught after leaving the store without paying, Mr. Lemoyne said.

He added that she was upset on her arrest and apologized for her actions.

Luz, 28, was said to have been convicted of shoplifting by Cambridge judges last October, but Morag Duff, defending, said she had never been in trouble with the police before that.

"She is ashamed and embarrassed but doesn't really have any explanation why she did this," Miss Duff said. "She didn't intend to steal when she went into the store. She is at a loss to explain it. She is otherwise a very respectable and intelligent young lady. She went to her doctor and asked for advice because she wants to know if there is anything in particular that caused her to do this."

Judge David Azan fined Luz £50, and warned: "You've got a criminal record. If you carry on like this, you will end up in prison, which will ruin your bright future you may have."

Luz achieved a degree in design at a university in her native Spain, went on to a famous university in Berlin, Germany for her master's degree and is now studying for a PhD at Cambridge University, UK.

Passage Three

It seems that some people go out of their way to get into trouble. That's more or less what happened the night that Nashville Police Officer Floyd Hyde was on duty.

"I was on the way to a personal-injury accident in West Nashville. As I got onto Highway 40, blue lights and sirens going, I fell in behind a gold Pontiac Firebird that suddenly seemed to take off quickly down the highway. The driver somehow panicked at the sight of me. He was going more than a hundred miles an hour and began passing cars on the shoulder."

But Hyde couldn't go after him. Taking care of injured people is always more important than worrying about speeders, so the officer had to stay on his way to the accident. But he did try to keep the Firebird in sight as he drove, hoping another nearby unit would be able to step in and stop the speeding car. As it turned out, keeping the Firebird in sight was not that difficult. Every turn the Pontiac made was the very turn the officer needed to get to the accident scene.

Hyde followed the Pontiac all the way to his destination. At that point he found another unit had already arrived at the accident scene. His help wasn't needed. Now he was free to try to stop the driver of the Firebird, who by this time had developed something new to panic about.

"Just about that time," Hyde says, "I saw fire coming out from under that car, with blue smoke and oil going everywhere. He'd blown his engine. Now he had to stop."

"After I arrested him, I asked him why he was running. He told me he didn't have a driver's license."

That accident cost the driver of the Firebird plenty—a thousand dollars for the new engine—not to mention the charges for driving without a license, attempting to run away, and dangerous driving.

26. The meaning of "panicked" in Paragraph 2 is related to _____ .

A. shame B. hate C. anger D. fear

27. Why did the driver of the Firebird suddenly speed down the highway?

A. Because he was racing with another driver on the road.

B. Because he realized he had to hurry to the accident scene.

C. Because he thought the police officer wanted to stop him.

D. Because he wanted to overtake other cars on the shoulder.

28. Which of the following statements is true?

A. Someone else was taking care of the injured person.

B. The Pontiac reached its destination at the accident scene.

C. Hyde knew where he was going by following the right car.

D. The policeman was running after a speeder on Highway 40.

29. The driver of the Firebird _____ .

A. took a wrong turn on the way

B. had some trouble with his car

C. was stopped by the police officer

D. paid for the expenses of the accident

30. What is probably the best title for the article?

A. Losing His Way?　　B. Going My Way?

C. Fun All the Way?　　D. Help on the Way?

Passage Four

I was a freshman in college when I met the Whites. They were completely different from my own family, yet I felt at home with them immediately. Jane White and I became friends at school, and her family welcomed me like a long-lost cousin.

In my family, it was always important to place blame when anything bad happened.

"Who did this?" my mother would scream about a dirty kitchen.

"This is all your fault, Katharine," my father would insist when the cat got out or the dishwasher broke.

From the time we were little, my sister, brothers and I told on each other. We set a place for blame at the dinner table.

But the Whites didn't worry about who had done what. They picked up the pieces and moved on with their lives. The beauty of this was driven home to me the summer Jane died.

In July, the White sisters and I decided to take a car trip from their home in Florida to New York. The two older sisters, Sarah and Jane, were college students, and the youngest, Amy, had recently turned sixteen. Proud of having a new driver's license, Amy was excited about practicing her driving on the trip. She showed off her license to everyone she met.

The big sisters shared the driving of Sarah's new car during the first part of the trip, but when they reached less crowded areas, they let Amy take over. Somewhere in South Carolina, we pulled off the highway to eat. After lunch, Amy got behind the wheel. She came to a crossroads with a stop sign. Whether she was nervous or just didn't see the sign no one would ever know, but Amy continued into the crossroads without stopping. The driver of a large truck, unable to stop in time, ran into our car.

Jane was killed immediately.

I was slightly injured. The most difficult thing that I've ever done was to call the Whites to tell them about the accident and that Jane had died. Painful as it was for me to lose a good friend, I knew that it was far worse for them to lose a child.

When Mr. and Mrs. White arrived at the hospital, they found their two daughters sharing a room. Sarah had a few cuts on the head; Amy's leg was broken. They hugged us all and cried tears of sadness and of joy at seeing their daughters. They wiped away the girls' tears and made a few jokes at Amy as she learned to use her crutches.

To both of their daughters, and especially to Amy, over and over they simply said, "We're so glad that you're alive."

I was astonished. No blame. No accusations.

Later, I asked the Whites why they never talked about the fact that Amy was driving and had run a stop sign.

Mrs. White said, "Jane's gone, and we miss her terribly. Nothing we say or do will ever bring her back. But Amy has her whole life ahead of her. How can she lead a full and happy life if she feels we blame her for her sister's death?"

They were right. Amy graduated from the University of California and got married several years ago. She works as a teacher of learning-disabled students. She's also a mother of two little girls of her own, the elder one named Jane.

31. How did the author's parents differ from the Whites?

A. The author's parents were less caring.

B. The author's parents were less loving.

C. The author's parents were less friendly.

D. The author's parents were less understanding.

32. How did the accident occur?

A. Amy didn't stop at a crossroads and a truck hit their car.

B. Amy didn't know what to do when she saw the stop sign.

C. Amy didn't slow down so their car ran into a truck.

D. Amy didn't get off the highway at a crossroads.

33. The accident took place in _____ .

A. Florida　　B. California

C. South Carolina　　D. New York

34. The Whites did not blame Amy for Jane's death because _____ .

A. they didn't want Amy to feel ashamed and sorry for the rest of her life

B. Amy was badly injured herself and they didn't want to add to her pain

C. they didn't want to blame their children in front of others

D. Amy was their youngest daughter and they loved her best

35. From the passage we can learn that _____ .

A. Amy has never recovered from the shock

B. Amy changed her job after the accident

C. Amy lost her memory after the accident

D. Amy has lived quite a normal life
