Passage 1

China snooker star Ding Junhui on Tuesday donated 276 meat pies to the Homeless and Rootless at Christmas (HARC), a Sheffield voluntary group which looks after homeless people over the festive period.

Ding beat John Higgins 10-8 in the final of snooker's second-biggest ranking event, the UK Championship, on Sunday and part of his prize was 69 kilos worth of pie—his body weight.

“We all wanted to win those pies and when we weighed up we all wore more clothes and I even wanted to put some balls in my pockets but they were found,” Ding joked.

“I’ve lived in Sheffield for the past few years and I love the city. The least I can do is try to help some of those less fortunate than me at Christmas by donating these pies—hopefully there are enough pies to stop people going hungry,” Ding said.

A spokesman for HARC said, “This is a fantastic gesture and we are so grateful for the generosity of Ding and Pukka Pies. The donation is a great help to us in feeding those who come to us because they have nowhere else to go as we are the only Sheffield organization which is open to help the homeless over Christmas and New Year.”

The Tournament sponsor Pukka Pies’ marketing and business development controller, Peter Mayes, said: “Ding was a very worthy winner of the UK Championship and we are delighted with his wish to help the HARC at Christmas. We hope the delivery of pies will bring some early Christmas cheer to the homeless in Sheffield.”

SHANGHAI (Dec 12, 2009)—Houston Rockets' Chinese center Yao Ming said he would focus mainly on the running of Shanghai Sharks back in China and would probably return to NBA by next season.

Yao came back to Shanghai on Tuesday night, mainly to fulfill his duty as the sole shareholder of Shanghai Sharks, the name of which had been changed to Shanghai Sharks-Maxxis Tires basketball team as Maxxis Tires signed with Yao's management team to be the team's title sponsor on Friday morning.

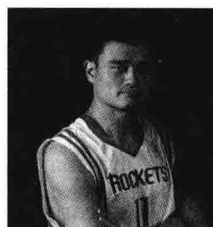

"I used to be a player of Shanghai Sharks, and now I become the boss of the team. But no matter the identity changes, I hope that Shanghai Sharks would soon return to glory and take on a new look for fans in Shanghai and all over China," said Yao on the signing ceremony.

The Chinese Basketball Association (CBA) league will kick off on Saturday with its opener between Zhejiang Guangsha and Shanghai Sharks. According to Shanghai Sharks spokesman Zhang Chi, about 3,000 tickets of the opening game have been sold out.

Yao would also appear at the opener Saturday night at Yuanshen Stadium of Pudong District, Shanghai.

Speaking of the time to return to the NBA, Yao said he might be completely recovered by next season, but so far he didn't know exactly what day it would start as the game schedule had not come out yet.

Earlier this year Yao became the sole owner of the financially troubled domestic team, which had struggled to make the playoffs since he left. Yao started playing for the Sharks as a teenager, leading them to their only CBA title before he left for the NBA in 2002.

Passage 5

If there was a Nobel Prize for Music, Chinese pianist Lang Lang would probably get one.

The talented 27-year-old musician is widely acclaimed as one of the world's best piano players. He was also listed by Time Magazine recently as one of the 100 Most Influential People in the World. And People Magazine said he was one of the 100 sexiest men on the planet in 2008.

But there is no such a thing as a Nobel Prize for Music, so the Chinese superstar had to settle for the next best thing this week: Being invited to play at the Nobel Prize Concert in Stockholm.

He took part in the event in 2007 and he was back again this year to perform not only at the Nobel Prize Concert tonight but also at yesterday's black-tie Nobel Prize Ceremony in Oslo where US President Barack Obama was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

Lang Lang selected Chopin's solo Etude Op. 10 No 3 in E major, also known as Tristesse, as the piece he would play before Obama delivered his acceptable speech.

"I chose this piece because it is a very peaceful piece, a melodic tone poem that is consistent with the message of the peace prize," Lang Lang told China Daily in Beijing on Monday before he headed for Oslo.

"I really hope that the message can be sent out to the world through Chopin's music. I was honored to be invited back to the Nobel Prize Concert and when I was told to play at the ceremony for President Obama, who was going to be awarded the Peace Prize, I was really, really excited.

"The Peace Prize is significant. Everybody should contribute to world peace, no matter whether you are a world leader or an ordinary person. It's my privilege to send a peaceful message around the world through music."

Lang Lang also performed Franz Liszt's A Dream of Love after Obama's speech.

Tonight, he plans to play George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue at the annual Nobel Peace Prize Concert, which will also feature British pop singer Natasha Bedingfield, American country music singer Toby Keith and other international musicians.

Lang Lang said his Lang Lang International Music Foundation plans to start work next year in China where it will set about discovering, nurturing and financing children with musical talent. "The foundation will carefully select the children we are going to support and, of course, I will listen to the kids playing personally," said Lang Lang.

Passage 6

Every country has its heroes. The heroes are the people the nations and especially the young people 1. If you get a list of the heroes of a nation, it will tell you the potential of that nation.

Today in America, if you ask the high school students to list their heroes, their choices would probably 2 three groups. The first group of heroes would be the rock stars — the people 3 with rock music. There is no doubt 4 such people do have talent but one wonders if one should 5 rock stars as a model. The rock stars too often are mixed with drugs and their personal life is not all 6 good. The rock stars are rich and wear 7 the fashion styles. However, one should seek 8 in a hero than such things 9 money and good clothes.

A second type of hero for the American youth is the sports stars. Again you have a person who has a great ability in one 10 — sports. However, too often the person life of the sports stars is 11 a disorder. Too frequently drugs and 12 are a part of the life of the sports stars.

A third type of hero is the movie stars. These persons may have lots of acting talent and are quite handsome. 13, the personal life of too many actors is quite sad and they 14 not be held up as a model of young people. Today, the rock star, the 15, and the actor all have become the models of the youth in America. Really, do you hear a young person say that his hero is a doctor, a teacher, 16 a scientist? These people are not rich and do not wear fashionable clothes. However, they are 17 people who work hard to make the world a better place for everyone.

What is really sad is that they young try to imitate their heroes. They like to wear the same clothes and 18 their styles. If the heroes of today for the American young people are 19 only to rock stars, athletes and actors, the future does not look too 20.
