What budgies look like

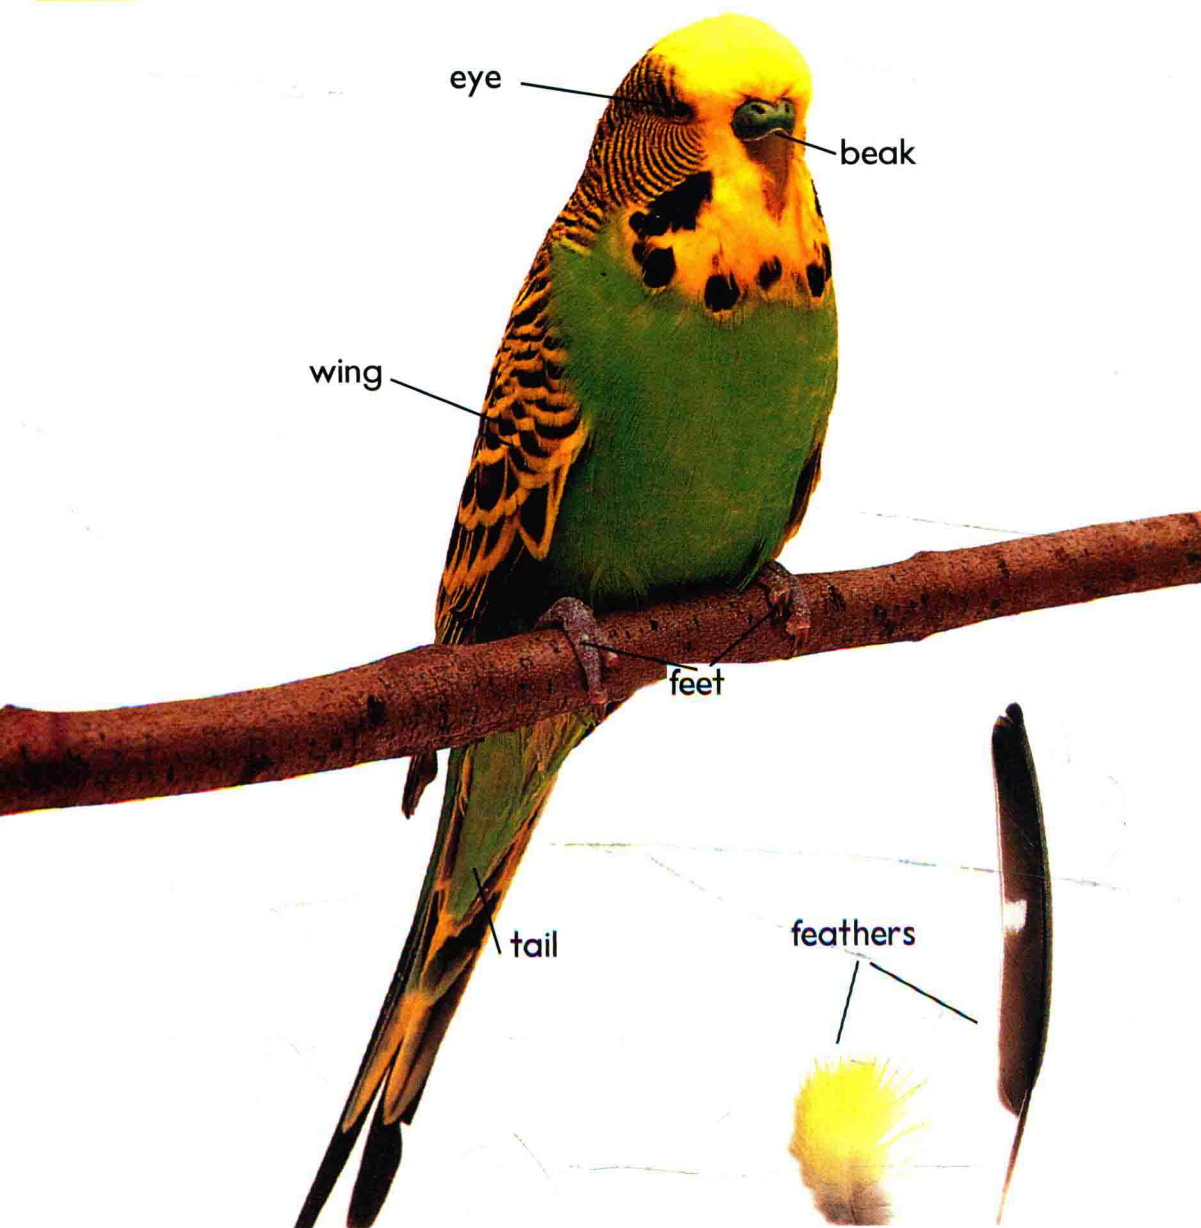

These birds are wild budgies.
They are green, with yellow heads.
They have black spots
on their necks.

Some pet budgies are green, too.
They look like wild budgies.
Other pet budgies are blue,
or yellow or white.

Are wild budgies green and yellow?

Yes. Wild budgies are green and yellow.

A budgie has two eyes
and a beak.

It has two feet with claws.

It has two wings
and a long tail
and it has feathers
to keep it warm.

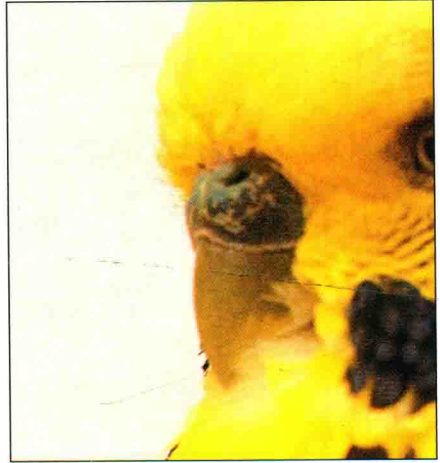

Budgies have ears,
but you cannot see them.

They are hidden under their feathers.

Do budgies have ears?

Budgies' beaks

Budgies' beaks help them to open seeds.

Pet budgies climb around inside their cages.

Their beaks help them.

Budgies climb with their beaks and with their feet.

Yes. Budgies have ears.
They are hidden under their feathers.

How do budgies climb?

Budgies' food

Pet budgies eat birdseed.

They like apple
and carrot
and lettuce
and they like
green dandelion leaves.

Budgies drink clean water.

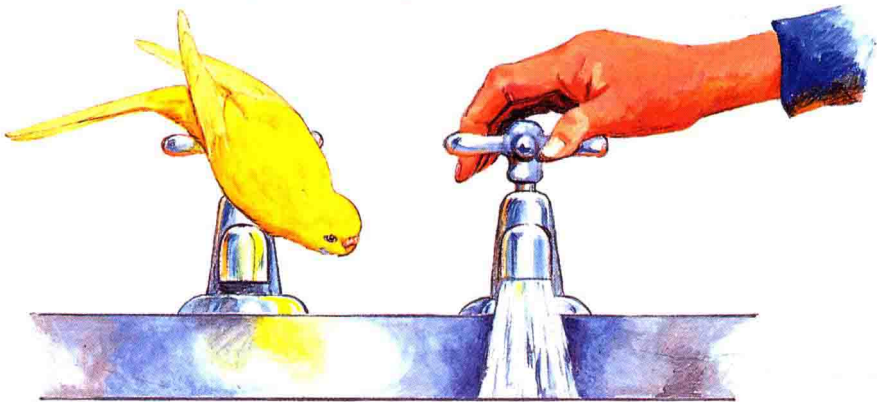

They climb with their beaks and their feet.

Tame budgies and water

Some budgies like having warm baths.

This budgie flies to the sink when the water is running. He likes playing in the water.

Do budgies eat seeds?

Hen birds and cock birds

Mother budgies are called hen budgies.

Father budgies are called cock budgies.

cock

hen

A cock budgie has a blue patch
above its beak.

A hen budgie
has a brown patch.

Yes. Budgies do eat seeds.

Nests, eggs and baby birds

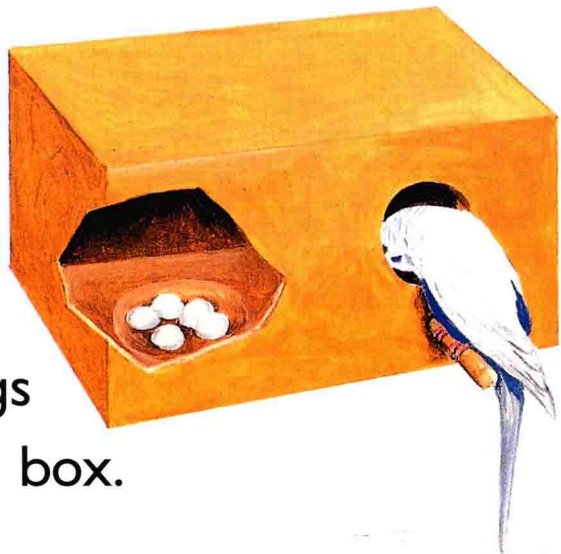

All baby birds
come from eggs.

Wild budgies
lay their eggs
in holes in trees.

They do not make nests.

Pet budgies
lay their eggs
in a nesting box.

What are mother budgies called?

This hen budgie
is inside her nesting box.
She is sitting on her eggs
to keep them warm.

Mother budgies are called hen budgies.

Baby budgies
come from the eggs.
They are bare
with no feathers.
They will grow feathers
when they are bigger.

Why do hen budgies sit on their eggs?

When the baby budgies
have their new feathers
they come out of their box.
Then they try to fly.
Soon they can fly
all around their cage.

Young budgies
have short tails.

They sit on their eggs to keep them warm.
