IV. Reading

Choose the best answer for each of the following questions.

In the primary school, Gaudalupe Quintanilla was often regarded as a "slow learner" by her teachers. But she really wasn't slow at all. She just didn't understand the language used in the classroom. Her problem was that she didn't speak English. So she left school after the fourth grade.

When Gaudalupe grew up, married and had her children of her own, she knew her children were clever. But some of their teachers didn't think so. The children were having trouble in school because they didn't speak English. Mrs. Quintanilla was angry. She didn't want people to think that her children were slow learners. So she decided to learn English herself as a way of helping them. She practiced English. She looked up words in the dictionary. She asked the school headmaster to let her sit in the classes. It wasn't easy, but she passed all her exams.

Mrs. Quintanilla has helped her children with their lessons. Her two sons have won success. One is a teacher, and the other is a doctor. Her youngest child, a daughter, is studying in a university.

IV. Reading

Choose the best answer for each of the following questions.

Dear Alice,

You really have two different problems here. But don't be so unhappy. Let's discuss them together. Your problems at school may be a result of a number of things. Don't worry about that you can't get along with your classmates. It's possible that all the students are feeling a little cautious (谨慎的) in the first term.

Maybe some classmates are unkind. But you must be friendly. You can't be unkind, either.

In your letter you say you often help others with their work. Is it possible that your classmates don't understand you? Maybe you don't understand it. So they may have felt hurt at that time. It may take a time for them to understand you. Try to ask one classmate what the problem is.

If you hear a negative (负面的) answer, at least you'll know what to do.

Yours truly,
Shelia
