颐和园始建于公元1750年，原名清漪园，是清王朝的御园。1860年被英法联军焚毁，1888年重建后改名为颐和园。1900年又遭八国联军浩劫和破坏，1902年再次修复，是清王朝末期帝、后活动和避暑的行宫。

颐和园主要由万寿山和昆明湖组成。万寿山碧岫晴烟，青葱叠翠；昆明湖烟波浩渺，碧水荡漾。凭湖远眺，玉泉山、西山余脉尽收眼底，逶迤细腾，一片湖光山色。园内建筑星罗棋布。殿堂楼阁金碧辉煌，廊舫桥榭雕梁画栋，亭院馆轩柔美典雅。后山后湖曲径峡溪，恬静深幽。奇花异卉，四时景胜，万物生机勃勃。楹联墨迹，文物珠宝，皆是稀世珍藏。颐和园凝聚了中华传统文化的精粹和中华民族的智慧，是国家重点文物保护单位，并被列入世界文化遗产名录。

游览颐和园，犹入仙境，使人心旷神怡。

《颐和园风景油画集》是胡大乐先生30余年来在颐和园的熏陶下勤奋耕耘的精心创作。作者通过油画的艺术形式，从不同时间、视角、景深反映颐和园的秀美。作品不仅有风格意境，而且表现了中华传统文化的博大与精深。

当您静心欣赏这册画集的时候，一定会领略到中华文化的神韵和风采。

The Summer Palace, originally called "Qing Yi Yuan", the Garden of Clear Ripples, was first built in 1750. It was a royal garden of the Qing Dynasty. However, the Anglo-French Allied Forces burnt down the Summer Palace to ashes in 1860. The ruler of the Qing Dynasty had it restored in 1888, and changed its name to "Yi He Yuan", the Park of Nurtured Harmony. Foreigners call it the Summer Palace. In 1900, it was devastated and destroyed a second time by the Eight-Power Allied Forces and was rebuilt in 1902. The Summer Palace was the place for the emperor and empress to have political activities and rest in the late period of the Qing Dynasty.

The Summer Palace is formed mainly by the Longevity Hill and Kunming Lake. The Longevity Hill is so verdant that when the weather is nice, parts of it will be covered with thin fog sometimes. Kunming Lake is a boundless expanse of clear water, with ripples dancing. When one stands by the lake and looks afar, the Yuquan Hill and the branches of the West mountain ranges rising and falling in the distance all come into view, presenting beautiful scenery of lake and mountains. The buildings spread all over the park like stars in the sky. The halls and towers are resplendent and magnificent; the verandas and bridges are richly ornamented; the courtyards and pavilions are graceful and refined. It is rather peaceful and secluded around the Back Hill and Back Lake. The flower-beds can be found everywhere in the place. Every season enjoys wonderful scenery. Everything is full of life. A great quantity of valuable scrolls of calligraphy, cultural relics and treasures are collected. The Summer Palace is an embodiment of the cream of the Chinese culture and the wisdom of the Chinese people. It is an important historical site under state protection and enrolled in UNESCO'S World Heritage list.

When visiting the Summer Palace, people enjoy the scenery of lake and hills, enchanting as fairyland and may feel complete freedom of heart and ease of spirit.

"The Collection of Summer Palace Scenery Oil Painting "was produced by Mr. Hu Dale, nurtured in the inner and external beauty of the Palace for over thirty years. The author mirrored the beauty of the Summer Palace in different times, from different views through the art form of oil painting. The work not only has a style and artistic conception, but also expresses the author's diligent spirit for creating the new art form of oil painting.

When appreciating the paintings, you not only can enjoy the beautiful sceneries and paintings, but also can taste the romantic charm and graceful bearing of Chinese culture.
