Mom took Little Critter shopping in Critterville. He chose a green scarf. He used all the money in his piggy bank. "I hope Miss Kitty likes it," he said. "Green is her favorite color."

After dinner, Little Critter wanted to wrap Miss Kitty's present. Just then, he saw Blue tugging at something under the bed. It was the scarf!

"No, Blue!" cried Little Critter.

But Blue ran. Little Critter chased Blue.
He grabbed the other end of the scarf.
Blue tugged. Little Critter tugged.
They both tugged until...

...they tore the scarf in half.

“Oh, no! Tomorrow is the Christmas party,” said Little Critter. “And my present is ruined.”

“Maybe we can fix it,” said Mom.

Little Critter tried to glue the scarf back together. The glue did not work. So, Little Critter stapled the scarf together instead. Then Little Sister sprinkled some glitter on it. Blue even tried to help.

“Mom, do you like it?” asked Little Critter.

“I love it,” said Mom. “Remember, it’s the thought that counts.”

But Little Critter was not so sure.
