开心英语 满分命题库

大揭秘

开心英语BPT满分命题库是开心英语研究中心旗下数据结合程序分析、搜索引擎等机器运算技术、网络技术而构建的真题、题源两大数据库。

B 即Bright English 开心英语为你提供满分解决方案

P 即Past Exam Paper-Database 真题数据库

T 即Test Material-Database 题源数据库

真题数据库 PEP-Database

真题数据库

(Past Exam Paper-Database)

该库负责收集全国各地历年中高考真题数据，并分三步组织入库。

第一步 初始收集

保证数据全新、全面、全真。

第二步 初步整理

通过人机结合的手段从主题、选材入手细分进入各子数据库。

第三步 深入整理

各子数据库再依据考点、题型、干扰项、命题难度进一步分入数据库。

题源数据库 TM-Database

题源数据库

(Test Material-Database)

该库的建构是开心英语命题系统的素材来源和命题依据，其数据维护是长期性、固定性的工作。

数据组编辑工作内容

1

每天从题源网站、报刊收集其更新的题源素材数据。

这两大数据库直通考场及题源，确保高仿真命题，从最大限度上确保命题押中机率。

开心英语B9+是开心英语在构建和维护BPT数据库的基础上，组织编辑、作者、命题专家、一线名师在充分研讨、深入分析真题后，逆推历年命题思路，研究考点、把握和预测命题动向的研发方案。

B 即Bright English 开心英语为你提供满分解决方案。

9+ 即完成命题至少须经过以下九个阶段，这个过程是开心英语命题方案的核心所在。

1 第一轮命题：开放式命题。作者、命题专家独立自由开放式命题。

2 第一轮命题整理、生成第一本样稿。

3 第二轮命题：优化式命题。将第一套试题样本分发给作者、命题专家进行分别优化。

4 第二轮命题整理、生成第二本样稿。

5 第一轮样本测试：采取两次真题测试加一次开心英语命题测试的形式。根据一定比率抽取水平层次不同的1000名学生，通过两次真题测试把握考生水平分布及真题标准；最后通过一次命题测试把握开心英语命题误差。

6 第三轮命题：修正式命题。通过测试结果分析出来的误差情况，找到误差原因并进行修正命题，如调整题目设置方式、调整词汇结构等。

7 第二轮样本测试：本次参加测试的学生一部分为参加过第一轮样本测试的学生，更大一部分为未参加过测试的学生。通过测试进一步确认命题误差系数。直到误差系数达到最小。

8 第三轮命题整理、生成第三本样稿：至此，开心英语命题在合理性和科学性上已趋完美。

9 生成终稿，三校四清。

通过B9+研发方案的实践，开心英语保证呈现给每一位学生的产品都是最优质的产品，最符合当年学生备考使用的英语专项助学读物。

Today, I was at an ATM that is situated inside a petrol bunk (加油站). The security guard who was a 72-year-old man gently 1 me that I cannot use my cell phone inside the ATM. When I came outside, I had a 2 to talk with him.

At first, I felt a little 3. In my initial impression, he seemed like a poor, elderly retired man who was still working at this ATM. I ended up 4 him.

He spoke to me about his family, and 5 about his son and daughter. He told me that his daughter always 6 him, even though she is married herself. Then he described his 7, who "has a heart of stone". He 8 me to save money for my old age not that I am all that young, and I told him that I give away everything, trusting in the bounty (慷慨) of 9.

As we spoke, he opened up quite a bit. He simply 10 telling me about his life—his family, his limited income, and how the family still thrives (出色应对) 11 all the hardships. I had 12 to give except time.

I thought about giving him 13, but I didn't feel quite right. I have 14 the mistake in the past, and as we spoke, it became 15 that he wanted my time, not my money. I did not want to take away his 16 by giving him money.

By the time the 17 ended, I was close to tears. Ordinary people—when given the opportunity to 18 their story—are real treasures.

Sometimes, time and 19 are the best gifts you can give. It certainly made my day to 20 and be in the presence of this elder.

All through my childhood, I was very good at sports. I had been known as a fast runner when I was young.

When we moved to America, I was excited and 1 that I was able to compete with many tall, long-legged American girls and win the victory. 2, because I had piano lessons every Monday and had to 3 practice once a week, I was unable to 4 my spot in the relay and some other girls took it. Track slowly 5 from me as I continued to miss practice to attend my piano lessons.

Gradually, the image of "sportswoman" no longer 6 to me. I was that Chinese girl who was smart and sometimes funny, but never 7. I began to fear gym class, even though it had been one of my 8 classes when I was younger.

When I stopped playing sports, I started 9 weight. My body was short and fat and I hated it. Because I was so 10 at sports, I had no real way to keep fit. The summer before my senior year of high school, after a fit of tears and anger, I decided to start 11 again. That summer, I lost about twenty pounds and I felt 12.

But this story isn't about my weight-loss 13. It's about the importance of playing sports. 14 I don't play sports any more, I still watch them on television. I love the NBA. I love watching basketball and seeing these men jump to 15 sink the ball into the tiny basket.

Sticking with something even if you don't think you're very good at it is just a 16 of endurance (忍耐力) that comes with learning a sport. I never 17 that endurance. I sometimes look at my classmates 18. Strong, built, and confident. There isn't anything in the world like being good at a 19.

So whatever it is you're doing, if it's 20, stick with it. You won't regret it.

This life is so full of beautiful moments. All you have to do is open your eyes and your 1 to see them. I saw one just the other day. The local elementary school had just let out and I 2 myself behind a school bus as I was 3 home. The bus stopped by a 4 sitting on top of a hill. A little girl no more than 7 years old hopped down the bus steps and started 5 up the driveway toward the house. The 6 on her face was contagious (有传染性的). Her long hair was bouncing off her shoulders and her pink backpack was trailing behind her 7 as she ran. I looked up the hill to see where she was going and saw her Dad 8 her. As she got closer and closer her Dad smiled and knelt down to 9 her. The second she got to him he wrapped his 10 arms around her and gave her a huge hug.

My eyes 11 a bit as I watched this 12 and remembered all the times my own children had run into my 13 with smiling faces and loving hearts. Every single 14 from them was a fountain of youth and a treasure of 15.

My lovely trip down memory lane was 16 when I heard the car behind me honk its horn. I saw the school bus 17 pulling away and started to follow it again. I did so, 18, with a fuller heart and lighter 19 than I had before. I 20 that beautiful moment and stored it safely in my soul where I knew it would remain forever.

A magazine article told about a woman in rural Florida who was recovering from a lengthy illness. She enjoyed sitting on her front porch in her 1 and, on this day, she watched her son 2 his car. He raised it on blocks of wood, removed the tires and 3 on his back underneath the vehicle.

4 there was a loud crack and the car lurched (摇晃) to one side, pinning the young man underneath. She 5 for her husband who ran to assist his son, but he couldn't 6 the car or the young man. He climbed into his own vehicle and sped off for 7.

The mother, who hadn't 8 in months, realized that her son's groans were growing 9 and she knew that it would be up to her to 10 the boy. She rose to her feet and walked on 11 legs to the car. Bracing herself, she 12. The car rose a few inches—just enough to let the boy get 13. Then she collapsed.

After a thorough 14, she was found only to have suffered strained muscles. And the 15 doctor's words were most telling: "I will always wonder," he said, "how far she might have lifted that car if she had been 16 and strong."

We've read similar stories about persons exhibiting almost super-human 17 in times of crises. This mother, and others like her, found the strength she needed, when she needed it, to 18 the crisis at hand.

And so it is with all of us. When life 19 us down and it seems impossible to get back up, we need to find a way to do what needs to be done. We are 20 than we think.

One day, on my way back from work, I pulled into the Dunkin Donuts drive-through. I was tired, 1, worried about money and bills as usual! I was 2 this woman in a Volkswagen with a "Life is Good!" sticker on the back window.

As she 3 her hand out of the window to pay for her order, I saw her 4 which were neatly cut and polished and the 5 jewelry on her arm. Her hair looked like she'd just been to the salon.

6, my envy kicked in and I started to complain. 'Must be nice!' and various other selfish 7 went through my mind. I was also a little annoyed when I saw her material 8 and her "Life is Good" attitude.

When it was my 9 to pay for my order, the cashier told me that the lady in the Volkswagen had paid for it! I was told that she 10 goes through the drive-through, gets a cup of coffee, 11 with a $ 20 bill and puts the remaining money towards those behind her in 12.

I felt grateful and very ashamed of my own attitude. I tried to 13 her to give her a thank-you wave, but soon she 14 into the traffic.

Since then, I have done 15 things occasionally, such as paying for someone behind me, 16 a lonely man a Thanksgiving meal at Cracker Barrel. Each time, I'll 17 the lady in the Volkswagen and her kindness. And I 18 that little things really make a difference 19 they do have an influence on others. Now my mother makes it a 20 for her to buy meals for people in restaurants anonymously.

My parents left for our native land on Thursday and we went to the airport to see them off. In fact, my father had 1 traveled by air before, so I just took this opportunity to 2 he experienced his first flight. In spite of being asked to 3 tickets by train, I got them tickets on Jet Airways.

The moment I handed over the tickets to him, he was 4 to see that I had booked them by air. The 5 was very apparent on his face. Just like a school boy, he was 6 himself for that day. We all went to the airport and eagerly enjoyed the entire checking-in 7, right from using the trolley for his luggage to asking for a window seat. He was 8 enjoying himself and I, too, was happy to 9 him experience all these things with such a 10 of thrill.

As they were about to 11 security, he walked up to me with tears in his eyes and thanked me. He became very emotional and it was not as if I had done something 12 but the fact that this meant 13 to him made my heart leap. When he said "thanks," I told him there was no 14 to thank me. But later, thinking about the entire 15, I looked back at my life.

Regrets from the last days with my mother

About a week before my mom died, she asked me not to leave her side. She was in a hospital bed. I stayed with her, slept just 1 her bed at night, and would often lay my 2 across the 12 inches of air space between us, letting my skin 3 her skin so she knew I was there when she stopped talking and 4 her eyes.

But after several days of this, I got 5. I took breaks and 6 my return to her bedroom. I took phone calls outside. These moments spent 7 from my mother during her final days fill me with 8. What if she woke up and 9 consciousness long enough to notice my absence? What if her last living 10 was an empty room with no one by her side? When I start thinking like this, regret 11 to tear me apart.

I wish I had spent every last 12 with my mother. I wish I had 13 the eulogy (颂文) I wrote to her before she died. Several months after her death, I had a 14 dream. I dreamt that I was at my mother's funeral, sitting several rows back. My mother was seated next to me in her nightgown. I looked at her and admitted my regret about not sharing the eulogy with her when she was still alive. Her simple 15 was, "No, I didn't need to hear it," and she held my hand and 16 her face to the front. When I woke, it was clear as day to me that my subconscious (潜意识) was trying to 17 the pain of my regret. And acknowledging this made me feel better.

In a 18 way, with the help of family and friends, I have learned to 19 the fact that my mental health during my mother's last days was just as important as supporting her 20 her physical health became worse.

When I entered middle school, a friend persuaded me to try out for the school soccer team with her. I had played a little soccer before, so I entered the field feeling quite 1 until the coach told us to run for warm-up.

I knew that I could not 2 for very long without getting really tired. As I struggled to 3 up with the team, I found myself falling farther and farther 4 until I was the last one to finish. 5 we could even get a water break, the coach then made us run back and forth across the field! I was so tired that I hardly had any 6 left to kick the ball.

My name never 7 it on the list. I was ashamed, but at the same time, I 8 it. It was at that moment that I knew I had to do something about my 9. I didn't want to be ashamed like that again.

When springtime came, I made a big 10 to sign up for the track and field (田径) team. People thought I was 11 because I ran a slow 11-minute mile, 12 I had made up my mind to get into shape and improve my mile time. The first day of 13 was one of the hardest I've ever had.

14, I wasn't the only slow runner trying to get into 15. A few others were on the same level as me with a 16 goal. Day after day we 17 each other on during practices and meets. As the season moved on, I found that I could run longer and faster. One of the 18 days of my life was the last meet of the 19 when my mile time was 9 minutes. It was painful and a lot of work, but the 20 were certainly worth it.
