Harvest Time

收获季节

[美] 梅瑟·迈尔 著/绘
尚舒 译

It's harvest time at Grandma and Grandpa's farm. Grandpa says there's a lot to be done!

First, we go to the pumpkin patch.
Grandpa shows us how to clip the pumpkins from the vines.

“Look, Grandpa!” I hold up a great big pumpkin for him to see.

We load the trailer full of pumpkins.
Grandpa lets us pick out some pumpkins to take home.

Now it's time to pick apples. We climb the ladders so we can reach the branches. We pile the apples in baskets. "Did you taste an apple, Little Critter?" calls Grandpa.

I take a big bite. It's crunchy and sour!

Next, we go for a hayride. Grandpa drives the tractor. Little Sister and I ride on the hay bales in the trailer. Our ride ends at the barn. We stack the bales of hay inside.

“Now we have lots of hay for the cows to eat over the winter,” says Grandpa.

Then, we help Grandpa do some more chores.

We take down the scarecrow.

We fix the broken fence in the meadow.

Last, we wash all the garden tools so that they'll be clean for the spring.

“Now it’s time for some fun!” calls Grandma.

We go inside to help make apple pies. Grandma lets me measure the flour and the sugar. Little Sister rolls the dough. I can’t wait until the pies are ready!

Before dinner, Grandma makes hot apple cider with cinnamon. Then, we have a big meal, with apple pie and vanilla ice cream for dessert.

“Thanks for all your hard work!” says Grandpa. “Harvest time is a busy time at the farm.”

“I don’t mind the hard work,” I say, “as long as there’s apple pie for dessert!”
“And ice cream, too!” says Little Sister.
