Last Tuesday I took my two daughters, aged five and seven, to a theatre to watch a play by car. It began to rain 1, so I decided I would leave the children in the car before I rushed into a shop. I asked the girls not to touch anything and told them I would be 2 within a few minutes. Then I locked all the doors and left them happily looking out of the window.

I returned to the car in less than five minutes but the girls had disappeared (失踪). I could hardly believe (相信) my 3. The car doors were still locked, the windows tightly (紧紧地) shut and I paid attention to the back seat on which there 4 only two coats. Being afraid, I beared the pain ran to the corner of the street where there was no sign of them and called their name loudly. I rushed up to 5 old lady nearby and asked whether she had seen two small girls but she loudly said "No".

Feeling quite sick (病的) with fear (害怕), I sat on the driver's seat, and 6 to stop trembling (发抖). Suddenly, I 7 a merry laugh behind me. I got out of the car, ran round to open the boot (车尾行李箱) and there inside were two very red-faced and excited 8. They had obviously (显而易见地) pulled out the back seat, 9 behind it and then been unable to push the seat forward again. With tears 10 my eyes, I leaned (屈身) forward and pulled their ears.

Life is full of dangers and surprises. Your house may burn down. You may 1 the window and break your neck. Mice and beetles may eat your floor so that you drop in to the flat 2 for an uninvited cup of tea. Anything may happen, until you know.

You cannot always prevent disasters, but you can insure against them. Most forms of insurance are 3, it is up to you whether you take out policy or not. But some forms are 4. If you drive a car, for example, you must take out a third party insurance policy. The "parties" to an agreement, or contract, are the individuals or groups 5. With third-party motor insurance, the three parties are (i) you yourself, (ii) your insurance company, and (iii) anybody else — for example, the man 6 Jaguar has just smashed up your Mini. Third-party insurance does not cover fire, theft or anything else. It is intended only to protect road users from each other. If you want to insure against all the other terrible things 7 might happen to you or your car, you can take out a comprehensive policy.

Another form of compulsory insurance is National Insurance. Everybody 8 earning money on a regular basis must pay a sum each week to the state. These weekly contributions cover part of the cost of the National Health Service and the other social service benefits, e. g. unemployment benefit ("the dole"), sickness benefit, old-age 9, industrial injury benefits and so on. You must be able to prove you have paid your contributions, so you have a card (kept by your employer unless you are self-employed) 10 stamps are stuck every week. Of course, you can take out private health insurance as well if you wish, but you must still pay your state contributions.

Like most of my schoolmates, I have neither brothers nor sisters — in any other words, I am an only child. My parents love me dearly of course and will do all they can make sure that I get a good education. They did not want me to do any work at family; they want me to devote all my time to my studies so that I'll get good marks in all subject. We may be one family and live under a same roof, but we do not seem to get much time to talk about together. It looks as if my parents treat me as a visitor and a guest. Do they really understand their own daughter? What things are in other homes, I wonder.

liked those classes because I felt that it helped me understand what the world works. For example, when I was a child, the rain was a mystery (奥秘). In one class, I learned it rained. I think science classes clear up mysteries. But then there is always more mysteries look into. What was my least favourite class?
That was math. After learn the basics of the subject, nothing else seemed very practically to me. I never saw how I could use it in my daily life or in my future firm.

五、改错

The Atlantic Ocean is one of the oceans separate the old world from the new. For centuries it keeps America from being discovered by European. Many wrong ideas about the Atlantic made early sailors willing to sail out to it. One idea was that it reached out on "the edge of the earth." Sailors were afraid that they might sail right off the earth. Another was that at the equator the ocean would be boiled hot. The Atlantic is only half the size of the Pacific, but it is over 4,000 miles wide where Columbus crossed. Two things make the Atlantic rather usual. For so large an ocean it has few islands. Also, it is the world saltiest ocean.
