FOREWORD

In order to meet the needs of the development of our transportation and tourism, we have compiled and published this New Communication and Travel Atlas of China.

The atlas consists of a general map of China, maps of all provinces, municipalities directly under the Central Government, autonomous regions, some large and medium cities, main place famous for their scenic spots and historical relics, and the information relating to traffic and tourism. In the atlas, railways, highways, waterways, airlines, and bus-lines and trolley bus lines in urban areas are all distinctly shown. In addition, the sightseeing points have been clearly marked and necessary tourist information and knowledge have also been included in it. This atlas, we hope, will provide the personnel in traffic and transportation departments, bus-drivers, transportation individuals, and those on business trip or journey with exact information and knowledge inquiry in their work planning and route selection.

The atlas is carefully-compiled from the latest information, clearly-printed for reading and well-bound for reading. So it is a good teacher and helpful friend of both Chinese and foreigners on business trip or journey.

Since published in 1989, the atlas has been well received by the readers. Therefore, it has been printed six times, with 800,000 copies issued to this day. To add the latest information to the atlas and improve the technology, we have the atlas recompiled and republished.
