Introduction to "Plain Papers" (明道集)

The work of Yucca in China was started in 1895 by Mr. S. Willard Lyon in the City of Tientsin. It was, therefore fitting that the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of this work in China should be celebrated in Tientsin in April 1920. "Some have sown, others have reaped; but all rejoice together".

I followed Mr. Lyon in the spring of 1898 and spent eleven of my twenty-two years in China in Yucca work in Tientsin. It was a real regret that I was not able to attend the celebration of the quarter century of beginning of association work in China.

During the large part of this period of early development, Mr. Chung Wei yi was intimately associated with the Tientsin Yucca as senior Chinese secretary. The Association was a completely new organization in China. To establish it as a fully organized, fully equipped self-supporting institution in China, it was necessary to get the permanent elements in the Chinese community to understand the Association in its spirit, its policy, its method. The program of the Association, the location of the Building and selection of working staff were each given fullest attention with reference to the merchant class, the local gentry, the educators, the officials so as to win their confidence and support. In all this work Mr. Chung was most faithful and efficient. He is a Chinese scholar of high standard and in addition had received western modern training in the Christian College in Shanghai thus making a combination in ability rare and difficult to find.

The Association had in the beginning very inadequate equipment and limited resources. There was not so much attraction to a Building as now. Because we had chiefly to personal friendship and most of the work had to be done outside the Yucca quarters. Advantage also was taken of the well-known respect for the printed page among the educated classes. A little weekly paper or bulletin was published for the special use of the members of the Yucca. Mr. Chung had special responsibility for the editing of this bulletin and he made the fullest use of his opportunity to make the bulletin serve in the best way possible the highest interests of the membership of the Association. It was not merely a medium of notices, of lectures, & events of interest to members. Every issue would carry some useful message to young men, either the gist of an address, the report of a lecture, or substance of discussion in Bible Study groups and always with his extreme scholarly care, Mr. Chung would dress these articles up in best literary form. Now that Mr. Chung is retiring from direct participation in the activities of the Friends Y. M. C. A. he has the happy thought of gathering out of the files of the bulletins of the past eighteen years of his connection with the Association a number of the articles and essays which can be printed in permanent form under the caption of "Plain Papers" (或 明道集).

Mr. Chung was well trained in the "first principles of Christian doctrine" by his faithful teachers, and I can testify to his loyal devotion to the central theme of his life whether in calling upon officials or in public address or in written page his ambition to have all people understand what Christianity really is hence his title to this collection of essays is "making plain the way." It is a great thing to erect buildings, to organize work, to train men in service, and thus construct a community of useful and loyal Christian citizens. But we must all recognize the great value of expressing and interpreting the Truth in clear and unmistakable language so that generations away read and understand "the Truth that makes us free."
