This project was a remodeling project of a hot pot stew restaurant owned by a client's father. After he passed the ownership to his son, the son decided to change category of the restaurant into charbroiled dish. The overall concept is "Modern JAPAN" and the design is based on a modern version of Japanese delicacy.

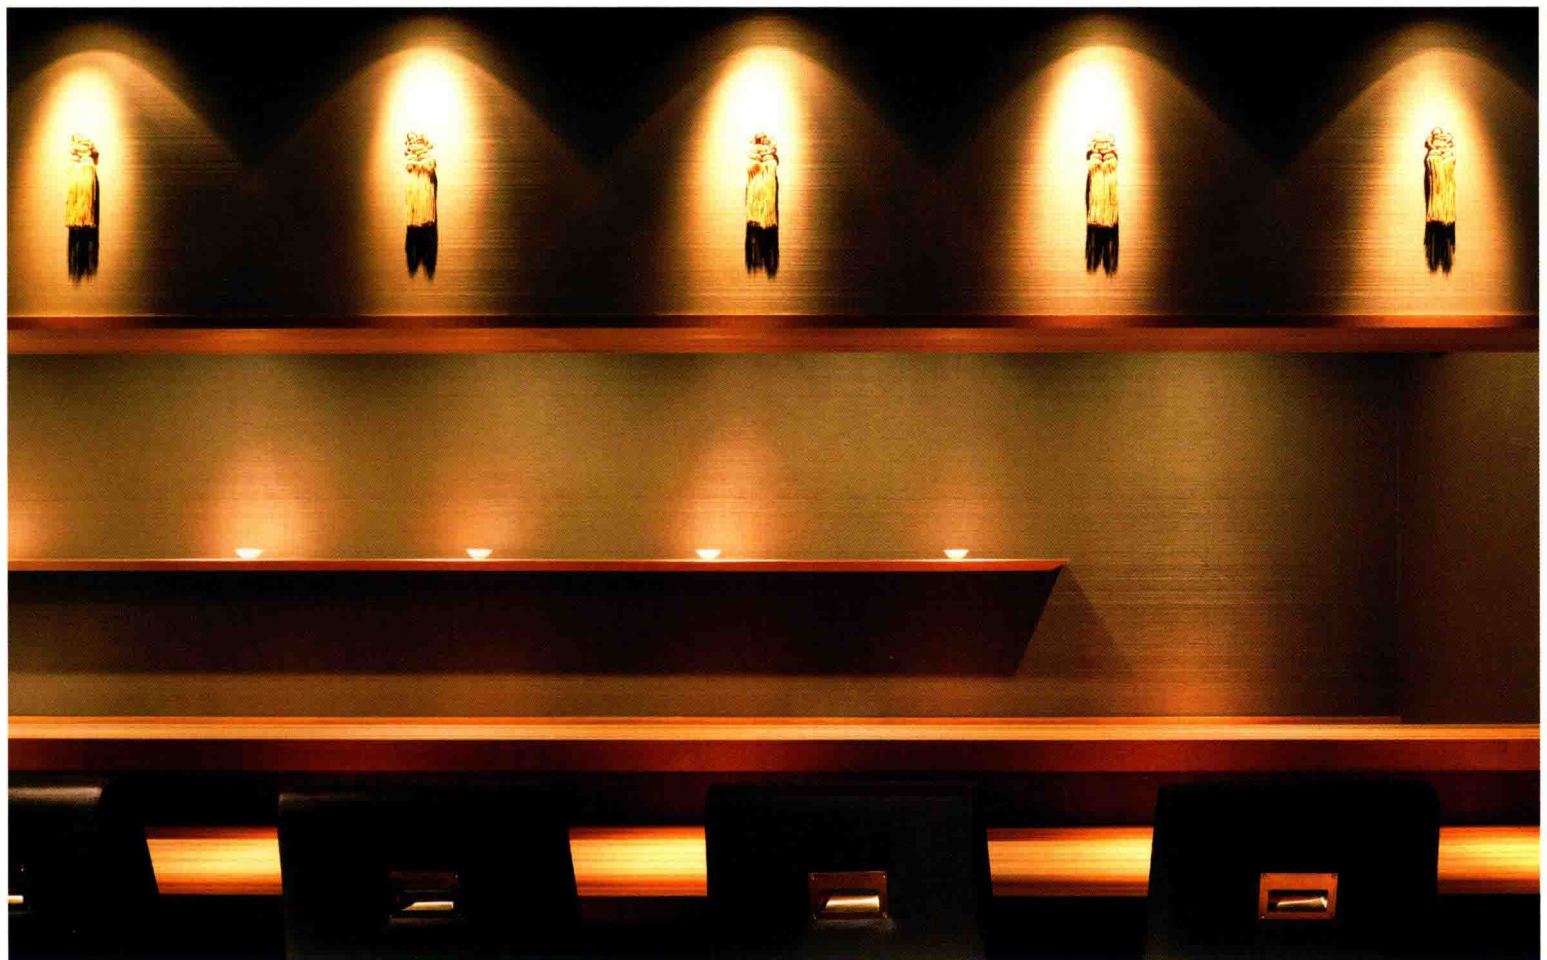

In order to make customers see what this restaurant serves instantly, designers did not use charcoal only for the facade but also interior as well, besides, they used "Kiku-Zumi" crosscut sawtooth oak charcoal that resembles the chrysanthemum flower. The charcoals are placed between a one-way mirror and a fully reflective mirror, and it creates a series of smaller and smaller reflections of the beautiful shape of the crosscut charcoal infinitely. Designers hope this infinity mirror with charcoal gives customers a great impression and remains in their memories. From a long time ago, in Japan, they have sun dried various foods to preserve and increase the nutrition and flavor; for example, seafood, vegetable and fruits. Designers have recreated Japanese traditional scenery by adding another skin of the charcoal connected in rows. Designers applied Japanese traditional products and methods to their design but in modern and unique way, so people who see the building will be surprised and excited also yet feel a bit of nostalgic.

这是一家改建后的炖式火锅餐厅，餐厅的老板在接管火锅店的生意后，决定改变餐厅炭火烤菜的种类。餐厅的经营概念是“现代的日本”，设计也要体现这个主题。

为了让顾客更清晰地看到这家餐厅提供的服务，设计师不仅在外立面设计上使用了高档的橡木炭，在室内也使用了这种材料，另外，设计师还将橡木炭切割成菊花的造型。设计师将橡木炭放在一个单向镜和全反射镜之间，营造了独特的光影效果。橡木炭的“镜面”给顾客留下了深刻的印象。橡木炭的外墙使餐厅充满了日式风情。设计师采用日本传统的材料和设计方法，以现代和独特的方式，打造出别具特色的室内空间。
