前言

本书向欲参加大学英语四级统考的应试者提供了精心编写的仿真题 12 套。这 12 套题既照顾到了传统题型,又兼顾了复合听写、简答、翻译等新题型。其中,听力理解和阅读理解中的短文尽量求新,有些直接选自英美报刊,只不过做了适当调整,以适合英语四级的水平。其它题的编写也力求最大限度地贴近四级真题,以便通过这种仿真的演练,帮助应试者顺利过关。

本书模拟题答案都直接附在了每套题之后,便于应试者随时检查练习结果。

全书由雷鸣主编,张乐兴负责统稿。全书的 Listening Comprehension 和 Writing 由雷鸣编写;各套题中除上述两部分以外的其余内容,第1—4 套题由李红薇编写,第5—8 套题由刘青编写,第9—12 套题由田学义编写。

You should decide on the best choice and mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet with a single line through the

Questions 21 to 25 are based on the following passage:

In Britain, most pubs have no waiters — you have to go to the bar to buy drinks. This pub etiquette is designed to promote sociability in a society known for its reserve. There is no formal line-up — the bar staff are skilled at knowing whose turn it is.

You are permitted to try to attract attention, but there are rules about how to do this. Do not call out, tap coins on the counter, snap your finger or wave like a drowning swimmer. The key thing is to catch the bar worker's eyes. You could also hold an empty glass or some money, but do not wave them about. Do adopt an expectant, hopeful, even slightly anxious facial expression. If you look too contented and complacent, the bar staff may assume you are already being served.

Speaking of tips, you should never offer the bar staff a cash gratuity. A tip in cash would be a reminder of their service role, whereas the offer of a drink is a friendly gesture.

So now you have a drink, but what about meeting the locals? Pub-goers will indicate in unspoken ways if they are interested in chatting. Concentrate on those who have bought drinks and are still loitering at the bar. Look for people with "open" body language, facing outwards into the room. Don't ever introduce yourself with an outstretched hand and a big smile. Natives will cringe and squirm with embarrassment at such brashness. The British, quite frankly, do not want to know your name and shake your hand — or at least not until a proper degree of mutual interest has been well established (like maybe when you marry their daughter).

21. Which of the following statement is NOT TRUE?

- A) If there are a proper degree of mutual interest between you and a British man, it is possible for him to shake hands with you.
- B) If a pub-goer likes to talk with you, he will say directly.
- C) People who offer to introduce themselves are considered as brash and embarrassing pub-goers.
- D) You needn't wait in line in a British pub, but you can hold an empty glass or some money to catch the bar worker's eyes.
- 22. The word "etiquette" (the second sentence in the first paragraph) probably means _____.
 - A) something that will tell people how to behave in a British pub
 - B) something that will warn people what is not allowed to do in a British pub
 - C) something that will tell people what to do to cater for the bar staff
 - D) something that will introduce us to other customers
- 23. The passage implies that the correct behavior to show your appreciation to the bar staff is to .
 - A) offer some tips secretly
 - B) say "please" and try to remember what they don't like
 - C) offer them a drink in a friendly way
 - D) show your contented and complacent feeling on your face
- 24. According to this passage, which of the following people pub-goers are not likely to have delightful chat with?
 - A) Those who show they are interested in chatting.
 - B) Those who have moved to sit at tables.
 - C) Those who have bought drinks and are still loitering at the bar.

- D) Those who have "open" body language, facing outwards into the room.
- 25. The passage is mainly about _____.
 - A) British pub etiquette and customs
 - B) British pub as a place to promote sociability
 - C) how to attract attention in a British pub
 - D) a foreigner's experience in a British pub

Questions 26 to 30 are based on the following passage:

The biggest problem facing Chile as it promotes itself as a tourist destination to be reckoned with, is that it is at the end of the earth. It is too far south to be a convenient stop on the way to anywhere else and is much farther than a relatively cheap half-day's flight away from the big tourist markets, unlike Mexico, for example.

Chile, therefore, is having to fight hard to attract tourists, to convince travelers that it is worth coming halfway round the world to visit. But it is succeeding, not only in existing markets like the USA and Western Europe but in new territories, in particular the Far East. Markets closer to home, however, are not being forgotten. More than 50% of visitors to Chile still come from its nearest neighbor, Argentina, where the cost of living is much higher.

Like all South American countries, Chile sees tourism as a valuable earner of foreign currency, although it has been far more serious than most in promoting its image abroad. Being relatively stable in politics within the region, it has benefited from the problems suffered in other areas. In Peru, guerrilla warfare in recent years has dealt a heavy blow to the tourist industry and fear	r of street crime in Brazil has reduced the attraction of Rio de

Jan	eiro as a dream destination for foreigners.
26.	As a tourist destination, Chile must deal with the biggest problem of
	A) being too inconvenient
	B) being different from Mexico
	C) earning foreign currency
	D) keeping stable politics
27.	Chile's tourists are mainly from
	A) USA, Western Europe
	B) new territories, in particular the Far East
	C) Argentina
	D) Peru and Brazil
28.	According to the third passage, the most serious problem for
	Chile is to
	A) earn foreign currency
	B) promote its image abroad
	C) prohibit street crime
	D) benefit from other countries' problems
29.	Which of the following did not contribute to Chile's tourism?
	A) In Argentina, the cost of living is much higher.
	B) Guerilla warfare took place in Peru recent years.
	C) Rio de Janeiro's tourism declined.
	D) Chile is located at the end of the earth.
30.	It can be inferred from this passage that
	A) a tourist destination can make up for its obvious inconvenience by persuading
	B) tourism can emphasize other countries' problems to promote its own image abroad
8

- C) political factors can influence a country's tourism
- D) location has nothing to do with tourism

Questions 31 to 35 are based on the following passage:

Increasingly, U. S. women are doing the unthinkable — deserting home and family. In some places, wives outnumber husbands as runaways.

Why do they go? Some investigators attribute the increase of missing wives to growing assertiveness fostered by the women's liberation movement. Others place the blame on increased family tensions and on the growing access of women to money and joys. Whatever the cause, there is a mounting concern over a trend that seems to encompass wives across the wide spectrum of U. S. society — from well-to-do suburban matrons (主妇) to slum dwellers.

Family counselors report that more and more women tend to chafe at the marriage ties — although relatively few of them, up to now, have resorted to precipitate flight. For most women, the answer is still to be found in "talking it out" with their husbands, seeking outside counseling, or finally resorting to agreed-on separation and divorce. More and more, too, women take refuge from household routine in outside jobs or periodic "vacation" from their husbands and children. Even so, social analysts see no early end to the growing dissatisfaction of women that is causing many to seek an outlet by running away from home and family.

31.	According	to the	first	paragraph,	in	some	places	of	the	United States

A) the number of women who abandon their home and family are more than that of husbands

Questions 36 to 40 are based on the following passage;

The scope of surgery has increased remarkably in this century. Its safety has increased too. Deaths from most operations are about 20% of what they were in 1910 and surgery has been extended in many directions, for example, to certain types of birth defects in newborn babies, and, at the other end of the scale, to life-saving operations for the octogenarian. For example, about one of every one hundred babies is born with a heart defect, the leading cause of heart-disease deaths among infants. About 8, 000 babies and older children die each year from those congenital heart defects. Many of the defects can be corrected by surgery if detected early enough. Besides, the hospital stay after surgery has been shortened to as little as a week for most major operations. Most patients are out of bed on the day after an operation and may be back at work in two or three weeks.

Many developments in modern surgery are almost incredible. One of the most revolutionary areas of modern surgery is that of organ transplants. Until a few years ago, no person, except an identical twin, was able to accept into his body the tissues of another person without reacting against them and eventually killing them. Later, however, it has been discovered that with the use of X-rays and special drugs, it is possible to graft tissues from one person to another which will survive for periods of a year or more. Kidneys have been successfully transplanted between non-identical twins. Heart and lung transplants have been reasonably successful in animals, though rejection problems in humans have yet to be solved.

36.	According to the passage, organ transplants in modern surgery proved to be
	A) impossible development
