Handwritten text in a South Indian script, likely Grantha or Tamil, with numerous diacritical marks (vowels and consonants) written above and below the characters. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines. The script is dense and appears to be a form of liturgical or philosophical text. The characters are well-defined, and the diacritics are clearly visible, indicating a specific phonetic or grammatical structure. The overall appearance is that of a manuscript page from an ancient or medieval text.

Handwritten text in Devanagari script, likely a manuscript or a collection of verses. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines. Each line contains several words or phrases, often separated by small checkmarks (✓) or vertical lines. The script is somewhat cursive and shows signs of being a working draft or a specific dialect. The characters are dark, possibly ink, on a light-colored paper. The overall appearance is that of an old, handwritten document.
