INTRODUCTION AND HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

Sources of Asian/Pacific Economic Information covers the region of the world extending from the Indian sub-continent to the Pacific Islands. It consists of two volumes containing in all more than five thousand entries.

The objectives of these volumes are the same as those of the companion volume, Sources of European Economic Information, now in its third edition: to signal the availability of statistical and economic data and to furnish the reader with the necessary direction to obtain the material. It provides not the information itself, but a synopsis and details of the issuing body.

There are differences between the countries in the Asian/Pacific directory, both in material available and in its recency of publication. For example, some countries maintain up-to-date statistics, such as the three OECD members in the region, Japan, New Zealand and Australia. But some of the developing countries rely on much older data, which would be considered obsolete in the advanced countries. In some countries there is comparatively little information, and in these cases we have included a few more general publications.

In Part One of each volume, the directory of source publications, each entry provides wherever possible the following information:

- the full title of the source publication in English
  - the ordering number of the document, where relevant
  - the name of the issuing body
  - the language of the publication
  - date or frequency of publication
  - approximate number of pages
  - countries covered by the source, indicated by the motor code abbreviation.
- The international section at the beginning of Volume One covers sources relating to more than two countries.
- the purchase price
  - a summary of the contents of material in the source.

Part Two of each volume presents the full name, address, and where possible the telephone and telex number, of the issuing organisations. These are arranged alphabetically by country. Each source listed in Part One has been given a unique code number, which is listed in Part Two for the publisher of that source. The divisions by country in Part Two refer to the country with which the source deals, not that where its publisher is located.

Each volume concludes with two indexes. The first lists all the sources alphabetically irrespective of country of coverage. The second provides a subject breakdown. The subject divisions in the European edition have been used as a model. Sources are listed by subject within the country covered.

The following procedure may be used to search the information base. First the reader should select the subject classification of interest. By using the second index, relevant sources for the country or countries can be identified. This will indicate the title of the source and its unique code number, which can then be located in Part One. The entry here will provide an appreciation of the type of material the source contains and the name of the issuing organisation. If the reader then wishes to obtain a copy of the source, Part Two provides details of the issuing organisation.

Each volume contains roughly half the sources, with the international sources at the beginning of Volume 1. Each volume covers a geographic area, with the exception of the international material in Volume 1, some of which ranges across the whole Asia/Pacific region. Volume 1 covers Australia, Japan, New Zealand and the Pacific Islands. Volume 2 covers the Indian sub-continent countries, the ASEAN region, and the East Asian countries including the People's Republic of China but excluding Japan.

Throughout the publication, countries are ordered by their internationally recognised motor codes. There are some countries for which no codes yet exist, and in these cases we have invented codes. The codes used are as follows:

Volume 1	INT	International
	AUS	Australia
	J	Japan
	NZ	New Zealand
	PAC	Pacific Islands
	PAC (FJI)	Fiji
	PAC (PNG)	Papua New Guinea

Within the Pacific Islands other countries are designated by their full name, after the abbreviation PAC.

Volume 2	BANGLA	Bangladesh
	BRU	Brunei
	BUR	Burma
	CL	Sri Lanka
	HK	Hong Kong
	IND	India
	MACAU	Macau
	MAL	Malaysia
	NEPAL	Nepal
	PAK	Pakistan
	PI	Philippines
	PRC	People's Republic of China
	RC	Taiwan
	RI	Indonesia
	ROK	South Korea
	SGP	Singapore
	T	Thailand

The editors would like to acknowledge the cooperation of the many national and international organisations and departments, and private organisations, which have supplied lists and details of their publications. In particular we should like to mention the excellent Statistical Bibliographies produced by the National Statistical Office of Thailand, and the Bureau of Statistics of Papua New Guinea.

01060 ASIAN SECURITY 1979
Research Institute for Peace and Security, Tokyo

INT—English annual 240pp US$20.00 (incl.surface postage)

This book is designed to sketch and analyze the developments in international relations in the Asian-Pacific region in the year from 1 July 1978 to 30 June 1979, though it sometimes goes back a little further than this to give historical perspective. The region has been during this time a fluid and interesting one. The book will be helpful to an understanding of events and to what might follow. It has been edited by Professor Masataka Kosaka, with Brigadier Kenneth Hunt advising and General Katsuichi Tsukamoto associate editor. A number of scholars and specialists have made contributions.

International Atomic Energy Agency

INT—English 1973 113pp US$6.00

Proceedings of a Panel to consider the Application of Food Irradiation in Developing Countries, organized by the Joint FAO/IAEA Division of Atomic Energy in Food and Agriculture and held in Bombay, 18-22 November 1972. The Panel met immediately after the Symposium on Food Preservation by Irradiation, the proceedings of which were published under the title "Radiation Preservation of Food", to discuss the need for food irradiation, the factors delaying its implementation and actions necessary for its practical introduction with special reference to developing countries. It also made recommendations concerning the promotion of the introduction of this important new food preservation process in those parts of the world where the need for preserving the scarcely available and highly perishable food supplies is most acute. Of interest to food scientists and food technologists, agriculturists, biochemists and radiation biologists. The contents include papers on radurization and radicidation of spices, experience in irradiating potatoes, prospects of applying food irradiation in Bangladesh, Indonesia and Nigeria, and public health and legal problems of food irradiation.
