And each year we have a few carefully selected visitors like John Barth, Ann Beattie, Veronica Geng, Elizabeth Tallent, Tomaz Salamun, Mary and James Robison, Derek Walcott, David Leavitt, Beverly Lowry, Mark Strand, Tobias Wolff.

We also publish the innovative, award-winning, and sometimes strange literary magazine, Mississippi Review.

Hattiesburg is quiet and ordinary, but close to New Orleans, Biloxi, and the Gulf of Mexico if things get depressing, as they sometimes do. Plus, there's a low murder rate.

For information call 601-266-4321, or write to the Center for Writers, Box 5144, Hattiesburg, MS, 39406-5144.

THE THREEPENNY REVIEW

"The Threepenny Review, launched in 1980, has built up a healthy national prestige, attracting contributions from authors such as Susan Sontag and Gore Vidal.... Published quarterly, The Threepenny Review is ample and handsome, in appearance not unlike the New York Review of Books. But its contents are those of an old-style little magazine—short stories mingled with poetry, memoirs and discursive essays spanning the culture gamut—and the paper has little of the Anglophilia which has always characterized the NYRB: this is another America speaking."

VOICE LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

VLS

For more than a decade, the VOICE LITERARY SUPPLEMENT has been provoking, informing, and delighting readers. It has won hearts and minds, not to mention literary prizes, with its bold mix of essays, reviews, cultural criticism, reporting, and new fiction. Every month VLS introduces fine writers to the readers they deserve, while keeping an eye on the vagaries of the publishing world at large.

VLS moves you beyond the mainstream. You'll get rigorous insights and flights of fancy from Kathy Acker, Dorothy Allison, Russell Banks, Blanche McCrary Boyd, Angela Carter, Sandra Cisneros, Susan Daitch, Jewelle Gomez, Gary Indiana, Karen Karbo, Walter Kendrick, Harry Matthews, Patrick McGrath, Bradford Morrow, Michael Musto, Geoffrey O'Brien, Greg Tate, Lynne Tillman, Edmund White, and many others.
