

Mastering Fourth Edition

PUBLIC SPEAKING

George L.

GRICE

John F.

SKINNER

f o u r t h e d i t i o n

Mastering Public Speaking

George L. Grice

Radford University

John F. Skinner

San Antonio College

Allyn and Bacon

Boston

London

Toronto

Sydney

Tokyo

Singapore

To Wrenn, Evelyn, Carol, and Leanne

*To Suzanne, Drew, and Devin;
Gertrude and Beverley;
and the rowdy Skinner girls:
Meghan, Katy, Taylor, and Stevi*

To the memory of Robert C. Jeffrey, our teacher and friend

Editor: Karon Bowers

Vice President, Editor in Chief: Paul Smith

Developmental Editor: Carol Alper

Editorial-Production Administrator: Joe Sweeney

Editorial-Production Service: Heckman & Pinette

Composition Buyer: Linda Cox

Manufacturing Buyer: Megan Cochran

Cover Administrator: Linda Knowles

Text Designer: Glenna Collett

Photo Researcher: Sue C. Howard

Text Composition: Omegatype Typography, Inc.

Copyright © 2001, 1998, 1995, 1993 by Allyn & Bacon

A Pearson Education Company

160 Gould Street

Needham Heights, Massachusetts 02494

www.abacon.com

All rights reserved. No part of the material protected by this copyright notice may be reproduced or utilized in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without the written permission of the copyright owner.

Between the time Web site information is gathered and then published it is not unusual for some sites to have closed. Also, the transcription of URLs can result in typographical errors.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Grice, George L.

Mastering public speaking / George L. Grice, John F. Skinner.--4th ed.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-205-31808-8

I. Public speaking. I. Skinner, John F. II. Title.

PN4121 .G719 2000

808.5'1--dc21

00-028391

Printed in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 VHP 03 02 01 00 p r e f a c e t o t h e s t u d e n t

The word began as the spoken word. Long before anyone devised a way to record messages in writing, people told one another stories and taught each other lessons. Societies flourished and fell, battles were waged and won on the basis of the spoken word. Ancient storytellers preserved their cultures' literature and history by translating them orally to eager audiences. Crowds might wander away from unprepared, unskilled speakers, but the most competent, skilled storytellers received widespread attention and praise.

After the development of script and print, people continued to associate marks on the page with the human voice. Even today, linked as we are by radio, television, and computer networks, a speaker standing at the front of a hushed room makes a special claim on our attention and our imagination. As you develop and deliver speeches in class—and in future years as you deliver reports, sell products, present and accept awards, or campaign for candidates—you are a part of an ancient oral tradition. This book is about the contract that always exists between a speaker and an audience and about the choices you make in your roles as speaker and listener.

We developed this book with two principles in mind. First, public speaking, like ancient storytelling, requires a level of competence that develops from skills handed down from patient teacher to interested student. Yet this is more than a skills course. Although a working knowledge of skills is fundamental to your mastery of public speaking, the master speaker is principled as well as skilled. We want to instruct you in how to make wise choices as you choose topics and then research, organize, practice, and deliver your speeches. Just as important, we want to spur you at each point in the speech-making process to think about why you make the choices you do.

Our second guiding principle has been most economically stated by British journalist and author Gilbert K. Chesterton: "There are no uninteresting subjects, there are only uninterested people." This book is for those who believe, as we do, that the lessons we have to teach one another can enrich the lives of every listener. The student of art history can learn from the business major, just as the business student learns from the art historian. This course will give you the chance to investigate subjects that appeal to you. We challenge you to develop speech topics creatively and to listen to one another's speeches expecting to learn.

Public speaking is an important part of communication, and communication is not only part of your education but also the way you gain and apply your learning. A liberating and lifelong education occurs only through communication, with ourselves and those around us. We wish each of you the kind of education Steven C. Beering, former president of Purdue University, described so eloquently in a speech inaugurating his university's School of Education:

Education is dreaming, and thinking and asking questions. It is reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Education is exploring the unknown, discovering new ideas, communicating with the world about us. Education is finding yourself, recognizing human needs, and communicating that recognition to others. Education is learning to solve problems. It is acquiring useful knowledge and skills in order to improve the quality of life. Education is an understanding of the meaning of the past, and an inkling of the potential of the future. Education represents self-discipline, assumption of responsibility and the maintenance of flexibility, and most of all, an open mind. Education is unfinishable. It is an attitude and a way of life. It makes every day a new beginning.¹

An Invitation

We are interested in hearing your feedback about this new edition of Mastering Public Speaking. Please contact us by e-mail at the following addresses:

ggrice@runet.edu

jskinner@accd.edu

We look forward to hearing from you.

GEORGE L. GRICE and JOHN F. SKINNER

¹Steven C. Beering, "The Liberally Educated Professional," Vital Speeches of the Day 15 April 1990: 400.

preface to the instructor

In 1993 we published the first edition of Mastering Public Speaking to show students both the hows and the whys of public speaking. Ours was the first major public speaking textbook to devote an entire chapter to speaker and listener ethics and another to managing speaker nervousness. We also introduced students to the 4 S's, a practical mnemonic device for organizing each major idea in a speech.

The text's instructional approach mirrored our view of the public speaking instructor as a "guide on the side" rather than a "sage on the stage." Our goal is to empower students with responsibility for their own learning by challenging them to make all the decisions required of public speakers. By incorporating into our text many credible examples, both actual and hypothetical, we hoped to inspire and encourage students to achieve the full potential of public speech.

In support of our goals, we also wanted to help instructors shape the public speaking classroom into a community of caring, careful thinkers. We sought to improve the quality of feedback in the classroom by analyzing in our text the elements of sound critiques and providing a helpful model for discussing speeches.

In our view, little of consequence has changed in the discipline since that first edition. Although new media have altered our expectations of what a public speech can accomplish, and new research tools and visual arts media have sent us scrambling to ensure that we know as much about these emerging technologies as do most of our students, the fundamentals remain the same. Sensitive audience analysis, adequate research, clear organization, and forceful delivery remain the key ingredients for an effective speech. Therefore, our basic instructional approach in this text has also remained constant: We seek to engage students in the principles, practice, and ethics of public speaking—both as speakers and listeners.

Changes in the Fourth Edition

Although our basic approach remains the same, we have made significant changes and improvements to strengthen it. Instructors who have taught from previous editions suggested some of these changes. We made others to help students navigate through the technological advances that have broadened the menu of research and presentational aid options for public speakers.

Two new features reinforce the text's basic instructional emphases:

- "Speaking with Confidence," a boxed feature that appears in most chapters, spotlights the words of students who used the third edition of Mastering Public Speaking. Students were invited to describe aspects of their course work that helped them develop increased confidence.
- Sidebar features citing Internet sources throughout the book direct students to Web sites that we consider especially interesting or useful.

We have revised one feature, collecting the Speaker's Journal entries that were highlighted in various chapters of the third edition and placing them after Daniel Sarvis's classroom speech in Appendix A.

You will notice far more Exercises at the ends of chapters than in previous editions, expanding your options for possible assignments.

We have replaced and updated many student and professional examples throughout the text, using authentic speakers for most of these examples, as in previous editions. In addition to updating examples, the most significant changes are as follows:

- Chapter 2, “The Ethics of Public Speaking,” continues to warn students of the seriousness of plagiarism, especially in these days of “cut-and-paste” Internet research. Significantly, the chapter expands the discussion of ethics by also explaining the fair use provision of copyright law. This section examines the conditions under which students may be able to use even copyrighted materials in their speeches without securing permission from the copyright holder.
- Chapter 3, “Speaking Confidently,” now contains James McCroskey’s “Personal Report of Public Speaking Anxiety,” along with instructions for scoring and interpreting individual results on the questionnaire. The chapter now has a stronger theoretical emphasis with its discussion of cognitive restructuring and visualization.
- Chapter 4, “Responding to Speeches,” the most thorough discussion of critiquing speeches in any textbook, contains an additional guideline, “Target a Few Key Areas for Improvement.”
- Chapter 5, “Analyzing Your Audience,” now introduces students to the VALS2 typology, developed at Stanford University, as another way of analyzing and conceptualizing members of a speech audience.
- Chapter 7, “Researching Your Topic,” is expanded and updated to reflect the profound effects that the Internet is having on methods of research. No longer a limited alternative to traditional library work, online research is the first choice of many college students. The lists of Web sites and their URLs in Chapter 7 provide a ready reference for students logging onto the Internet.
- Both Chapter 7 and Chapter 8, “Supporting Your Speech,” contain more thorough discussions of the importance of evaluating information provided by Internet sources. “Evaluating Electronic Information” in Chapter 8 provides an expanded checklist of questions to consider about Web and Internet sources.
- Chapters 9 and 10 provide new focus and insights for organizing a speech. Chapter 9, “Organizing the Body of Your Speech,” now consolidates most of the methods of organizing informative and persuasive speeches, including problem–solution and need–plan patterns. Chapter 10, “Introducing and Concluding Your Speech,” now includes an additional step of a speech conclusion, emphasizing the importance of activating an audience response.
- Chapter 11, “Outlining Your Speech,” features a new extended example of the stages of outlining undertaken by one person developing a speech.
- Chapter 12, “Wording Your Speech,” now discusses the importance of using inclusive, not just nonsexist, language and contains an expanded treatment of metaphor.
- Chapter 13, “Delivering Your Speech,” is reorganized to emphasize the various methods of speech delivery and to stress the advantages of extemporaneous delivery. This chapter also incorporates recent research on the functions of gestures.
- Chapter 14’s new title, “Using Presentational Aids,” reflects a more contemporary approach to studying supplements to the spoken word. The chapter now also includes expanded guidelines for designing presentational aids.
- Chapter 15, “Speaking to Inform,” now ends with Emelyn Carley’s speech on quilts, a favorite of ours. In previous editions we have included that speech in an appendix or at the end of Chapter 10 to illustrate the principles of effective organization. At the end of Chapter 15, it provides an appropriate example of a well-organized, well-documented, informative speech that incorporated effective presentational aids.
- Chapter 16, “The Strategy of Persuasion,” and Chapter 17, “The Structure of Persuasion,” enhance an already extensive coverage of persuasion with expanded discussion of persuasion theory, additional fallacies of reasoning, and more detailed illustration of Monroe’s motivated sequence. Chapter 17 now ends with a student speech, annotated to illustrate the steps of Monroe’s popular organizational pattern.
- Chapter 19, “Speaking in and as a Group,” now includes the work team as one type of task-oriented group and discusses an additional guideline for developing a group presentation.
- Appendix B includes four new sample speeches, retaining two from previous editions.

Supplements

For this edition, we have enlisted the help of a number of talented colleagues in revising existing supplements and developing new ones. The following resources are available to help instructors plan and teach the public speaking course.

- The Instructor's Manual/Test Bank was prepared by a team of three professionals: Trudy Hanson, West Texas A&M University, and Jason Teven, NW Missouri State University, prepared the instructor's materials, and Tom Diamond, Montana State University, prepared the test questions. This comprehensive guide provides suggestions for constructing the course syllabus, assignments, sample exercises and activities, critiquing strategies, techniques for conducting in-class reviews, and detailed chapter outlines. Also included are more than 1200 test questions, including multiple choice, true/false, short answer, and essay questions, also available in a computerized version.
- A Guide for New Public Speaking Teachers: Building Toward Success, by Calvin L. Troup, Duquesne University, covers such topics as preparing for the term, planning and structuring your course, evaluating speeches, utilizing the textbook, integrating technology into the classroom, dealing with challenges, and much more.
- The Allyn & Bacon Communication Studies Digital Media Archive, available on CD-ROM, offers more than 200 still images, video excerpts, and PowerPoint™ slides that can be used to enliven classroom presentations.
- The PowerPoint™ Package, prepared by Mary Kaye Krum, formerly of Florence Darlington Technical College, consists of a collection of lecture outlines and graphic images keyed to every chapter in the text and is available on the Web at www.abacon.com/ppt.
- The Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Transparency Package, containing 100 public speaking transparencies created with PowerPoint™ software, is also available to provide visual support for classroom lectures and discussion on a full range of course topics. An expanded version is available at www.abacon.com/ppt.
- Mastering Public Speaking Video: A Student Speech with Critiques, Fourth Edition, prepared by Julie Benson-Rosston, Red Rocks Community College, is designed to provide a model for students and instructors to learn to provide effective speech critiques. Included are guidelines for effective speech critiques, an informative student speech, an interactive session offering student and instructor feedback on the speech, and the improved student speech.

- An array of other video materials is also available. The Allyn & Bacon Student Speeches Video Library includes three two-hour American Forensic Association videos of award-winning student speeches and one video with a range of student speeches delivered in the classroom. The Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Video contains excerpts of classic and contemporary speeches as well as student speeches to illustrate the public speaking process. The Allyn & Bacon Communication Video Library contains a collection of communication videos produced by Film for the Humanities and Sciences.
- Custom Solutions is a special program offered by Allyn & Bacon that allows instructors to create a Web page specifically for their course combining information on Allyn & Bacon sites with their own course information.

In addition, there are many resources available to help students get the most out of their public speaking course. Several are presented as electronic resources.

- The Interactive Companion Web Site, prepared by Thomas E. Jewell of Marymount College and Elsa Peterson, offers materials for students to enrich their learning and study for exams. This electronic text companion includes Web links to hundreds of related Internet sites, video excerpts from student speeches to illustrate key points, audio clips that expand upon key information, and activities—many tied to the video and audio materials—designed to reinforce learning. The final section in each chapter expands on the Internet feature in the text by providing hot links to all the sites mentioned. Practice tests for each include answers and feedback. Students receive a PIN code and access to the Interactive Companion Web Site upon purchase of a new text.
- The Companion Web Site with Online Practice Tests, accessed at www.abacon.com/grice, was prepared by Linda Anthon, Valencia Community College. It provides a wealth of activities to help students practice their critiquing techniques by linking to archived speeches on the Internet and learn to identify effective evidence and support for their speeches by critically evaluating scholarly Web sites. Web links include sites with speeches in text, audio, and video formats. The site also contains online learning objectives, practice tests, and interactive discussions.

- The Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Web Site, prepared by Terrence Doyle, Northern Virginia Community College, is designed to help students use the Internet along with their public speaking textbook to learn about the process of public speaking and to prepare speeches. It can be accessed at www.abacon.com/pubspeak.
- Interactive Speechwriter, Version 1.1, by Martin R. Cox, is an interactive software package for student purchase providing supplemental material, including templates for writing speeches and sample speeches, and enhancing students' understanding of key concepts discussed in the text.

There are also many traditional print products (and one audio product) designed for student use.

- The Study Guide, prepared by Terry Perkins, Eastern Illinois University, contains a set of comprehensive review questions for each chapter in Mastering Public Speaking.
- Speech Communication on the Net, by Terrence Doyle, Northern Virginia Community College, includes the basics of using the Internet, conducting Web searches, and critically evaluating and documenting Internet sources. It also contains Internet activities and URLs specific to the discipline of speech communication.
- Speech Preparation Workbook, by Jennifer Dreyer and Gregory H. Patton, San Diego State University, takes students through the various stages of speech creation—from audience analysis to writing the speech—and provides guidelines, tips, and easy-to-fill-in pages.
- Preparing Visual Aids for Presentations, Second Edition, by Dan Cavanaugh, is a 32-page booklet providing a host of ideas for using today's multimedia tools to improve presentations including suggestions for how to plan a presentation, guidelines for designing visual aids, storyboarding, and a walkthrough that shows how to prepare a visual display using PowerPoint™.
- Public Speaking in the Multicultural Environment, Second Edition, by Devorah A. Lieberman, includes activities and helps students think about the effects that the diverse backgrounds of audience members can have, not just on how speeches are prepared and delivered but also on how those speeches are perceived.

Acknowledgments

We are, first and foremost, grateful to the many university, college, and community college educators whose enthusiasm contributed to the success of previous editions of this textbook. This edition of Mastering Public Speaking is the product of more than just two coauthors. Though we have tried to speak with one voice for the sake of our readers, the truth is that many voices resonate throughout this text—the voices of our teachers, our colleagues, our editors, and our students. What we know, what we value, and what we write is shaped in part by their influence and insights. Wherever possible we have tried to acknowledge their contributions. For all their influence on this manuscript, we are thankful.

Significantly, our collaboration began at the urging of a former student, Pam Lancaster, when she was a sales representative at Prentice Hall. We are grateful to Prentice Hall and Allyn & Bacon for allowing us to make previous editions of Mastering Public Speaking the book we wanted it to be. We are especially indebted to Steve Dalphin, Virginia Feury-Gagnon, Carla Daves, Helene Manditch-Prottas, and Marlene Ellin for their faith in the project, their patience, and their suggestions.

We would like to thank the entire editorial and production staffs at Allyn & Bacon for their contributions to this fourth edition. We are proud to have been one of the first Allyn & Bacon books to carry the name of Paul Smith, Editor-in-Chief. We have benefited from his enthusiasm and support, as well as from the unflagging encouragement and accommodation of Karon Bowers, acquisitions editor. We are especially grateful to Carol Alper, developmental editor, for her guidance and suggestions and for carefully supervising the editing process. Her professionalism and patience provided us the time to explore and evaluate new ideas, while keeping the project on schedule. These colleagues in cyberspace were always just an e-mail away from providing us their input and support. Carol, Karon, and Paul, thanks for helping to make writing fun.

Jennifer Becker, editorial assistant, completed many tasks along the way with efficiency and enthusiasm. Joe Sweeney, production administrator, orchestrated the process very capably. We are grateful to our careful copy-editor, Margaret Pinette, who also masterfully guided our manuscript into page proofs. Thanks for keeping all the plates spinning. Many students, authors, and publishers graciously allowed us to quote material in this book. We thank James McCroskey for permission to reprint his Personal Report of Public Speaking Anxiety, featured in Chapter 3. We are especially indebted to Daniel Sarvis for granting us permission to print his speech and his comments on its development in Appendix A. Jennifer A. Brown, thanks for your careful work checking URLs of magazines and newspapers for Chapter 7. Cori Bunn, Rebekah Compton, and Jennifer Noah, thanks for investigating and monitoring many of the Web sites we feature in this edition. We also appreciate the many contributions of Dolly Conner, who tracked down hard-to-find sources, tested our ideas in her classrooms, and coordinated feedback from students.

A number of students responded to our call for feedback about classroom experiences or topics in Mastering Public Speaking that increased their confidence. We thank them all, particularly the students selected for the “Speaking with Confidence” feature in this edition: Joey Bell, Radford University; Anne Bergstrom, Eastern Illinois University; Jennifer A. Brown, San Antonio College; Rometta Carrico, Radford University; Jacob Casey, Clark College; Elizabeth Cleaver, Clark College; Brian Collins, Clark College; Terri Easley, Sam Houston State University; Allison Holt, Eastern Illinois University; Amy Landry, San Antonio College; Kenneth Martinez, San Antonio College; and Benjamin Wilson, Radford University.

Five reference librarians read this and previous versions of our research chapter closely: Caroline Gilson, Jane Schillie, Linda Farynk, and Larry Pollard of Radford University’s McConnell Library, and Ralph Domas of the San Antonio College Learning Resource Center. We thank all of them for their expert advice and encouragement.

We have benefited immensely from the encouragement and advice of some former colleagues and from our fellow faculty members at Radford University and San Antonio College: Maresa Brassil, Mary Crow, Bruce Dorries, Merrill Jones, J. Drew McGukin, Rick Olsen, Ray Penn, Janet Stahl, and Richard Worringham. We are especially grateful to Gwen Brown, Mike Cronin, Cynthia Cone, Barbara Strain, Suzanne Skinner, Carolyn DeLecour, Charles Falcon, and David Mrizek, who gave us their insights, suggestions, and encouragement.

In addition, Mastering Public Speaking has been shaped and refined by the close readings and thoughtful suggestions of a number of reviewers in this and in previous editions:

Linda Anthon, Valencia Community College
Barbara L. Baker, Central Missouri State University
Elizabeth Bell, University of South Florida
Jim Benjamin, University of Toledo
Tim Borchers, Moorhead State University

Carl R. Burgchardt, Colorado State University
Pamela Cooper, Northwestern University
Tom Diamond, Montana State University
Terrence Doyle, Northern Virginia Community College
John Fritch, Southwest Missouri State University
Trudy L. Hanson, West Texas A&M University
Dayle C. Hardy-Short, Northern Arizona University
Deborah Hatton, Sam Houston State University
Kimberly Batty Herbert, Clovis Community College
Leslie A. Klipper, Miramar College
Mary Kaye Krum, formerly of Florence-Darlington Technical College
Bruce Loebs, Idaho State University
Patricia Palm McGillen, Mankato State University
David B. McLennan, Peace College
Eileen Oswald, Valencia Community College
Rosemarie Rossetti, Ohio State University
Jim Roux, Horry-Georgetown Technical College
Edward H. Sewell, Virginia Tech University
Frances Swinny, professor emerita, Trinity University
Cory Tomasson, Illinois Valley Community College
Beth M. Waggenspack, Virginia Tech University
Doris Werkman, Portland State University
Dianna R. Wynn, Midland College

For the first time we have enlisted the help of several talented individuals to prepare the supplemental materials for Mastering Public Speaking. We would like especially to thank Trudy L. Hanson of West Texas A&M University, Jason Teven of NW Missouri State University, and Tom Diamond of Montana State University for preparing the Instructor’s Manual/Test Bank; Terry Perkins of Eastern Illinois University, for preparing the printed study guide; Linda Anthon of Valencia Community College, for her work on the Companion Web Site; Thomas Jewell of Marymount College and Elsa Peterson for preparing the Interactive Companion; Julie Benson-Rosston of Red Rocks Community College, for her work on the Mastering Public Speaking Video: A Student Speech with Critiques, Fourth Edition; and Mary Kaye Krum, for her work on the Power-Point™ Package.

Finally, we are indebted to all our public speaking students, who have crafted their messages, walked to the front of their classrooms, and informed, persuaded, entertained, and challenged us. Without their ideas and experiences, writing and revising this book would have been impossible, just as without tomorrow's students it would have been unnecessary.

An Invitation

We are interested in hearing your feedback about this new edition of Mastering Public Speaking. Please contact us by e-mail at the following addresses:

ggrice@runet.edu

jskinner@accd.edu

We look forward to hearing from you.

GEORGE L. GRICE and JOHN F. SKINNER

b r i e f c o n t e n t s

1	An Introduction to Public Speaking	2	12	Wording Your Speech	262
2	The Ethics of Public Speaking	22	13	Delivering Your Speech	288
3	Speaking Confidently	42	14	Using Presentational Aids	312
4	Responding to Speeches	66	15	Speaking to Inform	336
5	Analyzing Your Audience	92	16	The Strategy of Persuasion	360
6	Selecting Your Speech Topic	120	17	The Structure of Persuasion	384
7	Researching Your Topic	142	18	Speaking on Special Occasions	416
8	Supporting Your Speech	174	19	Speaking in and as a Small Group	436
9	Organizing the Body of Your Speech	198	Appendix A	A Classroom Speech and Speaker's Journal	457
10	Introducing and Concluding Your Speech	218	Appendix B	Sample Speeches	464
11	Outlining Your Speech	240

c o n t e n t s

Preface to the Student	xi
Preface to the Instructor	xiii

An Introduction to Public Speaking 2

Why Study Public Speaking?	4
Personal Benefits of Studying Public Speaking	5
Professional Benefits of Studying Public Speaking	6
Public Benefits of Studying Public Speaking	6
Definitions of Communication	7
Levels of Communication	9
Intrapersonal Communication	10
Interpersonal Communication	10
Group Communication	11
Public Communication	12
Mass Communication	12
Components of Communication	13
Linear Model of Communication	13
Interactive Model of Communication	14
The Public Speaker as Critical Thinker	17
Summary	19
Exercises	20
Notes	21

The Ethics of Public Speaking 22

Definition of Ethics	24
Principles of Ethics	25
Ethical Speaking	26

Speak Up about Topics You Consider Important	26
Choose Topics That Promote Positive Ethical Values	28
Speak to Benefit Your Listeners	28
Use Truthful, Accurate Supporting Material and Valid Reasoning	29
Reveal Your True Motives for Speaking	29
Consider the Consequences of Your Words and Actions	30
Strive to Improve Your Public Speaking	30
Ethical Listening	31
Seek Exposure to Well-Informed Speakers	31
Listen without Prejudging Speakers or Their Ideas	31
Evaluate the Speaker's Logic and Credibility	32
Beware of the Consequences of Not Listening Carefully	32
Fair Use Guidelines	34
Plagiarism	35
Summary	38
Exercises	39
Notes	40

Speaking Confidently 42

Recognize the Pervasiveness of Speaker Nervousness	44
Control Speaker Nervousness	45
Learn How to Cope with Nervousness	47
Know How You React to Stress	48
Know Your Strengths and Weaknesses	49

Know Speech Principles	50
Know That It Always Looks Worse from the Inside	51
Know Your Speech	52
Believe in Your Topic	52
View Speech Making Positively	53
Visualize Success	53
Project Confidence	54
Test Your Message	54
Practice	55
Learn from Experience	55
Prepare Your First Speech	56
Understand the Assignment	56
Develop Your Speech Content	57
Organize Your Speech	58
Word Your Speech	60
Practice Your Speech	61
Deliver Your Speech	62
Evaluate Your Speech	62
Summary	63
Exercises	64
Notes	64

Responding to Speeches 66

The Importance of Listening	68
Listening vs. Hearing	69
Listening Is Intermittent	69
Listening Is a Learned Skill	70
Listening Is Active	70
Listening Implies Using the Message Received	70
The Process of Listening	71
Receive	71
Select	72
Interpret	72
Understand	72
Evaluate	73
Resolve	73
Obstacles to Effective Listening	74
Physical Distractions	74
Physiological Distractions	74
Psychological Distractions	74
Factual Distractions	74
Semantic Distractions	75
Promoting Better Listening	75
Desire to Listen	75
Focus on the Message	76
Listen for Main Ideas	77

Understand the Speaker's Point of View	77
Withhold Judgment	78
Reinforce the Message	79
Provide Feedback	80
Listen with the Body	80
Listen Critically	80
Critiquing Speeches	80
Begin with a Positive Statement	83
Target a Few Key Areas for Improvement	83
Organize Your Comments	84
Be Specific	84
Be Honest but Tactful	84
Personalize Your Comments	85
Reinforce the Positive	85
Problem-Solve the Negative	85
Provide the Speaker with a Plan of Action	86
End with a Positive Statement	87
Acting on Criticism	87
Focus on What Your Critics Say, Not How They Say It	87
Seek Clear and Specific Feedback	88
Evaluate the Feedback You Receive	88
Develop a Plan of Action	88
Summary	89
Exercises	90
Notes	90

Analyzing Your Audience 92

Recognize the Value of Audience Diversity	95
Analyze Your Audience before the Speech	96
Analyze Audience Demographics	97
Analyze Audience Psychographics	103
Analyze Audience Needs	105
Analyze Specific Speaking Situations	109
Analyze Your Audience during the Speech	113
Analyze Your Audience after the Speech	114
Summary	115
Exercises	117
Notes	118

Selecting Your Speech Topic 120

Generate Ideas	123
Self-Generated Topics	124
Audience-Generated Topics	127
Occasion-Generated Topics	128

Research-Generated Topics	130
Select Your Topic	131
Focus Your Topic	133
Determine Your General Purpose	134
Speeches to Inform	134
Speeches to Persuade	135
Speeches to Entertain	135
Formulate Your Specific Purpose	135
Word Your Thesis Statement	136
Develop Your Speech Title	138
Summary	139
Exercises	140
Notes	141

Researching Your Topic 142

Assess Your Personal Knowledge	146
Develop Your Research Plan	147
Collect Your Information	148
Magazines and Journals	149
Newspapers	152
Government Documents	152
Books	155
Reference Works	156
Television and Radio	159
The World Wide Web	160
Interviews	162
Calling, Writing, and E-Mailing for Information	165
Record Your Information	167
What to Record	167
How to Record Information	167
Conclude Your Search	169
Summary	170
Exercises	171
Notes	172

Supporting Your Speech 174

Purposes of Supporting Materials	176
Clarity	176
Vividness	177
Credibility	177
Types of Supporting Materials	178
Examples	178
Definition	180
Narration	183
Comparison and Contrast	184

Statistics	185
Testimony	187
Tests of Evidence	189
Is the Evidence Quoted in Context?	189
Is the Source of the Evidence an Expert?	190
Is the Source of the Evidence Unbiased?	190
Is the Evidence Relevant to the Point Being Made?	191
Is the Evidence Specific?	191
Is the Evidence Sufficient to Prove the Point?	192
Is the Evidence Timely?	192
Evaluating Electronic Information	192
Purpose	193
Expertise	193
Objectivity	194
Accuracy	194
Timeliness	194
Summary	194
Exercises	196
Notes	196

Organizing the Body of Your Speech 198

Formulate an Organizing Question	201
Divide the Speech into Key Ideas	202
Topical Division	202
Chronological Division	203
Spatial Division	204
Causal Division	205
Pro-Con Division	206
Mnemonic or Gimmick Division	207
Problem-Solution Division	207
Need-Plan Division	208
Develop the Key Ideas	209
Signpost the Idea	209
State the Idea	209
Support the Idea	210
Summarize the Idea	211
Connect the Key Ideas	212
Summary	215
Exercises	216
Notes	217

Introducing and Concluding Your Speech 218

Organize the Introduction of the Speech	220
Get the Attention of Your Audience	220

State Your Topic	228
Establish the Importance of Your Topic	229
Establish Your Credibility to Speak on Your Topic	229
Preview Your Key Ideas	229
Organize the Conclusion of the Speech	232
Summarize Your Key Ideas	232
Activate Audience Response	233
Provide Closure	234
Summary	237
Exercises	238
Notes	239

11 Outlining Your Speech 240

Functions of Outlining	242
Tests Scope of Content	242
Tests Logical Relation of Parts	242
Tests Relevance of Supporting Ideas	243
Checks Balance of Speech	244
Serves as Delivery Notes	244
Principles of Outlining	244
Singularity	245
Consistency	245
Adequacy	246
Uniformity	246
Parallelism	246
Stages of Outlining	246
The Working Outline	247
The Formal Outline	252
The Speaking Outline	256
Summary	259
Exercises	260
Notes	261

12 Wording Your Speech 262

Functions of Language	265
Communicate Ideas	265
Send Messages about User	265
Strengthen Social Bonds	266
Serve as Instrument of Play	266
Check Language Use	266
Principles of Effective Language Use	268
Use Language Correctly	268
Use Language Clearly	270
Use Language Vividly	272
Use Language Appropriately	280

Summary	283
Exercises	285
Notes	286

13 Delivering Your Speech 288

Principles of Nonverbal Communication	291
Methods of Delivery	293
Speaking Impromptu	293
Speaking from Memory	293
Speaking from Manuscript	293
Speaking Extemporaneously	294
Qualities of Effective Delivery	295
Elements of Vocal Delivery	297
Rate and Pause	297
Volume	299
Pitch and Inflection	300
Voice Quality	301
Articulation and Pronunciation	301
Elements of Physical Delivery	303
Appearance	303
Posture	305
Facial Expression	305
Eye Contact	306
Movement	307
Gestures	307
Summary	309
Exercises	310
Notes	310

14 Using Presentational Aids 312

The Importance of Using Presentational Aids	314
Increases Message Clarity	315
Reinforces Message Impact	315
Increases Speaker Dynamism	315
Enhances Speaker Confidence	315
Types of Presentational Aids	317
Objects	317
Graphics	318
Projections	324
Electronic Aids	326
Handouts	327
Audio and Other Aids	327
Guidelines for Designing Presentational Aids	328
Focus	328
Layout	328
Highlighting	329

Fonts	329
Color and Art	329
Strategies for Using Presentational Aids	330
Before the Speech	330
During the Speech	332
Summary	333
Exercises	334
Notes	335

15 Speaking to Inform 336

Characteristics of a Speech to Inform	338
Informative Speech Topics	339
Speeches about People	340
Speeches about Objects	342
Speeches about Places	342
Speeches about Events	344
Speeches about Processes	345
Speeches about Concepts	345
Speeches about Conditions	346
Speeches about Issues	346
Guidelines for Speaking to Inform	350
Stress Your Informative Purpose	350
Be Specific	350
Be Clear	350
Be Accurate	350
Limit Your Ideas and Supporting Materials	351
Be Relevant	351
Be Objective	351
Use Appropriate Organization	352
Use Appropriate Forms of Support	352
Use Effective Delivery	352
Annotated Sample Speech	353
Summary	357
Exercises	358
Notes	359

16 The Strategy of Persuasion 360

The Importance of Persuasion	362
A Definition of Persuasion	363
Types of Influence	364
The Pyramid of Persuasion	365
Types of Persuasive Speeches	368
Speeches to Convince	368
Speeches to Actuate	368
Speeches to Inspire	368
Persuasive Speaking Strategies	369

Establish Your Credibility	370
Focus Your Goals	374
Connect with Your Listeners	375
Organize Your Arguments	377
Support Your Ideas	378
Enhance Your Emotional Appeals	378
Summary	381
Exercises	382
Notes	383

17 The Structure of Persuasion 384

Making Arguments	387
Steps of an Argument	387
Refuting an Argument	388
Types of Argument	389
Fallacies of Argument	397
Selecting Propositions for Persuasive Speeches	403
Characteristics of Propositions	404
Types of Propositions	405
Monroe's Motivated Sequence	407
Annotated Sample Speech	409
Summary	411
Exercises	413
Notes	414

18 Speaking on Special Occasions 416

The Speech of Introduction	418
The Speech of Presentation	420
The Acceptance Speech	422
The Speech of Tribute	424
The Speech to Entertain	425
The Impromptu Speech	427
The Question-Answer Period	429
The Videotaped Speech	430
Summary	433
Exercises	434
Notes	435

19 Speaking in and as a Small Group 436

Small Group Communication and Public Speaking	438
Small Groups Defined	439
Types of Groups	439
Group Discussion and Decision Making	441