Bees are insects. They live all over the world except where it is very cold. Bees do not like ice and snow. They are the only insects that make food that you and I can eat. We eat their honey and also use their wax(蜂蜡) for making things.

Bees live in a hive. They live in hundreds of little rooms made of wax. It is in these rooms that the queen bee lays her eggs. As each egg hatches out, it becomes a larva(幼虫). This larva lives in a room and is fed by other bees. Every bee does a job without being told. Some make wax, others fan the hive to keep it cool. Then there are the bees that fetch nectar(花蜜) from the flowers. The nectar is turned into honey inside the bee that puts it into room as food for the larva or gives it to another bee. The queen bee is larger than the other bees. There is only one queen in a hive. If other queens are born, they are killed. While she keeps laying eggs, she is looked after by the worker bees.

The water was warm, the sun shone every day, and on most days there were no waves. In the middle of the day, wind always began to blow, but it was not strong and did not make the sea rough(汹涌的).

Three times during our holidays we had strong winds. They blew the sand against our legs when we ran down to the sea and made big waves with white tops. We were all good swimmers. We dived(潜水) through the waves or rode towards the beach on top of them until we were tired and hungry.

In western countries today, more and more foods have additives (添加剂) in them. What are additives? Additives are chemicals (化学制品) which are put into foods to give them color and taste, to stop them going bad, and so on. But doctors say that some additives can be very bad for us.

Now let's look at how additives can be bad for our health. Take, for example, a little English girl called Sally Jones. Sally is two years old and quite an ordinary little girl. But when she was younger, she never went to sleep at night. she never got tired. Finally, Sally's parents took her to a special doctor. He said that she must never eat food with additives in it. He was sure that the additives had a very bad effect (影响) on her body, and made her too active (活跃). He was quite correct. As soon as Sally started to eat only foods with no additives, she began to sleep well at night. Now she is the same as other little girls, except that she can't eat many foods that children love, such as ice cream (冰激凌), because they have additives in them.
