REVIEWS, COMMENTARIES, EVALUATIONS . . .*

“This book is an antidote to the obstacles encountered when a social construct, such as gender, is championed in the biological world of medicine. Whether it is challenging gender norms and stereotypes, promoting patient autonomy, questioning why an individual is afflicted by a particular illness, or learning why a focus on women's health, rather than gender, makes men the norm and marginalizes women as ‘other,’ this book is FULL OF THOUGHT-PROVOKING EXAMPLES OF THE WHYS AND HOWS OF GENDER MAINSTREAMING.”

Susan P. Phillips, MD, CCFP, MSc
*Associate Professor and Coordinator

“VALUABLE to anyone involved in medical and health science education. . . . Provides much-needed insight. . . . One comes away not only with ideas about how to improve teaching a gender perspective but also a sense of what one can expect to confront in attempting to integrate gender issues into medical curricula. The authors are pioneers in the integration of a gender perspective in medicine and they describe their experiences in quite different settings with a tone that is direct and conversational, which makes this collection TRULY ENJOYABLE TO READ.”

REVIEWS, COMMENTARIES, EVALUATIONS . . .

“A VALUABLE COMPILATION OF CASE STUDIES by seasoned educators from around the world. . . . Covers a breadth of topics which would be of interest to many medical educators. . . . The sections on incorporating gender studies into academic medicine and on the need to educate providers about lesbian health were particularly interesting. . . . A MUST-READ for educators in women's health and gender-based medicine. Overall, this a WELL-WRITTEN AND INTERESTING work. . . . A valuable addition to the relatively new fields of education in women's health and gender-based medicine.”

Deborah Kwolek, MD

*Associate Professor of Medicine
University of Kentucky*

“UNIQUE . . . INNOVATIVE. . . . The lessons learned from these detailed accounts of developing, implementing, and evaluating various gender innovations in the medical and health sciences curricula will be OF GREAT BENEFIT TO ACADEMICS AND TRAINERS still engaged in this process.”

Teaching Gender, Teaching Women's Health: Case Studies in Medical and Health Science Education has been co-published simultaneously as Women & Health, Volume 37, Number 4 2003.

The Women & Health Monographic "Separates"

Below is a list of "separates," which in serials librarianship means a special issue simultaneously published as a special journal issue or double-issue and as a "separate" hardbound monograph. (This is a format which we also call a "DocuSerial.")

"Separates" are published because specialized libraries or professionals may wish to purchase a specific thematic issue by itself in a format which can be separately cataloged and shelved, as opposed to purchasing the journal on an on-going basis. Faculty members may also more easily consider a "separate" for classroom adoption.

"Separates" are carefully classified separately with the major book jobbers so that the journal tie-in can be noted on new book order slips to avoid duplicate purchasing.

You may wish to visit Haworth's website at . . .

Teaching Gender, Teaching Women's Health: Case Studies in Medical and Health Science

Education, edited by Lenore Manderson, PhD, FASSA (Vol. 37, No. 4, 2003). "VALUABLE to anyone involved in medical and health science education. . . . Provides much-needed insight." (Ursula K. Snyder, PhD, Editor/Program Director, Medscape Ob/Gyn & Women's Health, New York City)

Environmental, Policy and Cultural Factors Related to Physical Activity in a Diverse Sample of Women: The Women's Cardiovascular Health Network Project, edited by Amy A. Eyler, PhD (Vol. 36, No. 2, 2002). "INTERESTING AND UNIQUE. . . . A MUST-READ for anyone interested in designing, implementing, and evaluating physical activity interventions for underserved—and typically inactive—women." (Lynda Randsell, PhD, FACSM, Assistant Professor of Exercise & Sport Science, University of Utah-Salt Lake City)

Women's Health in Mainland Southeast Asia, edited by Andrea Whittaker, PhD (Vol. 35, No. 4, 2002). Shows how war, military regimes, industrialization, urbanization, and social upheaval have all affected the choices Southeast Asian women make about their health and health care.

Domestic Violence and Health Care: Policies and Prevention, edited by Carolina Reyes, MD, William J. Rudman, PhD, and Calvin R. Hewitt, MBA (Vol. 35, No. 2/3, 2002). Examines the role of health care in the struggle to combat domestic violence.

Women's Work, Health and Quality of Life, edited by Afaf Ibrahim Meleis, PhD, FAAN (Vol. 33, No. 1/2, 2001). "A FINE COLLECTION. . . . A useful supplement for courses on women and health. It is particularly helpful to have a collection that reports research on women in different countries. . . . Describes role overload, role strain, and stress that occurs when immigrants try to adjust to a new culture." (Eleanor Krassen Covan, PhD, Professor of Sociology, Director of Gerontology, University of North Carolina, Wilmington)

Welfare, Work and Well-Being, edited by Mary Clare Lennon, PhD, MS (Vol. 32, No. 1/2 & No. 3, 2001). Examines the relationship between social roles, economic circumstances, material hardship, and child well-being among low-income women.

Australian Women's Health: Innovations in Social Science and Community Research, edited by Lenore Manderson, PhD (Vol. 28, No. 1, 1998). Reflects a wider approach to women's health, which moves from maternity and fertility issues to question the impact of gender on all aspects of the disease experience.

Women, Drug Use and HIV Infection, edited by Sally J. Stevens, PhD, Stephanie Tortu, PhD, and Susan L. Coyle, PhD (Vol. 27, No. 1/2, 1998). "A much-needed resource of critical information about the largest initiative to date designed to prevent HIV among drug users and their sexual partners." (Robert E. Booth, PhD, Associate Professor of Psychiatry, University of Colorado School of Medicine, Denver)

Women in the Later Years: Health, Social, and Cultural Perspectives, edited by Lois Grau, PhD, RN, in collaboration with Ida Susser, PhD (Vol. 14, No. 3/4, 1989). "An excellent overview of the pertinent social, political, and personal issues of this long-ignored group." (News for Women in Psychiatry)

Government Policy and Women's Health Care: The Swedish Alternative, edited by Gunnela Westlander, PhD, and Jeanne Mager Stellman, PhD (Vol. 13, No. 3/4, 1988). "An illuminating, comprehensive overview of Swedish women's health and their productive and reproductive roles." (Freda L. Paltiel, Senior Advisor, Status of Women, Health and Welfare Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada)

Embryos, Ethics, and Women's Rights: Exploring the New Reproductive Technologies, edited by Elaine Hoffman Baruch, Amadeo F. D'Adamo, Jr., and Joni Seager (Vol. 13, No. 1/2, 1988). "Groundbreaking . . . Reveals the myriad of perspectives from which the new technologies can be regarded. Particularly thought-provoking are discussions that link surrogacy to economic and class issues." (Publishers Weekly)

Women, Health, and Poverty (also published as Dealing with the Health Needs of Women in Poverty), edited by Cesar A. Perales and Lauren S. Young, EdD (Vol. 12, No. 3/4, 1988). "Succeeds in alerting readers to many important issues. . . Should be useful to public policymakers, researchers, and others interested in understanding the health problems of poor women." (Contemporary Psychology)

Women and Cancer, edited by Steven D. Stellman, PhD (Vol. 11, No. 3/4, 1987). "The contributors succeed in increasing the reader's awareness of cancer in women and in stimulating thought processes in reference to the need for further research." (Oncology Nursing Forum)

Health Needs of Women as They Age, edited by Sharon Golub, PhD, and Rita Jackaway Freedman, PhD (Vol. 10, No. 2/3, 1985). "The contributors distill a great deal of general information on aging into an easily readable and understandable format . . . A useful primer." (The New England Journal of Medicine)

Health Care of the Female Adolescent, edited by Sharon Golub, PhD (Vol. 9, No. 2/3, 1985). "An excellent collection of well-written and carefully selected articles designed to provide up-to-date information about the health problems of adolescent girls." (Journal of the American Medical Women's Association)

Lifting the Curse of Menstruation: A Feminist Appraisal of the Influence of Menstruation on Women's Lives, edited by Sharon Golub, PhD (Vol. 8, No. 2/3, 1983). "Crammed with information and well-documented. Written in a professional style, each chapter is followed by extensive lists of notes and references." (Journal of Sex Education and Therapy)

Obstetrical Intervention and Technology in the 1980s, edited by Diony Young, BA (Vol. 7, No. 3/4, 1983). "Every family physician and obstetrician in North America should read this book." (Canadian Family Physician)

Special Bibliographic Notes related to special journal issues (separates) and indexing/abstracting:

- indexing/abstracting services in this list will also cover material in any "separate" that is co-published simultaneously with Haworth's special thematic journal issue or DocuSerial. Indexing/abstracting usually covers material at the article/chapter level.
- monographic co-editions are intended for either non-subscribers or libraries which intend to purchase a second copy for their circulating collections.
- monographic co-editions are reported to all jobbers/wholesalers/approval plans. The source journal is listed as the "series" to assist the prevention of duplicate purchasing in the same manner utilized for books-in-series.
- to facilitate user/access services all indexing/abstracting services are encouraged to utilize the co-indexing entry note indicated at the bottom of the first page of each article/chapter/contribution.
- this is intended to assist a library user of any reference tool (whether print, electronic, online, or CD-ROM) to locate the monographic version if the library has purchased this version but not a subscription to the source journal.
- individual articles/chapters in any Haworth publication are also available through the Haworth Document Delivery Service (HDDS).

ABOUT THE EDITOR

Lenore Manderson, PhD, is Professor of Women's Health at the Key Centre for Women's Health in Society for the University of Melbourne. A medical anthropologist known for her work in sociology, social history, and public health, she has conducted research on infectious and chronic disease, gender, and sexuality in Southeast and East Asia and Africa as well as Australia, in the latter case with immigrant and indigenous women and Anglo-Australians. In 2001, Professor Manderson was awarded an inaugural Federation Fellowship by the Australian Research Council, and she is conducting a five-year research program on chronic illness, disability, social relationships, and well-being. She is a Fellow of the Academy of Social Sciences in Australia and President of the International Association for the Study of Sexuality, Culture, and Society. Dr. Manderson has written several books, including Australian Women's Health: Innovations in Social Science and Community Research, Sickness and the State: Health and Illness in Colonial Malaya, 1870-1940, and Sites of Desire/Economies of Pleasure (with M. Jolly).
