

HUMANITY'S GRAND FINALE . . .

END OF DAYS

ROBERT GLEASON

"Just when we thought it was safe to dream again, Robert Gleason has pulled us back, kicking and screaming, to our collective nightmare: nuclear annihilation."

Nelson DeMille

Praise for Robert Gleason and End of Days

"Gleason does for the end of the world what Milton did for Hell itself."

—W. Michael and Kathleen O'Neal Gear, New York Times
bestselling authors of Fire the Sky and The Dawn Country,
on End of Days

"Reads like a dark prophecy. A brilliantly conceived, ferocious journey into the final fire, it swept me up with its blazing intensity. A heart-stopping reading experience."

—Whitley Strieber, New York Times bestselling author of Hybrids, on End of Days

"The ride of a lifetime—or more accurately . . . of a deathtime! Written in 3-D, it will take a Spielberg to make a movie of it!"

—David Black, winner of two Edgars, a dozen Emmy and Writers Guild nominations and awards, as well as the author of The Extinction Event, on End of Days

"The Road on steroids!"

—Jon Land, award-winning author of Strong at the Break,
on End of Days

"One of the reading experiences of my lifetime. Seldom if ever have I read a book that combined such literary power with a factual background that induced those basic components of tragedy, fear, and pity. Talk about being transfixed to the page! I was transmuted!"

—Thomas Fleming, winner of the Lincoln Prize for Lifetime Achievement in History, former president of the American Society of Historians and of PEN, and New York Times bestselling author of The Secret Trial of Robert E. Lee,
on End of Days

"Great Caesar's ghost! What a story! At times mystical, at others apocalyptic, his characters take you through an almost mythic experience."

—Larry Bond, New York Times bestselling author of
Cold Choices, on End of Days

“Readers diving into Gleason’s world will never be the same again. End of Days is a nuclear warhead of a novel, which could do for the antiproliferation movement what Silent Spring did for environmentalism. People will inevitably compare End of Days to such apocalyptic masterworks as The Stand, Left Behind, Swan Song, Fail-Safe, Dr. Strangelove, and The Sum of All Fears, but in truth there are no comparisons. End of Days dwarfs all previous efforts. A vision old as the Bible, violent as Armageddon itself, End of Days is more than a novel. It is the fulfillment of Revelation, Nostradamus, and all the ancient apocalyptic scrolls rolled into one. This is the End Time writ large. Bravo! Hats off! I wish I could have written End of Days, but I’m man enough to admit that I could not have done it for all the tea in China!”

—David Hagberg, New York Times bestselling author of
The Expediter

“Passionate readers need not fear Philip Roth’s lament that fiction is dead. . . . This novel is sprawling, epic, cinematic, and a ripping good adventure yarn. If Gleason has forgotten anything about fashioning a book that will get widely read, the reader won’t discover what it might be.”

—Booklist on Wrath of God, the sequel to End of Days

Special thanks to

Tom Doherty, Junius Podrug, and John Farris, without whose help this book never would have come to fruition.

Also to Linda Quinton, who makes all things possible, and to Eric Raab, friend and editor.

Very special thanks to

Jerry Gibbs, who has had my back for over five decades—semper fi.

Acknowledgments

To Sessalee Hensley, for encouraging me to write about the apocalypse; Christine Jaeger, for so much help and support; George Noory and Lisa Lyon, to whom I owe so much; Howie Carr, a prince among men; and to Mancow Muller, the Peaceful Warrior.

To my friends at NFGTV, particularly Stefan Springman, Toby Barraud, and Lisa LeeKing Ruvalcaba, for putting me in the History Channel's Prophets of Doom—and for putting up with me.

To David Hagberg and Larry Bond, both of whom vetted all things military (all mistakes in these areas are mine, I hasten to add); Katharine Critchlow and Whitney Ross, who keep all of us sane; Eleanor Wood and Justin Bell, who are very dear friends.

To Doug Greenlaw, Alice Gleason, Simon Basse, Blaine Heric, Janis Kinsey, Gary Nuspl, Larry Beaver, LaVerne Dunlap, and all my Michigan City, Indiana, friends.

To Maribel and Roberto Gutierrez—I will never forget.

And once again to Herb Alexander, 1910–1988. You could ride the river with him.
