

THE CHINESE WAR OF RESISTANCE AGAINST JAPANESE AGGRESSION

A Concise History

中国抗日战争史简明读本

中央编译出版社
Central Compilation & Translation Press

The Chinese War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression

A Concise History

Chinese edition compiled by
Editorial Committee for The Chinese War of Resistance
Against Japanese Aggression

---

Translated by
The Compilation and Translation Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China

---

Central Compilation & Translation Press

图书在版编目(CIP) 数据

中国抗日战争史简明读本: 英文 / 《中国抗日战争史简明读本》编写组编著;
中共中央编译局译. —北京: 中央编译出版社, 2015.8

ISBN 978-7-5117-2742-8

I. ①中… II. ①中… ②中… III. ①抗日战争史—中国—英文 IV. ①K265

中国版本图书馆CIP数据核字(2015)第172199 号

The Chinese War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression: A Concise History
(中国抗日战争史简明读本)

---

出版发行: 中央编译出版社

地 址: 北京西城区车公庄大街乙5号鸿儒大厦B座(100044)

网 址: www.cctphome.com

印 刷: 北京华联印刷有限公司

开 本: 710毫米×1000毫米 1/16

印 张: 31.5

字 数: 378千字

版 次: 2015年8月北京第1版

印 次: 2015年8月第1次印刷

定 价: 98.00元

Editorial Committee for The Chinese War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression:

Editor-in-Chief: Zhi Shaozeng

Deputy Editors-in-Chief: Liu Tinghua, He Xincheng

Other Members: Bu Ping, Geng Chengkuan, Li Rong, Liu Maokun, Meng Guoxiang, Pan Zeqing, Peng Yulong, Yu Xingwei,
Yue Siping, Zhang Congtian

Translation Team of The Chinese War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression:

Translators: Cao Zhigang, Holly A. Snape, Liang Yan, Liu Liang, Michael Porter, Sun Xianhui, Tong Xiaohua, Wang Lili,
Wang Pingxing, Yang Wangping, Zhang Ning, Zhu Yanhui

Translation Assistants: Bao Zhong, Li Juxin, Sun Ning, Tong Dongjie, Wang Weidong

Contents

Introduction .....	1
I. Fourteen Years of Resistance .....	1
II. A National Turning Point: from Decline to Rejuvenation .....	6
III. The Main Eastern Battlefield in the Global War against Fascism .....	8
IV. The Mainstay of Chinese United Resistance .....	12
 Chapter One Japan Invades and China's Regional Resistance Starts the Global War against Fascism ....	 19
I. Militarism and the Eastern Hotbed of War Develop in Japan.....	21
II. Japan Manufactures the September 18th Incident, Starting Its Regional Aggression against China.....	29
1. The September 18th Incident and the occupation of northeast China .....	29
2. Chiang Kai-shek's policy of non-resistance and British and US non-interference.....	32
3. The puppet state of Manchukuo and Japanese colonial rule.....	36
III. Regional Resistance Begins .....	41
1. The CPC's call for resistance against Japanese aggression .....	41
2. The birth of a nationwide resistance movement .....	44
3. Armed struggle in northeast China.....	47
4. The January 28th Incident and the Battle of Shanghai .....	53

Chapter Two Regional Resistance Develops and the Chinese United Front against Japanese Aggression Begins to Take

Shape .....	59
I. Japanese Aggression Escalates and
Regional Resistance Develops .....	61
1. The fall of Rehe and the Battle of the Great Wall .....	61
2. The defense of Chahar .....	65
3. The defense of Suiyuan .....	68
II. Japan Engineers the “North China Incident” and the Resistance Movement Reaches New Heights .....	70
1. The “North China Incident” and the Chinese nation in
greater crisis .....	70
2. The December 9th Movement and the growth of the
nationwide resistance movement .....	75
3. The CPC’s basic policy on the Chinese united front .....	79
III. In Northeast China Backstage Battlefields Take Shape and
Counter-Japanese Guerrilla Warfare Reaches a High .....	83
IV. KMT-CPC Cooperation Begins to Form and China Prepares for Nationwide Resistance .....	89
1. The KMT’s adjustment to its Japan policy and the CPC’s
decision to press Chiang Kai-shek to resist .....	89
2. The Xi’an Incident and its peaceful resolution .....	92
3. The initial formation of the Chinese united front .....	98
4. Preparations for nationwide resistance .....	101

Chapter Three Japan Launches Full-Scale Aggression and China Responds with Nationwide Resistance, Becoming the Main Eastern Battlefield in the Global War against Fascism .....	105
I. Nationwide Resistance Begins and the United Front
Formally Takes Shape .....	107
1. The Lugou Bridge Incident and the beginning of nationwide resistance .....	107
2. The global impact of the full-scale war between China and Japan.....	112
II. Lines and Strategies for the War of Resistance .....	115
1. The CPC's line and strategy.....	116
2. The KMT's line and strategy .....	123
III. Reorganization of the Red Army's Main Forces and Victory at Pingxingguan.....	126
IV. The Battles of Shanghai and Taiyuan .....	132
1. The Battle of Shanghai .....	132
2. The Battle of Taiyuan .....	137
 Chapter Four Coordination Develops between Center Stage and Backstage Battlefields, and the Japanese Fascists' Attempt at a Quick Victory Is Shattered .....	143
I. Backstage Battlefields in Northern China.....	145
1. The Eighth Route Army's guerrilla warfare in the mountains and the establishment of its resistance bases .....	145
2. Local armed resistance forces and guerrilla warfare in northern China .....	152
3. The Eighth Route Army's guerrilla warfare on the plains and its protection of resistance bases in mountainous areas .....	156
II. The Battles of Nanjing and Xuzhou .....	164

1. The Battle of Nanjing .....	164
2. The Battle of Xuzhou and victory at Tai'ierzhuang .....	166
III. The New Fourth Army's Fight against the Japanese and Its Backstage Battlefields in Central China .....	172
1. Reorganization of Red Army guerrilla forces in eight southern provinces into the New Fourth Army .....	172
2. The New Fourth Army's guerrilla warfare and its resistance bases in central China .....	175
IV. The Battle of Wuhan and the Fall of Guangzhou .....	181
1. The Battle of Wuhan .....	181
2. The fall of Guangzhou .....	187

Chapter Five The Chinese Resistance Reaches a High and China

Receives Support from the International Community ..... 189

I. The Political, Economic, Cultural, and Diplomatic Landscape in China Following the Start of the Nationwide War of Resistance .....	191
1. The political climate .....	191
2. The wartime economy .....	194
3. Resistance-related cultural and educational activities .....	196
4. Chinese diplomacy .....	201
II. The People's Resistance in China .....	203
1. Classes, social strata, and social groups .....	203
2. Ethnic minorities .....	207
3. The people of Hong Kong and Macao .....	212
III. Assistance from Overseas Chinese .....	216
1. Resistance movements organized by Chinese communities overseas .....	216
2. Economic assistance .....	218

3. Contributions of manpower .....	222
IV. International Support.....	227
1. Sympathy and assistance from people around the world .....	227
2. Assistance from the USSR, the US, and other countries .....	231

Chapter Six China Continues to Fight Alone and the Backstage Battlefields Become the Main Battleground in the Nationwide

War of Resistance ..... 239

I. Strategic Adjustments by China and Japan as Strategic

Stalemate Begins ..... 241

1. Japan adjusts its strategy of aggression and changes occur in the international situation..... 241
2. The CPC Central Committee determines its strategy and tasks .. 243
3. The National Government adjusts its military and political strategies ..... 244

II. Consolidation and Development of Resistance Bases behind

Japanese Lines and the Hundred-Regiment Campaign..... 246

1. The Eighth Route Army's three main forces move onto the Northern China Plains ..... 246
2. Resistance bases in northern China repel Japanese and collaborationist mopping-up operations ..... 249
3. The Hundred-Regiment Campaign inspires enthusiasm across China..... 255
4. The New Fourth Army develops resistance bases in central China ..... 260
5. The Southern China People's Counter-Japanese Guerrilla
Forces establish resistance bases in the South ..... 266
6. The Northeast United Resistance Army engages in bitter fighting in the Northeast ..... 269

III. Center Stage Battles against Japanese Offensives.....	273
1. Operations in the areas surrounding Wuhan .....	273
2. The Chinese winter offensive of 1939 .....	277
3. Counter-blockade operations in coastal southeast China .....	279
IV. Persevering with the Policy of United Resistance and Maintaining the Chinese United Front.....	282
1. Denouncing the Wang Jingwei clique .....	282
2. Resisting KMT compromises with Japan .....	284
3. Beating back the first and second anti-CPC onslaughts
by KMT diehards .....	286
V. Democratic Reform and Development in Resistance Bases .....	289
1. Building democracy .....	289
2. Economic development .....	291
3. Furthering culture and education .....	292

Chapter Seven Chinese Soldiers and Civilians Fight on and China
Continues to Be the Main Eastern Battlefield in the Global War
against Fascism .....	297
I. The Outbreak of the Pacific War and the Establishment of an International Anti-Fascist United Front .....	299
1. Japan decides on the southern expansion and the Pacific
War breaks out .....	299
2. An international anti-fascist united front takes shape .....	302
3. The China Theater is delineated .....	305
II. The Chinese Military and Civilian Struggle behind
Enemy Lines.....	307
1. The resistance meets with grave difficulties .....	307
2. Military forces are strengthened to beat back Japanese “mopping-up,” “gnawing-away,” and “pacification” operations.....	311

3. A number of measures are adopted to consolidate resistance bases .....	326
III. China's Center Stage Battles and the Chinese Expeditionary Force's Fight in Burma in Support of the British .....	331
1. China's center stage battles .....	331
2. The Chinese Expeditionary Force's fight in Burma .....	336
Chapter Eight Japanese Fascist Atrocities .....	347
I. Massacre and Persecution .....	349
1. The Nanjing Massacre .....	349
2. Innumerable cases of brutal slaughter .....	355
3. The "Three Alls" policy and indiscriminate bombing .....	361
II. Biological and Chemical Warfare: Japanese Violations of the Geneva Protocol .....	364
1. Inhuman biological weapons experiments and germ warfare .....	365
2. Chemical warfare .....	372
III. The Abduction and Enslavement of Chinese Laborers .....	376
IV. The Brutal Abuse of Chinese Women and the Japanese Military's "Comfort Women" System of Sexual Enslavement .....	382
V. The Ravaging of Chinese Culture .....	388
Chapter Nine China Engages in Local Counter-Attacks and Cooperates with Other Allied Forces in Strategic Counter-Offensives .....	397
I. The Strategic Turning Point in the Global War against Fascism and the Preliminary Establishment of China's Position as a Major Country .....	399
1. The Allies launch strategic counter-offensives and

offensives while Japan is beset with difficulties both at home and abroad .....	399
2. China, the US, and Britain hold the Cairo Conference on strategic coordination .....	401
3. China participates in the creation of the United Nations.....	403
II. Local Counter-Offensives on Backstage Battlefields .....	405
1. The Eighth Route Army launches the first strategic counter-offensives in the China Theater .....	405
2. Local counter-offensives are set in motion on all backstage battlefields .....	408
3. New strategic areas are opened up .....	412
4. Liberated areas are expanded while Japanese-occupied areas are reduced.....	417
III. Victory in the Northern Burma and Western Yunnan Counter-Offensives and Crushing Defeat in the Henan-Hunan-Guangxi Campaign.....	422
1. The Chinese Army in India and the Chinese Expeditionary Force launch counter-offensives in northern Burma and western Yunnan .....	422
2. KMT troops suffer crushing defeat in the Henan-Hunan-Guangxi Campaign.....	426
IV. The Chinese People's Struggle for Victory in the War of Resistance and for the Establishment of a Democratic Coalition Government .....	430
1. The third anti-CPC onslaught by KMT diehards is curbed .....	430
2. Movements for democracy reach a high in KMT-controlled areas.....	431
3. The CPC holds its Seventh National Congress and establishes the line and policy for achieving victory

in the War of Resistance and building a new China.....	434
---	-----

Chapter Ten Japan Surrenders and Victory Is Secured ..... 437

I. The International Situation on the Eve of Victory in the War of Resistance.....	439
1. The Yalta Conference and the Allies' strategies for securing the defeat of fascist Germany and Japan .....	439
2. The Potsdam Conference and the Proclamation Defining Terms for Japanese Surrender.....	441
II. Counter-Offensives in All Liberated Areas.....	444
1. Counter-offensives against large and medium-sized cities and transportation hubs .....	444
2. Liberating rural areas and small and medium-sized cities and fighting Japanese and collaborationist troops who refuse to surrender .....	449
3. Liberating Rehe and Chahar and advancing to the Northeast .....	453
III. Japan's Surrender and the Acceptance Ceremony in the China Theater.....	456
1. Japan's announcement of unconditional surrender .....	456
2. The acceptance ceremony in the China Theater.....	458
IV. The People of Taiwan's Resistance against the Japanese and the Recovery of Taiwan.....	460
1. The anti-Japanese movement in defense of Taiwan and the people's struggle against the Japanese.....	461
2. The people's counter-Japanese struggle in Taiwan during the nationwide War of Resistance.....	463
3. The recovery of Taiwan .....	466
V. Japanese War Crimes Trials.....	468
1. The Tokyo Trials .....	468

2. The trials by the Chinese government ..... 477

Concluding Remarks..... 481

Afterword ..... 487

Introduction

The Chinese War of Resistance against Japanese Aggression (1931–1945) was a just war waged by the Chinese people in opposition to Japanese militarist aggression. It was also an important part of the Global War against Fascism in which China was the main battlefield in the East. This was the first time in China's modern history that a great national liberation war against foreign aggression ended in total victory.

I. Fourteen Years of Resistance

The September 18th Incident of 1931 marked the beginning of the Chinese War of Resistance against Japanese Aggression. By the time the war drew to a close in 1945 when Japan announced its unconditional surrender, it had been going on for 14 tortuous years.

The first six of the 14 years were fought as regional wars of resistance mainly in northeast China, northern China, and Shanghai, and served as both the prelude to and an important part of the War of Resistance as a whole. The remaining eight years, fought as a nationwide War of Resistance, were an extension and development of the earlier regional wars of resistance. These were years of decisive, full-scale nationwide war, during which it took all of China's might to fight against and eventually defeat the Japanese aggressors.

The period from September 1931 to December 1932 saw the rise of regional wars. On September 18, 1931, Japan manufactured the September 18th Incident and swiftly occupied the whole of northeast China. On January 28, 1932, Japan initiated the January 28th Incident in Shanghai to support and provide cover for its army's aggression against northeast China.

However, in the face of these large-scale acts of aggression, the Kuomintang (KMT), China's ruling party, and its government followed a policy of attending to internal pacification before resistance to foreign invasion. First they did not resist Japanese aggression against the northeast, and then they made compromises and concessions to Japan during the Battle of Shanghai, which broke out on January 28. As a result, the Japanese Army had no difficulty in securing success in its attempt to occupy the Northeast and create the puppet state of Manchukuo, and went on to force the Chinese government to sign the Shanghai Ceasefire Agreement, which placed China in an unfavorable position.

As the contention between China and Japan quickly intensified and resistance against Japanese aggression and the need to save the nation came to be the theme of political concern on the minds of the Chinese people, the Communist Party of China (CPC) was wholly opposed to the policy of attending to internal pacification before resistance to foreign invasion and became the first to call on all Chinese people to carry out armed resistance against the Japanese invasion. It actively supported the resistance efforts of Chinese soldiers and civilians throughout the country, and directly participated in, gave impetus to, and dominated the war of resistance in the Northeast.

The period from January 1933 to July 1937 was characterized by the development of regional wars of resistance. During this stage the Japanese Army, according to plan, began its invasion of eastern Inner Mongolia and northern China in an attempt to create another puppet Manchukuo. As Japan was systematically expanding its aggression against China and nationwide pressure on the KMT government for resistance against the aggression and national salvation was mounting, although continuing to adhere to the policy of internal pacification before resistance to foreign invasion, the government began to put up a certain level of resistance. Some pro-resistance officers of the KMT led their men against the Japanese in the battles of the Great Wall, Chahar and Suiyuan. At this point, in order to transform the regional wars into a nationwide war of resistance, the CPC promptly made a major policy proposal, suggesting that a Chinese united front be established to resist Japanese aggression. At the critical moment when dealing with the Xi'an Incident it went on to follow this policy. This laid the foundation for putting an end to the civil war between the KMT and the CPC and bringing about their cooperation in resisting Japanese aggression.

The period from July 1937 to October 1938 was a stage of strategic defense in the nationwide War of Resistance. On July 7, 1937, Japan manufactured the Lugou Bridge Incident (also referred to as the Marco Polo Bridge Incident), starting a full-scale war of aggression against China.

With the policy of building a Chinese united front against Japanese aggression based on cooperation between the KMT and the CPC in place, China set out on a nationwide War of Resistance that was to decide the future of the Chinese nation. During this stage, the KMT military resisted large numbers of Japanese troops in center stage battlefields and fought the battles of Shanghai, Taiyuan, Xuzhou, and Wuhan, suffering tremendous casualties. The center stage battlefields constituted the main setting for resistance against the Japanese Army's strategic offensives. At the same time, the armed forces led by the CPC marched to the frontlines to resist the Japanese, engaged them in battle and secured victory at Pingxingguan and in other battles. Following this, they moved to areas behind enemy lines to launch guerrilla warfare and began developing