Media Law in Montenegro

The Author

Aneta Spaić was born on September 27, 1981 in Nikšić. She holds a Diploma of International Baccalaureate from the United World College in Trieste, Italy. In 2004, she graduated from the Law Faculty in Podgorica, graduating with top honors (having an average grade of ten). While studying, she was awarded by the city of Podgorica, School of Law and University, several awards and the Charter of the University of Montenegro as best student of the University and Law School. After her Bachelor's in Law, she pursued her Master's in Law at Kyushu University (Fukuoka, Japan) as a scholar of the Japanese Government. In 2004, she was elected for a teaching assistant job and worked as the administrative assistant at the Centre for Human Rights. About the same time, she became a laureate of the Montenegrin Academy of Science and Art. In 2009, she obtained her PhD from the Law Faculty of University of Montenegro in Podgorica. In December of the same year, she was elected for arbitrator of the International Arbitration Court attached to Chamber of Commerce, and she was conferred the academic title of assistant professor at the University of Montenegro. In 2010, she was appointed as the national correspondent by the Government of Montenegro in UNCITRAL. In 2011, she became a member of Centre for Young Scientists of Montenegrin Academy of Science and Art, and in 2014, a member of Global Young Academy. In May 2015, she was conferred the rank of associate professor at University of Montenegro. She gave lectures/speeches on various business legal issues ranging from arbitration, privacy rights, and business financial reform from 2000 to 2014 in a variety of forums from Washington DC to Dallas, Texas to New York, and countries such as Austria, Belgrade, Croatia, Germany, Montenegro, Netherlands, and Spain. In addition, she has the experience of teaching Law in law schools and undergraduate forums, having taught International Business Law at Washington and Lee Law School, Lexington, VA. She is the (co)author of monographs entitled Commercial and Economic Law in Montenegro published by Kluwer International, New Lex Mercatoria and Termination of Sale Contract, Mediation in Commercial Disputes, Legal Aspects of Mitigating Risks in Project Finance and writer of significant
