“Red envelope”(微信红包) has swept the country recently. Children can get more money by snatching(抢) red envelopes. But everyone needs to understand something about money: where it comes from, how to save it and how to spend it correctly. Too many parents don’t take time to teach their children about money, and as a result, many of those children don’t know how to deal with money when they grow up.

When should parents begin teaching their children about money? Experts(专家) agree that it’s never too early. The more children learn about money, the more correctly they will be able to deal with money as they grow older. To begin with, parents can teach kids how to count money.

Next, parents can teach kids how to save money. For example, a kid wants a new bicycle. Parents can teach them to save part of their pocket money for that bike, while still keeping some money for ice cream and movies. In this way they will begin to understand the meaning of saving.

Also it’s never too early to teach children different ways to make money besides snatching red envelopes. For example, they wash cars, clean gardens, look after babies and so on. Sit down with children and talk with them about some ways they could make money. You’ll be surprised and glad at the effort they will begin making.

Teach children about how to deal with money when they’re young, and their future will be brighter.

One day I had a cup of tea at the university tea room. I saw a lady drinking tea with milk in it. Then I asked her. “80” She smiled and said. “Yes, you can.” At that mo-

I'm Jane, from America. I can not sleep well and I always wake up several times during the night. I know for a fact that there are many other people who have trouble going to sleep, too. So,I've collected some advice I've received over the past few months that have not only helped me get to sleep faster, but helped me get better night sleeps.

Have regular sleep habits

Go to bed at the same time every night. Try not to break this habit on weekends when you may be made to stay up late. Wake up at the same time every day. If you're getting enough sleep, you should wake up naturally without an alarm.

Turn off your computer

Don't play on the computer for half an hour before you decide to sleep. Studies show that it is bad for the quality of your sleep. Read a book or listen to some light music to prepare your body for sleeping.

Have a nice bedroom

A clean environment helps people to be happy and relaxed. Make sure that you have turned off all light that might come into your room, and that the temperature is comfortable.

Exercise often

Exercising will help you to fall asleep more easily, so walk out for 45 minutes every day and you will sleep better at night. But don't do it just before you go to bed—you won't be able to sleep!

根据短文内容,完成下面的表格,每空只填一词。(5分)

On Monday Morning, October 17, 2016, China successfully sent up the Shenzhou XI manned spacecraft to transport two astronauts to the Tiangong II space laboratory. Read the following diary from Jing Haipeng, one of the astronauts, and you'll know more about their life in space.

Today is the first day that we moved in. It is 10:05 pm and we have not finished our work yet.

I am told that people care about our living conditions here in space. Tutupingan, a netizen using the Xinhua mobile app, wonders how we sleep and eat meals in the space lab.

Chen Dong and I have been working all day and we really want to go to bed now. As we were so busy in the morning, docking(对接) Shenzhou XI and Tiangong II, and then entering the Tiangong II, we had no time for dinner. We only ate one meal for breakfast and lunch.

Our food is mainly ready-to-eat foods, or snacks, but we did bring a few staples(主食). Earlier, we heated some rice and noodles, but forgot all about them, so we will eat the missed meal later.

This is my third time in space. This is also my second time entering Tiangong. Tiangong I was not bad, but Tiangong II is much more comfortable. The design is perfect.

I remember I told people that half of our honor should be given to our family members. Chen Dong and I talked about it today and agreed on that.

Chen Dong and I miss everybody so much. In the past 18 years we have taken meals at the same table, attended classes in the same room and played basketball on the same court. In that time, we have worked together, lived together, received training together and chased dreams together.

Many Junior 3 students have started preparing for the PE test next spring. The test is important. It is worth 30 points in the senior high school entrance examination. It usually includes long—distance running, long jump, rope skipping and sit—ups. Training is important, but don't forget to protect yourself. Stretch (伸展) and warm up before and after training. Start slowly and build up the activity a little at a time.

To many students, joining social media “circle” is now more important than making new friends in real life. And it’s easy. If you have a cellphone, you can download apps(应用程序) such as Sina Weibo, WeChat(微信) and QQ. While enjoying these, they distance themselves from real life. Many students are happy to tell their interests and personal information to their social media friends, which can bring them danger.

The Code of Conduct for Primary and High School Students(中小学生守则) was made in 2004. It has 10 rules and it starts with “Have deep love for your motherland, for the people, and for the Communist Party of China”. Many people say the code is empty and has little practical meaning to students. All these rules are telling us how to behave as a good citizen. It's not special for children aged 6—16. It took nearly 18 months to find a winner. Finally the result of the United States presidential election(大选)came out on Nov. 8 local time. Donald Trump beat Hillary Clinton. He will take office on Jan. 20, 2017 and become the 45th president of the US.

Last year when Trump said he was to run for president, not many people took it seriously. Trump had no experience in government and had never even run for office before. He was a rich businessman and became famous for hosting a TV show.

During the election, he also offended (冒犯)many people. He wanted to build a wall to stop Mexican people from moving to the US. He also wants to stop Muslims entering the US because of terrorism. He also said some rude things about women.

However, Trump's supporters think he is a direct man and is not afraid to offend others. Studies show that the working—class white people make up a big part of Trump's supporter base.

Trump, meanwhile, presented himself as the face of change for Americans. He used the slogan(口号) "Make America great again" during the whole election. And to make that happen, he will always put the interests of the American people and American safety first. He said he would not rush to war. He also said he would bring China into line and get back America's jobs and wealth.

Since Trump has now made it to the White House, will he serve his term well? We've got four years to find out the answer.

But the building, which we'll tell you now, looks strange. Though it is a three-story house,it will be the narrowest(最窄的) house in the world.

Yes! The house that a few years later will be built in Warsaw will be the narrowest house in the world because of its wide reach of all—60 inches.
