

LAURENT WAELEKENS

AMNE ADVERSO

*Roman Legal Heritage
in European Culture*

TEXTBOOK

LEUVEN UNIVERSITY PRESS

Amne Adverso

Roman Legal Heritage
in European Culture

Laurent Waelkens

Leuven University Press

Original title: Civium causa. Handboek Romeins recht.

Authorized translation from the Dutch language edition published by Acco, Leuven.

Translated from Dutch by Line Leys (KU Leuven, Law Faculty)

© 2014 Dutch language edition by Uitgeverij Acco, Leuven (Belgium)

© 2015 English language edition by Leuven University Press / Universitaire Pers Leuven/
Presses Universitaires de Louvain. Minderbroedersstraat 4, B-3000 Leuven (Belgium)

All rights reserved. Except in those cases expressly determined by law, no part of this publication may be multiplied, saved in an automated datafile or made public in any way whatsoever without the express prior written consent of the publishers.

ISBN 978 94 6270 054 3

D / 2015 / 1869 / 46

NUR: 686

Cover: Anton Lecock

Lay-out: Frederik Danko

Dedicated to the memory of Robert Feenstra (1920-2013)

Table of contents

Preface	15
Introduction – The science of Roman law	19
§1. The purpose of the study of Roman law	19
1. A component of academic thought	19
2. The comprehension of the ius commune , the common law of Europe	20
3. The Historical School as causa efficiens of the study of Roman law	22
4. The study of Roman law as ‘Dogmengeschichte’	24
Conclusion: the methodology of Roman law	24
§2. Roman law as a science	26
1. Legal science	26
2. The charms of classical philology	27
3. Palaeography and textual criticism	32
4. Historical criticism	34
5. The history of philosophy	35
§3. The external framework of the science	35
Chapter I Overview of the external history and the sources of Roman law	37
§1. The Kingdom and the early Republic (7th century BC – 367 BC)	38
1. The Kingdom	38
2. The early Republic (509 BC–367 BC)	39
§2. The heyday of the Republic (367 BC – 17 BC)	42
1. The Senate	43
2. The voting assemblies and their leges	45
3. The magistracy and the edicts	46
A. The consuls	47
B. The praetors	47
C. The censors	48
D. The aediles	49
E. The quaestors	50
F. The tribunes of the people	51
G. The provincial governors	51
Conclusion	51
4. The jurists	51
§3. The early Empire or Principate (17 BC – 284 AD)	52
1. The institutions of the Principate	53
A. The imperial provinces	53
B. The emperor and the republican institutions	56
C. The institutions of the capital	58
2. Classical Roman law	58
A. Famous jurists	58
B. The constitutions	60
C. Classical law	62
§4. The late Empire	63
1. The era of Diocletian	64
A. The Tetrarchy	64
B. Roman law under Diocletian	65
2. The fourth century and Christianity	66
A. Constantine the Great	66

Table of contents

B. Theodosius the Great	67
C. Roman law and Christianity	69
3. Legal texts from the fourth and fifth centuries	72
A. Old witnesses	72
B. The Theodosian Code	73
4. Justinianic law	76
A. The Codex Iustinianus	77
B. The Digest	78
C. The Institutes	79
D. The Novels	79
5. Back to the West	81
§5. The tradition of Roman law in the Germanic kingdoms	81
1. The continuation of Roman law	81
2. The case law in the so-called Germanic kingdoms	84
3. The influence of feudalism	86
4. Legal education in the early Middle Ages	89
§6. The reception of Roman law through the bishops and the Church	90
1. The Roman origins of canon law	90
2. The development of canon law in the early Middle Ages	92
3. The establishment of the officialities and the adoption of Roman law	94
4. Canon law at the universities	97
§7. The reception of Justinianic law at the universities	100
1. The glossators of Bologna	100
2. The commentators	104
3. The medieval scope of Roman law	107
§8. The reception of Roman law in the Early Modern Era	107
1. The advent and the repression of Greek culture	108
2. The sovereign monarchical lawcourts	111
3. Changes at the law faculty of Leuven	114
A. The Renaissance in legal doctrine	114
B. The Reformist legal doctrine	115
C. Humanism in law	116
D. The precursors of natural law	117
4. Subjective law	118
§9. Roman law after 1600	119
1. From natural law to the forum internum	120
2. Three new branches of law	121
A. From Roman civil rights to private law	121
B. The origin of public law	122
C. The origin of international law	123
3. The success of legal doctrine	123
4. From royal sovereign councils to democratic rights	124
5. Nineteenth-century Roman law	125
6. The Roman law of the twentieth century	126
Chapter II Libertas and freedom, from civil law to human rights	129
1. The military status libertatis	129
2. The political status libertatis	130
3. Thinking about freedom	132
4. From Roman to medieval freedom	133
5. Libertas and ciuitas in medieval legal doctrine	135
6. Civil rights and absolutism	136
7. The individual rights of the seventeenth century	138
Conclusion	139

Chapter III The law of civil procedure	141
§1. The republican civil procedure	141
§2. The formulary procedure	142
1. The preliminary hearing before the praetor	142
A. Summons and the institution of proceedings	142
B. Provisional measures	143
C. The actio	144
D. The defence before the praetor	145
E. The litiscontestatio	146
F. Appeal against the praetor	147
2. The phase before the judge	147
3. The execution of the sentence and insolvency	149
§3. The aedilician procedure	150
§4. The imperial cognitio extra ordinem	150
A. Jurisdiction	151
B. Summons	152
C. The preliminary hearing	153
D. Treatment on the merits	154
E. The execution	154
Conclusion	155
§5. The Romano-canonical procedure	155
1. The episcopalis audientia	155
2. The ecclesiastical jurisdiction in the early Middle Ages	157
3. The Romano-canonical procedure in the Middle Ages	159
A. In the twelfth century	159
B. In the thirteenth century	160
C. The introduction of the Romano-canonical procedure	161
§6. Appeals	164
1. In the formulary procedure	164
2. In the cognitio procedure	165
3. In the late Empire	166
A. With whom were appeals filed?	166
B. When was it possible to file an appeal?	167
C. Interlocutory appeals	168
D. The scope of appeals	168
4. From Justinian to the Middle Ages	168
5. The rebirth of appeals	169
A. The appellate judge	170
B. Actions of nullity	171
C. Interlocutory appeals	172
D. Admissibility of appeals in criminal law	173
E. Appeals against ecclesiastical courts	173
F. Appeals against imperial rescripts	174
G. Objections	175
H. The manner of appealing	175
6. The reintroduction of appeals in practice	176
§7. Evidence in Roman law	177
1. In the oldest Roman law	178
2. In the classical period	178
3. In the late Empire	179
4. In the early Middle Ages	180
5. The law of evidence of the Romano-canonical procedure	182
A. Notoriety	182
B. Full evidence	184

Table of contents

C. Imperfect and additional evidence	184
D. The burden of proof	185
E. The judge's own knowledge	185
6. The evolution in the Early Modern Era	186
§8. Conflicts of legal norms	187
1. Classical rules pertaining to conflict of laws	188
A. In the Republic	188
B. In the Empire	189
2. In the ius commune	190
A. Which custom was applicable?	190
B. Does the ius commune take precedence over customary law?	191
3. In the Early Modern Era	191
Chapter IV The law of persons	193
§1. The paterfamilias, the main actor in the court	194
1. Familia and paterfamilias	194
2. The familia of a woman	195
3. Could a paterfamilias kill the members of his familia ?	196
4. Losing patria potestas	198
5. The medieval family	198
§2. Family members	201
1. The paterfamilias	202
2. Wives	202
3. Descendants	203
4. Legitimi	205
5. Adoption	207
6. Adrogatio	209
7. Nexum	209
8. People in mancipio	210
A. Mancipium	210
B. Slavery	210
C. Manumissio	212
D. Medieval slavery	214
E. Slavery in the Early Modern Era	215
§3. Limited liability for family members	216
1. The actio de peculio	217
2. The actio de peculio et de in rem uerso	218
3. The actio noxalis	219
4. Extension to people who are not members of the familia	220
5. In the Middle Ages and Early Modern Era	221
§4. Man and woman	224
1. Relationships between men and women in Roman law	224
A. Coniugium and coniunctio	224
B. Vir et uxor	225
C. Concubinatus	225
D. Nuptiae	226
E. Matrimonium	227
F. Diuortium	228
G. Manus	231
2. The reception of man-woman relationships	232
A. The early Middle Ages	232
B. The development of marriage in the twelfth century	233
C. The development of marriage in the thirteenth century	234
D. The nationalisation of marriage in the Early Modern Era	235
Conclusion	236

§5. Marital property law	237
§6. The protection of liable minors	239
1. Guardianship	239
2. Types of guardians	240
3. The remedies of the pupil	242
4. Curatorship of people under the age of twenty-five	244
§7. Associations and legal persons	246
1. Trade with the government in the Roman law of Antiquity	246
A. Trade with the government in the Republic	246
B. Trade with the government in the Empire	246
2. Trade with civil associations in Antiquity	248
A. Familia	248
B. Fiducia	248
C. Societas	249
D. Curia	250
3. Trade with associations in the Middle Ages	251
A. Abbeys and bishoprics	251
B. Colleges and universities	252
4. The fictitious person in the Early Modern Era	253
A. Incorporation	253
B. In public law	254
C. In the private law of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries	255
Chapter V The law of inheritance	257
§1. Hereditary succession	257
1. The composition of the estate	257
2. The division	259
A. Towards civil law in the Republic and the early Empire	259
B. Adjustments in the praetor's edict	259
C. Post-classical heirs	260
D. Novel 118	261
E. The complaint on account of an undutiful will (querela inofficiosi testamenti)	261
F. Obtaining the inheritance	262
G. The reception of Roman inheritance law	262
§2. Wills	265
1. Form	266
A. The mancipatory will	266
B. The praetorian will (bonorum possessio secundum tabulas)	266
C. The post-classical evolution	267
2. Contents	268
A. The testamentary disposition	268
B. Special legacy	269
C. Fideicommissa	271
D. The codicil	273
3. The reception of the will in a nutshell	273
Chapter VI The law of property	277
Introduction: real rights	277
§1. Possession	278
1. Possession and interdict	278
2. Protection of the possession of goods in Antiquity	279
A. The functions of the possession of goods	279
B. Conditions for the protection of the possession of goods in the classical Roman law	280

Table of contents

C. Extinctive prescription	281
3. The medieval reception of possession	283
A. Possession of immovable goods	283
B. Possession and ownership	284
C. The reception of the case-law concerning possession	284
4. Possession in the Early Modern Era	285
§2. Ownership	286
1. Ownership and rei vindicatio in Antiquity	287
A. Rei vindicatio	287
B. Remedies with equivalent consequences	288
C. The scope of the notion of ownership in Antiquity	289
2. Evolution in the Middle Ages	290
A. The feudal law	290
B. The influence of the moral theologians	293
C. Bartolus' notion of ownership	294
3. The development towards the single and individual notion of ownership of the Early Modern Era	296
§3. The acquisition of ownership	299
1. Transfer	299
A. Acquisition from another familia	299
B. Acknowledged means of transfer	300
2. Informal transfer, i.e. traditio	301
A. The actual transfer	302
B. Delivery pursuant to a valid title	302
C. Possession serves as a title	303
D. The development towards a consensual transfer of ownership	304
E. Retention of title	305
3. Acquisitive prescription (usucapio)	306
4. Natural ways of acquiring ownership	307
A. Occupation	307
B. Perception of fruits	308
C. Accession	308
§4. Usufruct and servitudes	310
1. Praedial servitudes (iura praediorum)	310
A. Definition and types	310
B. The establishment of praedial servitudes	311
C. The termination of praedial servitudes	312
D. The reception of praedial servitudes	312
2. Usufruct	312
A. Definition	312
B. Remedies at law	313
C. The reception of usufruct	313
§5. Real securities	314
1. Legal acts in the law of pledge	314
2. The actio fiduciae	315
3. The actio pignoratitia	316
4. The actio serviana	318
5. Consequences of the in rem character of the claim on account of pledge	319
6. Pledges by operation of law	320
7. A selection from the reception of the Roman law of pledge	321
Chapter VII The law of obligations	323
§ 1. Obligations in general	324
1. Obligations and liability	324
2. The law of obligations and canon law	325

3. Sources of obligations	326
4. Sources of obligations arising from contracts	328
A. Obligations arising from the transfer of a good (contractus re)	328
B. Obligations arising from words (contractus uerbis)	329
C. Obligations arising from writing (contractus litteris)	329
D. Obligations arising from consensus (contractus consensu)	330
5. Specific and generic obligations	330
6. Alternative obligations	331
7. Natural obligations	331
§ 2. Strict obligations	333
1. Stipulations (stipulatio)	334
A. A verbal contract (contractus uerbis)	334
B. Written stipulations?	335
2. Transfer and nouatio	336
A. The relativity of strict obligations	336
B. Nouatio	337
3. Strict securities	338
A. Sponsio, fidepromissio, fideiussio in Antiquity	338
B. Reception	339
C. Solidary liability (in solidum)	340
4. Mutuum	341
5. From the stipulation to English contracts	341
§3. Obligations e bona fide (in good faith)	343
1. Bona fide obligations in Antiquity	343
A. Actiones e bona fide	343
B. The exceptio doli	344
2. Liability for bona fide obligations according to the legists	345
A. Dolus and culpa lata	346
B. Culpa levis	346
C. Culpa leuissima	347
D. Force majeure (uis maior)	348
3. The fusion of civil law and canon law in the sixteenth century	348
A. Good faith in all obligations	349
B. The enforceability of formless agreements (pacta sunt seruanda)	349
C. The clausula rebus sic stantibus	351
D. The tacit termination clause	351
E. Prejudice	352
F. The causality of obligations	353
G. Intention as the source of liability	354
Conclusion	356
§4. Obligations arising from delict	356
1. Retaliatory actions	357
2. The actio furti (theft)	358
3. The actio legis aquiliae (torts)	361
A. The contents of the lex aquilia	361
B. Extension through the broad interpretation of principal conditions	362
C. Extension in the case of the injuring or killing of free people	363
D. The aquilian claim and unjust enrichment	365
E. The aquilian claim in the Early Modern Period	367
4. Delictual liability	368
A. Liability for public and civil delicts	368
B. Guilt and intent	370
C. From intent to liability	371
5. Obligations arising from quasi-delicts	373
§5. Purchase-sale	374
1. A consensual agreement with regard to specific objects	374

Table of contents

2. The obligations of the seller (the object of the actio empti)	376
A. Transfer	376
B. Guarantee against eviction (euictio)	377
C. Liability for the good that has not been delivered yet	378
D. Liability for hidden defects	378
3. Clauses that can cancel a sale	380
4. Error (error)	380
§6. Locatio conductio	383
1. Locatio conductio rei	383
A. Definition	383
B. The parties' obligations	384
C. Position of the lessee in property law	385
D. Remissio mercedis	386
2. Locatio conductio operarum (hire of services)	387
3. Locatio conductio operis (faciendi) (contracting for work)	388
§7. Donations	388
Chapter VIII Socio-economic law	391
§1. Food supply	391
1. In the Republic	391
2. In the Principate	392
A. Establishment of the prefecture for the distribution of grain	392
B. The organisation of the transport of grain	393
C. The promotion of large bakeries	394
D. During the imperial crisis	394
E. The late Empire	395
3. The reception	397
§2. Roman forms of partnership	397
1. Limited partnerships?	397
2. The actio institoria	398
3. Societas	400
§3. Means of payment and funding	401
1. Banks	401
2. Pecunia constituta	402
Conclusion	405
1. Roman law is not a legal system	405
2. Medieval jurists were not looking for 'rational' law	405
3. Roman law as Christian law?	406
4. Roman law as ideological law	407
5. 'Der Geist des römischen Rechts'	407
Index of legal sources	409
General index	417

Amne Adverso

Roman Legal Heritage
in European Culture

Laurent Waelkens

Leuven University Press

Original title: Civium causa. Handboek Romeins recht.

Authorized translation from the Dutch language edition published by Acco, Leuven.

Translated from Dutch by Line Leys (KU Leuven, Law Faculty)

© 2014 Dutch language edition by Uitgeverij Acco, Leuven (Belgium)

© 2015 English language edition by Leuven University Press / Universitaire Pers Leuven/
Presses Universitaires de Louvain. Minderbroedersstraat 4, B-3000 Leuven (Belgium)

All rights reserved. Except in those cases expressly determined by law, no part of this publication may be multiplied, saved in an automated datafile or made public in any way whatsoever without the express prior written consent of the publishers.

ISBN 978 94 6270 054 3

D / 2015 / 1869 / 46

NUR: 686

Cover: Anton Lecock

Lay-out: Frederik Danko

Dedicated to the memory of Robert Feenstra (1920-2013)