Flourishing Highway of Dongying

Located in Dongcheng District, Dongying, the central city of the beautiful and richly endowed Yellow River Delta, Highway Administration Bureau of Dongying was established in December 1985. It is a self-supporting department-level unit consisting of 5 county-level highway bureaus like Guangrao, Kenli, Lijin, Dongying and Hekou, and 17 subordinate units such as Donggang Expressway Administration Division, Highway Engineering Division, Highway Surveying and Designing Institute and so on. Possessing 1602 staff members, the bureau is responsible for planning, designing, construction, maintenance and management of the arterial highways, and the collections of all the tolls for the whole city.

With the reform and opening-up in China, Dongying Highway undertakings have experienced 20 years of brilliant course. Since the founding of the city, Highway Administration Bureau of Dongying, gaining the great support from the leaders of the Municipal Party committee, municipal government and the departments of its higher level, has always been bearing in mind not only the economical guidelines and the principal of "teaching goes before construction and spirit goes first", but the first-class aim and the spirits of comity, creation, high efficiency and high quality as well, which helped them make great achievements in both spiritual civilization and material progress. By the end of 2002, the city's highways opened to traffic mileage had reached 4547.1 kilometers, among which expressway occupied 132.8 kilometers, arterial roads totaled 776.3 kilometers, the county roads were 1734.9 kilometers, and 2035.5 kilometers were specially constructed for oil fields and farms. The highway density was 56.9 kms per hundred square kilometers. Taking Shengli Yellow River Bridge and Lijin Yellow River Bridge as the pivots, 12 arterial highways like Dong-qing highway, Dong-gang highway, Xin-he highway and Bo-sin highway as the frameworks, a new network of highways has been set up. It has realized the aim that expressway leads to the whole province and no third-class arterial roads exist ahead of schedule. Highway construction ranked among the best ones in Shandong Province and even reached the advanced level in China. As the construction of spiritual civilization got great achievements, its industrial civilization gradually upgraded. Up till now, three units in its system have been titled provincial civilization units, and highway bureau itself has been titled the advanced units among the highway systems in Shandong Province in 10 years in succession. What's more, it was awarded many other honors such as National construction system advanced group, Shandong Ideological and political work advanced unit, Family of model staff members in Shandong and so on.

Roads not only play an important role in the way that Dongying leads to the world but also deeply connect with the rapid economic development of Dongying and the growing up of Yellow River Delta. We firmly believe that the constructors of the Dongying Highway are certain to create a more beautiful future, as well as a splendid history.
