Cloze test.

I made a promise to myself on the drive down to the vacation beach cottage. For two weeks I 1 try to be a loving husband and father. Totally 2. No ifs, ands or buts. The idea had come to me as I listened to a commentator 3 my car's tape player. He was 4 a passage about husbands being 5 of their wives. 6 he went on to say, "Love is an act 7 will. A person can choose to love." To myself, I had to admit that I had been a selfish husband 8 our love had been dulled by my own insensitivity (感觉迟钝). In unimportant ways, really: scolding Evelyn for her tardiness (拖拉); 9 on the TV channel I wanted to watch; throwing 10 day-old newspapers that I knew Evelyn still wanted to read. Well, for two weeks all that would 11. And it 12. Right from the moment I kissed Evelyn at the door and said, "That new yellow sweater looks 13 on you." "Oh, Tom, you noticed," she said, surprised and 14. Maybe a little puzzled. After the long drive, I wanted to sit and read. Evelyn suggested a walk on the beach. I started to refuse, but then I thought, Evelyn's been alone here with the children 15 week and now she wants to be alone with me." We walked on the beach while the children flew their kites. So it went.

Two weeks of not calling the Wall Street investment (投资) firm 16 I am director; a visit 17 the shell museum, though I usually hate museums (and I enjoyed it); 18 my tongue while Evelyn's getting ready made us late for a dinner 19. Relaxed(轻松)and happy ,that's how the whole vacation passed. I made a new promise to keep on 20 to choose love.

Sleep Struggle

DR. MARJORIE SEIDENFELD ANSWERS YOUR HEALTH QUESTIONS

I have such a terrible time falling asleep every night that I'm always tired and it's affecting my schoolwork. What should I do?

— Mindy in Nevada

One in every five young people has a sleep problem, so you're not alone. Getting enough sleep has become as important as eating vegetables and exercising regularly. It's very important for your body.

Most young people only get seven hours of sleep each night, when they actually need nine hours. And making up for lost sleep during the week by sleeping in on weekends doesn't really work. In fact, sleeping late on weekends may actually do you more harm than good, if you have sleep problems.

What happens if you don't get enough sleep? If your sleep problem continues for a few nights, you could suffer serious problems. Lack of sleep can affect learning and memory. Worse, if your sleep difficulties last a long time, that could lead to anxiety or depression (抑郁). Therefore, you've got to have some healthy sleep habits. Below are some suggestions:

- GO TO BED AT THE SAME TIME — including weekends, if possible.
- WAKE UP AROUND THE SAME TIME EVERY MORNING. When you sleep late just one morning during the week, it may disturb your body clock. This will make it hard for you to sleep that night.
- DO SOMETHING RELAXING before going to bed.
- EXERCISE DURING THE DAY. Don't exercise right before going to bed.
- AVOID DRINKING ALCOHOL. Alcohol makes you excited. This prevents you from falling asleep or wakes you up during the night.
- DON'T SMOKE. Smoking is always bad for the body. Smoking before bedtime keeps you awake.

If trying these tips over a couple of weeks does not help you, speak to your doctor. Do not take any sleeping pills without first asking your doctor. Many have strong side effects.

SYDNEY 2005-01-01 08:33 — Mother of two, Jillian Searle, had to choose between her children when she made a life-or-death decision.

Swept up by mountainous tsunami (海啸) waves at a Thai resort (度假胜地), she could not hold on to both her young sons and survive. Fighting to stay above the waters, she had to choose which one would have to take his chances in the swirling torrent (旋流).

"I knew I had to let go of one of them and I just thought I'd better let go of the one that's the elder," she told Sky News television in a report broadcast on Thursday. She said she was accompanied by the two boys, Lachie, 5, and two-year-old Blake, and their father, Brad, who had watched the drama helplessly from their first-floor hotel room, when the waves struck. "And I was screaming, trying to find him, and we thought he was dead," she told reporters on arrival back in Australia.

Lachie was found alive about 2 hours later clinging to a door and, looked uninjured as his mother spoke to reporters.

British surfer: Martin Markwell is also a lucky man. He had always dreamed of catching that perfect wave — but when it finally came along, it was a nightmare. He was on his surfboard when he was swept up by a tsunami wave.

"It was really terrible because I was surfing. I was really surfing on a wave I wasn't supposed to be on," he said. "As an experienced surfer, when I saw the wave come I realized something was wrong, but I couldn't escape because my surfboard was tied to my ankle."

His wife Vicki and son Jake looked on in horror from a hotel balcony as he crashed towards the shore. Luckily, he stayed atop his board until he reached the hotel, jumped off and got to safety as the ocean rolled back to feed a much larger tsunami wave on its way. The family regrouped and ran to safety just minutes before a giant tsunami wave 10 metres high.

She is widely seen as proof that good looks can last for ever. But, at nearly 500 years of age, time is catching up with the Mona Lisa.

The health of the famous picture, painted by Leonardo da Vinci in 1505, is getting worse by the year, according to the Louvre Museum(卢浮宫) where it is housed.

"The thin, wooden panel on which the Mona Lisa is painted in oil has changed shape since experts checked it two years ago," the museum said. Visitors have noticed changes but repairing the world's most famous painting is not easy. Experts are not sure about the materials the Italian artist used and their current chemical state.

Nearly 6 million people go to see the Mona Lisa every year, many attracted by the mystery of her smile. "It is very interesting that when you're not looking at her, she seems to be smiling, and then you look at her and she stops," said Professor Margaret Livingstone of Harvard University. "It's because direct vision(视觉) is excellent at picking up detail, but less suited to looking at shadows. Da Vinci painted the smile in shadows."

However, the actual history of the Mona Lisa is just as mysterious as the smile. Da Vinci himself loved it so much that he always carried it with him, until it was eventually sold to France's King Francis I in 1519.

In 1911, the painting was stolen from the Louvre by a former employee, who took it out of the museum, hidden under his coat. He said he planned to return it to Italy. The painting was sent back to France two years later. During World War II, French hid the painting in small towns to keep it out of the hands of German forces.
