He aimed to develop his painting style and apply innovative methods in his paintings so as to exhibit the beautiful sights north and south of the Changjiang River, famous mountains and big rivers, and natural wonders. He painted the landscapes in the firm and steady but flexible brushwork and combined realistic expression with impressionistic manners. He is especially good in ink and wash painting and skilled in composing peculiar pictures to achieve a new and original effect.

His works were displayed many times in exhibitions in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, and Shenyang, and also appeared in the shows in Japan, the United States, India, Yugoslavia, Singapore, Jordan and Hong Kong. His paintings were well received in Japan and awarded several times by Japan's art circles.
