Zhang Junqiu was born in Nanjing in 1939. In 1955, he was studying in the Art Department of the Teacher's College in Nanjing, and taught by Fu Baoshi, Chen Zhifo and Lu Sibai of the older generation. In 1960, he was graduated from the college, and now he is an associate professor and vice-president of the Academy of Industrial Art in Yangzhou. He is also a member of the Chinese Industrial Art Institute and the Chinese Artists Association. He is the Chairman of the Watercolour Painting Research Institute of the Yangzhou City and deputy secretary-general of the Yangzhou Art society.

Zhang Junqiu has been ardently loving watercolour painting since childhood. He studied the new technique of the watercolour painting assiduously and achieved a great deal in his work. he has become outstanding among the middle-aged watercolour painters in Jiangsu. Nearly a hundred paintings among his works, such as "A Region of Lakes", "A Secluded Valley", "Huangshan Mountain in the Rain", "Snow", "Yangzhou, the Ancient City" and "West Lake in the Rain", were published by the publishing houses of Beijing, Shanghai, Tianjin, Liaoning and Jiangsu. He has written "Probing the Technique of the Watercolour Painting", and published "The Technique of the watercolour painting by Zhang Junqiu". His works have taken part many times in the watercolour painting exhibitions both at home and abroad. A part of his works has been collected by the national art gallery as well as foreign friends. He has held personal painting exhibitions for seven times, and he is included in A Dictionary of Contemporary Famous Chinese Painters and Calligraphers.
