

Public Speaking

A Process Approach

MEDIA EDITION

INCLUDED FREE
WITH EACH NEW COPY—
THE NEW SELNOW CONNECTION AND SPEECHMAKER CD-ROMS!

Deanna D. Sellnow

PUBLIC SPEAKING

A PROCESS APPROACH

Media Edition

THOMSON
★
WADSWORTH

Australia • Canada • Mexico • Singapore • Spain
United Kingdom • United States

Executive Editor: Deirdre Anderson
 Publisher: Holly J. Allen
 Assistant Editor: Nicole George
 Editorial Assistant: Mele Alusa
 Technology Project Manager: Jeanette Wiseman
 Marketing Manager: Kimberly Russell
 Marketing Assistant: Neena Chandra
 Advertising Project Manager: Shemika Britt

Project Manager, Editorial Production: Cathy Linberg
 Print/Media Buyer: Barbara Britton
 Permissions Editor: Robert Kauser
 Production Service: Robin Lockwood Productions
 Copyeditor: Jennifer Gordon
 Compositor: Thompson Type
 Cover Printer: Phoenix Color Corporation
 Printer: Quebecor/World, Taunton

COPYRIGHT © 2003 Wadsworth, a division of Thomson Learning, Inc. Thomson Learning™ is a trademark used herein under license.

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. No part of this work covered by the copyright hereon may be reproduced or used in any form or by any means—graphic, electronic, or mechanical, including but not limited to photocopying, recording, taping, Web distribution, information networks, or information storage and retrieval systems—without the written permission of the publisher.

Printed in the United States of America
 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 06 05 04 03 02

For more information about our products, contact us at:
Thomson Learning Academic Resource Center
1-800-423-0563

For permission to use material from this text, contact us by:
Phone: 1-800-730-2214 Fax: 1-800-730-2215
Web: <http://www.thomsonrights.com>

ExamView® and ExamView Pro® are registered trademarks of FSCreations, Inc. Windows is a registered trademark of the Microsoft Corporation used herein under license. Macintosh and Power Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. Used herein under license.

COPYRIGHT 2003 Thomson Learning, Inc. All Rights Reserved. Thomson Learning WebTutor™ is a trademark of Thomson Learning, Inc.

ISBN 0-534-55170-X

Wadsworth/Thomson Learning
10 Davis Drive
Belmont, CA 94002-3098
USA

Asia

Thomson Learning
 5 Shenton Way #01-01
 UIC Building
 Singapore 068808

Australia

Nelson Thomson Learning
 102 Dodds Street
 South Melbourne, Victoria 3205
 Australia

Canada

Nelson Thomson Learning
 1120 Birchmount Road
 Toronto, Ontario M1K 5G4
 Canada

Europe/Middle East/Africa

Thomson Learning
 High Holborn House
 50/51 Bedford Row
 London WC1R 4LR
 United Kingdom

Latin America

Thomson Learning
 Seneca, 53
 Colonia Polanco
 11560 Mexico D.F.
 Mexico

Spain

Paraninfo Thomson Learning
 Calle/Magallanes, 25
 28015 Madrid, Spain

PREFACE

I chose to write Public Speaking: A Process Approach Media Edition because I believe that anyone can become an effective public speaker. Similarly, I believe that we can all improve our public speaking skills. In other words, I believe that effective public speaking is a process that improves as we continue to cultivate it. Effective public speakers are those who choose to work at developing their skills and ineffective speakers are those who choose not to do so. At its most fundamental level, public speaking is a process because it involves a series of steps that focus on aspects of content, structure, and delivery. That's why each chapter of this book teaches students the important concepts and then takes them step-by-step through the process of applying these concepts to their speaking activities.

Communication can be defined as the sending and receiving of verbal and nonverbal messages to create shared meaning. Public speaking is one context in which communication takes place. It is not simply a linear process, however, in which a message is sent by the speaker and received by the listener. Public speaking is a transactional process, where messages are sent and received simultaneously by both the speaker and listeners. Together, both the speaker and listeners play important roles in creating shared meaning. For this reason, Public Speaking: A Process Approach Media Edition will consider not only the role of the speaker but also the role of the audience in effective public speaking.

Becoming effective public speakers is an evolutionary process; we must continually develop and adapt our skills to diverse audiences that change with context, society, and the times. When we operate as though the fundamentals of public speaking are a fixed set of skills, and somehow beyond our reach, we do not allow ourselves the opportunity to grow by participating in this process. This book considers public speaking skills to be fluid and adaptive, and trusts that we are all capable of developing these skills to better address the changing dynamics of diverse audiences in our society.

Features

A number of key features are designed to help students gain the skills and an appreciation for the process of public speaking.

Learning Styles

For several decades, researchers have studied the relationship between learning styles and information retention. They have found that students' retention of information is a function both of individual students' preferred learning styles and of the manner in which a teacher presents material. Furthermore, studies indicate that all students retain material best—regardless of their preferred learning style—when teachers present concepts in ways that address multiple learning styles, in other words, by “rounding the cycle of learning.” (See Chapter 1 for a more complete discussion of learning styles and the cycle of learning.)

Communication researchers have only begun to consider the relationship between learning styles and effective communication. This textbook focuses on the important role that learning styles play in public speaking. Readers learn that their effectiveness as public speakers will be enhanced as they identify and understand not only their own preferred learning style, but also as they appreciate and address the diverse learning styles in their audiences. Public Speaking: A Process Approach Media Edition presents specific strategies to help students achieve these goals.

Diversity

Since the early 1990s, public speaking textbooks have been addressing cultural diversity. Unfortunately, many have done so in ways that unintentionally marginalize or stereotype certain cultural groups. To be more inclusive and to avoid stereotyping, Public Speaking integrates diversity comprehensively, yet subtly, throughout the text in ways that acknowledge diversity without marginalizing and stereotyping individuals and groups. For instance, the book shows how diversity may be found in the concept of differing learning styles. Second, a somewhat different approach to demographic audience analysis is shown in Chapter 6. Third, throughout the book various examples from popular culture and from students illustrate the concepts of diversity. Finally, rather than segregating diversity in boxes or sidebars, this book integrates diversity issues and examples within the text itself.

Public Speaking Anxiety

If the research is correct, three out of four people in any classroom experience public speaking anxiety to some degree. Students need to understand why and how to manage their anxiety as it occurs throughout the speech preparation and presentation process. To that end, Chapter 2 is devoted to public speaking anxiety, offering several methods for managing it effectively. In addition, the management of speaking anxiety is discussed wherever it might occur, throughout the text.

Critical Thinking

Many textbooks offer an outline or set of learning objectives at the beginning of each chapter. Unfortunately, students rarely use these outlines or objectives as intended, that is, to focus their thinking as they read. Rather than listing objectives, each chapter opens with four to six reflective questions. These questions encourage students to become actively engaged with the material by seeking answers as they read. In a similar fashion, the chapters are interspersed with What Do You Think? boxes. These boxes ask students questions that link the text discussion to their own experiences. Doing so also encourages students to think critically about material as they read.

Examples

Students grasp ideas best when they can see examples of those ideas at work. Public Speaking: A Process Approach Media Edition contains a wealth of examples drawn from student speakers, famous orators, and popular culture.

Ethics

Speakers make decisions at numerous points during the speechmaking process; in each decision, there are ethical considerations that affect the choice of topic, audience analysis, research, organization, language, and delivery. Listeners, too, make ethical choices in listening and evaluating. Ethics is integrated throughout the text.

Technology as Speech Preparation and Delivery Tool

The book offers practical advice for using technology effectively and ethically in the speech making and delivery process. Specifically, each chapter includes Web sites for students to visit and InfoTrac College Edition Exercises. Chapter 7 contains abundant information on using the Internet to complete speech research and how to critically evaluate Web site sources, while Chapter 13 offers practical advice on creating effective PowerPoint presentations.

Pedagogy

In writing Public Speaking: A Process Approach Media Edition I have tried to remain true to the tenets of learning style theory: I explain concepts in ways that address the “feeling, watching, thinking, and doing” dimensions of the learning cycle. As they move through each chapter, students may “round the learning cycle” as they read. A list of key words for each chapter cue students on important terms that will be defined within. I have used the terminology of the communication field appropriately and have attempted always to define terms simply and completely. The Glossary at the end of the book contains all terms and definitions. At the end of every chapter are practical activities for students to do in class or on their own. Speech outlines as well as transcripts from students and professional speakers are included throughout the book.

Format

This book is organized into three units in such a way that readers can strategically follow an effective pattern for preparing and presenting public speeches for diverse situations and audiences.

Unit I: Understanding Communication Dynamics (Chapters 1–4) introduces readers to foundational components of the communication process. These concepts are relevant, not only to public speaking specifically, but to communication transactions generally. The chapters in this unit cover communication models, communication ethics, communication anxiety, listening, and evaluating.

Unit II: Preparing and Presenting Public Speeches (Chapters 5–13) sets forth the fundamental skills required to organize and deliver effective public speeches. The skills covered in these chapters include topic selection, audience analysis, research and supporting material, organization, language, delivery, and presentational aids.

Unit III: Considering Communication Contexts (Chapters 14–18) provides a basis for understanding why and in what ways content, structure, and delivery might be unique, based on the situation and the audience. The various types of speeches are included: informative, persuasive, special occasion, and speaking in small groups.

Ancillaries

The Instructor's Manual offers a wealth of suggestions for setting up the course, including various syllabi and daily schedules. The manual is filled with speech assignments, activities, extended chapter outlines, and sample lesson plans that include activities for all learning styles, allowing students to “round the cycle of learning.”

Available both in printed form and in computerized formats, the Test Bank offers numerous test questions of various types: recall, conceptual, and application, in all formats for multiple cognitive levels.

The Interrater Reliability Training Video provides exemplary speeches to be used in training evaluators, both teachers and students, to rate consistently using reliable standards.

The SpeechMaker CD-ROM, which may be packaged with each textbook, brings together text, full-motion video, sound, and the Internet to create a dynamic exploration of the steps involved in the speechmaking process.

The Public Speaking Web Site contains additional resources such as PowerPoint Slides, practice quizzes for students, as well as other activities and instructor teaching tools.

The Student Speaker Video, a sixty-minute videotape, shows different types of speeches: self-introduction, informative, persuasive, special occasion, group symposium, and impromptu.

A collection of Overhead Transparencies is available to demonstrate the resources, such as models, key charts, diagrams, and forms used in the preparation and presentation phases of public speaking.

Acknowledgments

This textbook represents a process of growth and discovery for me over the past three decades as a public speaker, teacher, and director of the basic course. To thank everyone who has played a part in shaping my development as a public speaker, college teacher, and now author, I realize is impossible, but I would like to acknowledge a few: Howard Vallaincourt, my junior high school speech and debate coach; C. T. Hanson, Robert Littlefield, and Tim Sellnow who inspired me to higher levels of skill and college competition; Bernard Brock, Professor Emeritus at Wayne State University, and Ivan J. K. Dahl, Professor Emeritus at the University of North Dakota for their unrelenting belief in my abilities as a communication scholar and teacher; my father-in-law, Les Sellnow, who provided needed encouragement throughout this project; and for their unceasing, unconditional love and support, Grandpa Johnson and Grandma Miller, who were inspirational mentors who, during the writing of this book, have gone to be with the Lord.

All of the professionals at Wadsworth/Thomson Learning have been marvelous to work with, providing information, encouraging me, and keeping the project on schedule. Thanks to Deirdre Anderson, Kimberly Russell, Jeanette Wiseman, Mele Alusa, Cathy Linberg, Nicole George, Neena Chandra, Steve Dalphin, Peggy Howell, Rebecca Dodson, Laura Brennan, Susan Journey, Holly Lewerenz, Randee Falk, Cathy Spitzenberger, Sue Howard, Bob Tessman, and Jim Ertl. I would also like to thank the ancillary authors who've offered their expertise and time to this project: Steve Hunt, Illinois State University; Janice Stuckey, Jefferson State Community College, AL; Tamera Golish, Luther College, IA; Scott Titsworth, Minnesota State University–Moorhead; Kimberly Cowden of Cowden Communications in Fargo, ND; Steve Venette, North Dakota State University; and Mark Huglen, University of Minnesota–Crookston.

Finally, thanks to Tim and Debbie and Ricky, not just for enduring me, but also for helping and encouraging me. You have supported me, guided me, and strengthened me, and will, I believe, continue to do so as we pursue our life journey together. I hope that I can do the same for each of you along the way.

To God be the glory.

DEANNA SELLNOW
NORTH DAKOTA STATE UNIVERSITY

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Deanna D. Sellnow is Associate Professor of Communication and Director of the Public Speaking Fundamentals Program at North Dakota State University, where she has taught since 1990. After finishing her master's degree at Wayne State University in Detroit, she completed the Ph.D. program at the University of North Dakota. She has received numerous honors for public speaking, teaching, and research, including the American Forensic Association's National Individual Events Tournament Champion in Communication Analysis, North Dakota Speech and Theatre Association's "Scholar of the Year," and "Outstanding Teacher" at North Dakota State University.

In addition to her teaching, Deanna is active in the National Communication Association, Central States Communication Association, and the North Dakota Speech and Theatre Association. She has served as Chair of the Basic Course Interest Group of the Central States Communication Association and is currently Vice-Chair Elect for the Experiential Learning Commission of the National Communication Association. She also serves as editor of the Basic Communication Course Annual, a publication that focuses specifically on research related to the basic course.

Deanna lives with her family in Fargo, North Dakota—husband Tim, daughter Debbie, and son Ricky, along with their golden retriever, Trini, and cat, Carl. She enjoys camping and traveling with her family, running marathons with Tim, and playing a variety of musical instruments including the saxophone, piano, and guitar.

BRIEF CONTENTS

UNIT I UNDERSTANDING COMMUNICATION DYNAMICS

Chapter 1	Introduction to Communication	1
Chapter 2	Coping Effectively with Public Speaking Anxiety	33
Chapter 3	Your First Speech	57
Chapter 4	Listening and Critiquing Communication	73

UNIT II PREPARING AND PRESENTING PUBLIC SPEECHES

Chapter 5	Selecting and Narrowing Your Topic	97
Chapter 6	Understanding Your Audience	115
Chapter 7	Supporting Your Speech: Evidence and Research	139
Chapter 8	Organizing Your Main Ideas	169
Chapter 9	Making Lasting Impressions: Introductions and Conclusions	185
Chapter 10	Outlining Your Speech	205
Chapter 11	Language and Style Choices in Your Speech	227
Chapter 12	Delivering Your Public Speech	255
Chapter 13	Creating and Using Presentational Aids	283

UNIT III CONSIDERING COMMUNICATION CONTEXTS

Chapter 14	Informative Speaking	309
Chapter 15	Persuasive Speaking: Types and Designs	329
Chapter 16	Persuasive Strategies	361
Chapter 17	Speaking on Special Occasions	389
Chapter 18	Working and Speaking in Small Groups	415

APPENDIX: SPEECHES FOR ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION 439

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.	440
“I Have a Dream”
BARBARA JORDAN	444
“Who Then Will Speak for the Common Good?”:
Democratic Convention Keynote Address
JOHN F. KENNEDY	448
Inaugural Address
LUCY STONE	451
Address to the National Women’s Rights Convention, 1855
NELSON MANDELA	454
“Glory and Hope: Let There Be Work, Bread, Water, and Salt for All”
ELIE WIESEL	456
“The Shame of Hunger”
RAYMOND W. SMITH	460
“Civility without Censorship: The Ethics of the Internet—Cyberhate”

GLOSSARY	467
REFERENCES	475
CREDITS	487
INDEX	489

CONTENTS

UNIT I UNDERSTANDING COMMUNICATION DYNAMICS

1 INTRODUCTION TO COMMUNICATION 1

Why Study Public Speaking?	3
Personal Life Benefits	3
College Education Benefits	4
Professional Career Benefits	5
Employers Seek . . .	5
What Is Communication?	6
Communication Contexts	7
Models of Communication	10
Linear	10
Interactive	11
Transactional	12
Situation	12
Sender	14
Message	15
Receiver(s)	15
Channels	19
Feedback	19
Interference	20
Ethical Public Speaking	20
Considering Your Topic and Goals	22
Acknowledging Personal Biases	23
Choosing Evidence	23
Reporting Sources of Information	24
Conveying Your Ideas Orally	25
Summary	26
Key Terms	27
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	27

2 COPING EFFECTIVELY WITH PUBLIC SPEAKING ANXIETY 33

What Is Communication Apprehension?	35
Why Do We Experience Public Speaking Anxiety?	37
Socialized Patterns of Thinking and Feeling	37
Preferred Learning Style	38
Self-Talk	38
What Can Be Done to Reduce Anxiety?	40
Systematic Desensitization	40
The Process of Systematic Desensitization	41
Step 1: Progressive Relaxation Activities	41
Step 2: Progressive Visualization Activities	43
Step 3: Progressive Experiential Activities	43
Cognitive Restructuring	44

The Process of Cognitive Restructuring	44
Step 1: Create a Negative Self-Talk List	44
Step 2: Identify Irrational Beliefs and Cognitive Distortions That May Be Guiding Your Fears	45
Cognitive Distortions	45
Step 3: Develop Positive Coping Statements	46
Step 4: Practice Coping Statements Until They Become Second Nature	47
Skills Training	47
Summary	48
Key Terms	48
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	49
3 YOUR FIRST SPEECH	57
What Does It Mean to Be Audience-Centered?	58
What Does It Mean to Have Good Content?	59
Your First Speech: Content Checklist	61
What Does It Mean to Have Clear Structure?	61
Introduction	62
Body	62
Conclusion	63
My Self-Introduction Speech	63
Your First Speech: Structure Checklist	67
What Does It Mean to Have Effective Delivery?	68
Use of Voice	68
Use of Body	68
Your First Speech: Delivery Checklist	69
Summary	70
Key Terms	70
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	70
4 LISTENING AND CRITIQUING COMMUNICATION	73
What Is Listening and Why Is It Important?	75
Types of Listening: Considering Your Purpose	76
The SIER Model of Critical Listening	79
The Ethical Listener: Tips for Improving Critical Listening Skills	82
Bad Habit Number 1: Becoming Distracted	83
A Strategy: Expend Energy	83
Bad Habit Number 2: Faking Attention	84
A Strategy: Take Notes	84
Bad Habit Number 3: Being Unprepared	86
A Strategy: Prepare Yourself	86
Bad Habit Number 4: Prejudging the Speaker	87
A Strategy: Hear the Speaker Out	87
Bad Habit Number 5: Mentally Arguing and Jumping to Conclusions	87
A Strategy: Find Value in Every Speech	88
Bad Habit Number 6: Listening Too Hard	88
A Strategy: Listen Analytically	88
Listening Tips	89

The Ethical Critic: Tips for Improving Critiquing Skills	89
Characteristics of Ethical and Effective Critiques	89
Examples of Content, Structure, and Delivery Critiques	92
Summary	94
Key Terms	94
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	95

UNIT II PREPARING AND PRESENTING PUBLIC SPEECHES

5 SELECTING AND NARROWING YOUR TOPIC 97

Generating Potential Topics	99
Brainstorming	99
Researching	100
Choosing a Topic	103
Expanding Your Personal Inventory	103
Concept Mapping	105
Researching	105
Narrowing Your Topic	105
The Mold Method for Narrowing Your Topic	106
Step 1: Select Your General Topic	106
Step 2: Determine Your Topic Area	107
Step 3: Consider Your General Purpose	107
Step 4: Determine Your Specific Purpose	109
Step 5: Create Your Thesis Statement	109
Applying the Mold Method	111
Summary	112
Key Terms	112
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	113

6 UNDERSTANDING YOUR AUDIENCE 115

Why Analyze Your Audience?	117
What Is Audience Analysis?	118
Analysis of Demographic Characteristics	119
Age	120
Sex, Gender, and Sexual Orientation	122
Group Affiliations	124
Socioeconomic Factors	124
Sociocultural Background	126
Analysis of Psychological Characteristics	127
Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs	127
Rhetorical Appeals	129
Learning Styles	130
Analysis of Environmental Characteristics	131
Chronemics	131
Physical Setting	132
Occasion	132
Methods for Audience Analysis	133
Direct Methods	133
Indirect Methods	134

Considering Ethics: Integrating Audience Analysis	135
Audience Analysis and Topic Selection	135
Audience Analysis and Supporting Material	136
Audience Analysis and Structure	136
Audience Analysis and Delivery	136
Audience Analysis and Presentational Aids	136
Summary	136
Key Terms	137
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	137

7 SUPPORTING YOUR SPEECH: EVIDENCE AND RESEARCH 139

Why Is Supporting Material Important?	140
Appeal to Your Diverse Audience	140
Add Breadth and Depth	142
Bolster Speaker Ethos	142
Types of Supporting Material	143
Facts and Statistics	143
Definitions, Descriptions, and Explanations	145
Examples	145
Testimonies	147
Analogies	147
Locating Supporting Material: Research	148
Drawing on Personal Experience	148
Research Interviews	148
Surveys	151
Library Resources	152
Books	152
Reference Works	152
Magazines and Newspapers	153
Government Documents and Academic Journals	153
Internet Documents	155
Browsers	156
Search Engines	156
Directories	157
Metasearch Engines	157
Other Resources	157
Electronic Discussion Lists	157
Evaluate Resources	157
Conducting Ethical Research	158
Evaluating Your Evidence	159
Is It Relevant?	159
Is It Credible?	159
Is It Current?	160
Does It Answer All Important Questions?	160
Have You Consulted a Variety of Resources?	160
Do You Use Various Types of Supporting Material?	160
Evaluating Your Evidence Checklist	160
Documenting Your Evidence	161
In the Reference List	161
Within the Formal Outline	162

Oral Citations During the Speech	163
Books	163
Journal or Magazine Articles	164
Newspapers	164
Interviews	164
Television Programs	165
Internet Documents	165
Summary	165
Key Terms	166
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	166
 8 ORGANIZING YOUR MAIN IDEAS	 169
What Is Organization?	170
Why Is Organization So Important to Public Speaking?	171
Developing the Body of Your Speech	172
Selecting a Pattern for Your Main Points	172
Chronological Pattern	174
Causal Pattern	174
Spatial Pattern	174
Topical Pattern	176
Comparison and Contrast Pattern	177
Integrating Supporting Material	177
Sort Supporting Material among the Main Points	177
Add Subdivisions Where Necessary	178
Consider Learning Styles	178
Consider Listener Relevance	178
Incorporating Connectives	179
Transitions	179
Internal Previews and Summaries	180
Signposts	181
Summary	181
Key Terms	182
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	182
 9 MAKING LASTING IMPRESSIONS: INTRODUCTIONS AND CONCLUSIONS	 185
Why Are Introductions and Conclusions Crucial?	186
Developing Effective Introductions	187
Capturing Audience Interest	187
Questions	187
Quotations	189
Stories	189
Startling Facts or Statistics	190
Action	191
Humor	191
Establishing a Rapport with the Audience	192
Establishing Your Credibility	193
Stating the Speech Topic	193
Previewing the Main Points	194

Developing Effective Conclusions	197
Providing a Sense of Closure	198
Reinforcing the Main Ideas	198
Motivating Listeners to Remember	199
Summary	201
Key Terms	202
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	202
10 OUTLINING YOUR SPEECH	205
Why Is Outlining Important?	206
Arranging Your Ideas within a Recognizable Pattern	206
Providing Flexibility as You Speak	206
Providing an Opportunity to Critique Your Speech	207
Reducing Public Speaking Anxiety	207
The Process of Outlining Your Public Speech	207
Your Preparation Outline	208
Steps 1, 2, and 3	208
Step 4	208
Step 5	210
Step 6	211
Your Formal Outline	214
Your Speaking Outline	222
Summary	223
Key Terms	224
Sellnow Connection: Take Your Learning Online	224
11 LANGUAGE AND STYLE CHOICES IN YOUR SPEECH	227
Why Are Language and Style Important?	228
Increasing Clarity	228
Fostering Inclusion	229
Arousing Emotion	230
Reducing Speech Anxiety	231
The Nature of Language as Symbolic	232
Denotations and Connotations	232
New Meanings	233
Private Codes	233
Political Correctness	234
Strategies for Effective Language and Style	235
Oral versus Written Style	235
Accuracy	237
Denotations	238
Connotations	238
Standard English	238
Clarity	239
Use Familiar Words	239
Use Concrete Words	239
Use Simple Language and Sentence Structure	239
Use Active Sentences	240
Avoid Vocalized Pauses	240