

COMMUNICATION

Embracing Difference

DANIEL M. DUNN

LISA J. GOODNIGHT

119368

大外301905204

Communication

Embracing Difference

Daniel M. Dunn

Purdue University-Calumet

Lisa J. Goodnight

Purdue University-Calumet

Allyn and Bacon

Boston New York San Francisco

Mexico City Montreal Toronto London Madrid Munich Paris
Hong Kong Singapore Tokyo Cape Town Sydney

Executive Editor: Karon Bowers
Development Editor: Ellen Darion
Editorial Assistant: Jennifer Trebby
Marketing Manager: Mandee Eckersley
Production Editor: Christine Tridente
Editorial-Production Service: Colophon
Composition Buyer: Linda Cox
Manufacturing Buyer: Megan Cochran
Cover Administrator: Kristina Mose-Libon
Text Design and Electronic Composition: Glenna Collett

For related titles and support materials, visit our online catalog at www.ablongman.com.

Copyright © 2003 Pearson Education, Inc.

All rights reserved. No part of the material protected by this copyright notice may be reproduced or utilized in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or by any information storage and retrieval system, without written permission from the copyright owner.

To obtain permission(s) to use material from this work, please submit a written request to Allyn and Bacon, Permissions Department, 75 Arlington Street, Boston, MA 02116 or fax your request to 617-848-7320.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Communication : embracing difference / Daniel M. Dunn, Lisa J. Goodnight.

p. cm.

Includes bibliographical references and index.

ISBN 0-321-08823-9 (alk. paper)

1. Oral communication. I. Goodnight, Lisa J. II. Title.

P95 .D86 2003

302.2'242—dc21

2002026121

Printed in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1 RRD-VA 06 05 04 03 02

Photo Credits

p. 1, © Sondra Dawes/The Image Works; p. 7, © Kevin Laubacher/FPG International/Getty Images; p. 14, © Ron Chapple/FPG International/Getty Images; p. 16, Robert Spencer/AP/Wide World Photos; p. 21, © Gary Buss/FPG International/Getty Images; p. 24, © Peter Byron/PhotoEdit; p. 34, © David Young-Wolff/PhotoEdit; p. 36, © Ryan McVay/PhotoDisc/Getty Images; p. 45, © Bob Daemmrich/The Image Works; p. 48, © Spencer Grant/PhotoEdit; p. 54, © David Young-Wolff/PhotoEdit; p. 61, © Bob Daemmrich/The Image Works; p. 63, © Syracuse Newspapers/Steve Ruark/The Image Works; p. 65, Doug Mills/AP/Wide World Photos; p. 69, © Will Hart; p. 73, © Bill Bachmann/PhotoEdit; p. 87, © Geostock/PhotoDisc/Getty Images; p. 91, © Fujifotos/K. Kai/The Image Works; p. 99, © Larry Kolvoord/The Image Works; p. 101, G. Nick/AP/Wide World Photos; p. 108, © Bob Daemmrich/The Image Works; p. 112, © Lori Adamski Peek/Stone/Getty Images; p. 118, Michael Pahos/AP/Wide World Photos; p. 124, © Lonnie Duka/Stone/Getty Images; p. 136, © Stephen Simpson/FPG International/Getty Images; p. 140, David Paul Productions/The Image Bank/Getty Images; p. 144, © Robert Brenner/PhotoEdit; p. 147, Yellow Dog Productions/The Image Bank/Getty Images; p. 158, Timothy Shonnard/Stone/Getty Images; p. 162, © Rhoda Sidney/The Image Works; p. 167, Reed Saxon/AP/Wide World Photos. Photo credits continue on page 408, which should be considered an extension of the copyright page.

Preface

We teach a very diverse population of students. Our students range widely in age, ethnicity, race, religion, sexual orientation, social role, and socioeconomic status. Many are first generation college students and often attend our colleges or universities part-time while holding a full-time job. They are mothers, fathers, grandparents, and teenagers. Communication: Embracing Difference is written for them. It is also written for you, teachers of all different types of students. It reflects the full lives of our students in their work, family life, community, and here at school. This text is a tool that will help you provide students with opportunities to explore and celebrate the richness of their lives and the overall richness of difference and diversity in society.

Themes of the Book

Humans approach communication and communication situations from diverse and unique positions. Because communication is an interdependent process that includes at least two people, multiple approaches to any given communication situation exist. Understanding the diversity of communication approaches leads to a greater overall understanding of others. By understanding and celebrating difference, students become more effective communicators in a variety of settings and, ultimately, feel more confident. They are better able to navigate successfully in an increasingly diverse society.

In this book, we want to move beyond the narrow definition of diversity, often defined as “political correctness.” Thus, the theme of embracing difference is integrated throughout the text in all of its features and includes every aspect of students’ lives.

This book is also based on the premise that although students need to learn and understand theories of human communication, it is the practical application of communication skills that helps students become effective communicators. In other words, applied communication skills help students learn and create effective strategies. Students must be able to effectively interpret, adjust, and respond to a variety of different approaches and situations. These skills can and should be practiced in several settings, including interpersonal, small group, and public communication.

Organization of the Book

Communication: Embracing Difference includes three units containing sixteen chapters. Unit One, The Process of Communication, includes chapters on perception, language, nonverbal behavior, and listening. Unit Two, Interpersonal Communication, emphasizes theories and skills of interpersonal communication including self-disclosure, conflict, and an entire chapter on communication climate. A chapter on interviewing covers the principles and practices of interviewing with special attention to informative and employment interviewing. The unit also includes an overview of small-group communication, small-group decision making, and leadership. Unit Three, Public Communication, discusses the process and practice of public speaking in six chapters. Topics such as speech topic selection, research, audience analysis, delivery, presentational aids, informative speaking, and persuasive speaking are covered in depth.

Pedagogical Features

The theme of embracing difference is integrated into every aspect of the text. The following pedagogical features will help students to reflect on, apply, and critically think about communication:

Chapter Opening Scenarios

Each chapter begins with a scenario that describes a real-life communication situation faced by our students. These stories not only resonate with our students' lives at work, home, and school, they also highlight the increasing diversity of student populations across the country.

Ethics in Communication

This feature brings students back to the situation presented at the beginning of the chapter, following up on the ethical dilemmas posted there. It helps students to see and understand the ethical choices people make in a variety of real-life circumstances. The feature may be used as a starting point for class discussion or for a reflection assignment such as a journal.

Communication and Technology

This feature discusses how technological advances have changed the way we communicate. Topics such as email and computer-mediated communication, the use of the Internet for research, the role of presentational software in public speaking, and working in virtual teams are discussed.

Student-Oriented Pedagogy

Generously sprinkled throughout each chapter are activities designed to help students think about and practice effective communication. These include:

- Self-Assessment activities: Self-reflection activities that allow students to analyze, understand, and refine their own communication skills.
- Skill Building activities: Opportunities for students to develop and practice the skills taught in the text and apply them to real-life situations.
- Critical Thinking activities: Opportunities to analyze the communication of others in a variety of settings and situations and to strategize about these communication challenges.
- Learning Objectives help students focus on overall concepts, theories, and skills discussed in the chapter.
- Checklists in each chapter summarize the most important theories or skills.
- Chapter summaries review the main themes of each chapter.
- Review questions help students reflect on the chapter material and can also be used for study guides, quizzes, or exams.
- Glossary of Terms serves as a helpful reference tool at the end of the text.

Instructor Supplements

Print

- Instructor's Manual by Patricia Mellon, Purdue University-Calumet
This Instructor's Manual includes chapter objectives, chapter outlines, and a wealth of thought-provoking discussion topics and activities.

COMMUNICATION AND TECHNOLOGY
Presentation of Self on the Internet

According to Sherry Turkle in her book Life on the Screen, when we enter cyberspace, we create virtual identities (1995). In other words, we can reconstruct our "self" or " selves" as chat rooms, bulletin boards, through email, and on personal web pages. She says, "Many more people experience identity as a set of roles that can be mixed and matched, whose diverse demands need to be negotiated" (1995, p. 180). Thus, our email "style" is different when writing a memo to our boss than it is when we send a joke to our best friend. We have always adjusted our "self" or image to more effectively communicate. Because of the nature of technology, however, we can create or reconstruct our image and identity specifically for cyberspace. As Turkle argues, "Your image is a textual description. So, the obese can be slender, the beautiful plain, the nerdy sophisticated" (1995, p. 12).

One popular way to reconstruct identity is through personal web pages. These web sites present to the world the image of yourself you want to send. So, you don't have to worry about your clothing, hair, or speaking style. In other words, "On the Internet, you can't smell my breath, catch the tremor in my voice, or realize that I'm watching the rest of the party over your shoulder" (Miller, 1995, p. 4). According to Hugh Miller, personal web pages may contain the following categories:

1. An introduction of self. This could include a photograph of yourself or family members (children), a background about where you live and work, and a listing of personal interests or hobbies.
2. "This is what I think is cool." These pages are a subset of the introduction and provide links to interesting web pages, chat rooms, music, video, or other web material.
3. Electronic resume or curriculum vitae. This is used as a tool to find employment. These search engines and might be seen by potential employers to the page as a way to communicate your skills and abilities.

Miller cautions that the personal web page can be easily fabricated. The homepage provides a focus for the electronic self. There's more possibility for misrepresentation than in before presentation to the world, and are only slightly interactive" (1995). So, whether you are setting up your own page or viewing others, be aware that the personal homepage is a presentation of self and that self is constantly changing and adapting to the ever-changing technological world.

SKILL BUILDING
First Impressions

Attempt to answer the following questions about your instructor from your perceptions of the first day of class.

1. How old is she/he?
2. What is his/her marital status?
3. What is his/her favorite television program?
4. What is her/his favorite hobby?
5. Does he or she have a pet? What kind?

A. What caused you to form these impressions?
B. How have these impressions affected your behavior in class?
C. How do first impressions affect the way you communicate with others?

CRITICAL THINKING
Types of Power

Each of the following statements communicates a type of social power. Identify each statement as coercive, reward, legitimate, expert, or referent power.

1. If you are not here on time tomorrow, you'll be looking for a new job.
2. I have been studying this phenomenon for ten years. I know I'm right.
3. As manager, I want to improve the morale of all employees by offering a workshop on positive mental attitude.
4. I want to be just like my mother. She is smart, assertive, and caring.
5. If you go to bed right now, I'll make you pancakes in the morning for breakfast.

CHECKLIST
Improving Our Efforts to Resolve Conflicts

- Deal with feelings.
- Make a special date.
- Keep the discussion focused on the problem.
- Use perception checking and empathetic listening.
- Find a solution for both parties; be flexible.

Summary

Communication is the interdependent process of sending, receiving, and understanding messages. Although it is an ongoing, dynamic process that changes from one communication setting to the next, there are certain components that are always present: people, a message, encoding, the channel, feedback, the context, and noise.

Communication functions in several ways. It can create our sense of self, form persuasive, and convey and create information.

Communication can take place when we interact with one other person, when we speak to an audience, and when we interact with our environment (communication with ourselves) can be the informal exchange that occurs between two or more people; the interaction between two people is called dyadic communication, whereas an interaction involving three or eight people is called group communication. A final type of communication, public communication, involves having an individual share information with a large group.

The last section of this introductory chapter included a discussion of difference and diversity and their relationship to complete and public speaking are two common causes of anxiety, yet there are ways for us to become better, more effective communicators. Most importantly, we must celebrate and appreciate the different approaches to communication we all have as a means of improving our communication effectiveness. Throughout this book specific techniques for improving our communication will accompany the discussions of each communication topic.

- Test Bank by Erin Okamoto Protsman, Purdue University–Calumet
This Test Bank contains hundreds of challenging multiple-choice, true–false, short answer, and essay questions, along with an answer key. The questions closely follow the text chapters and are cross-referenced with corresponding page numbers.
- Computerized Test Bank
The printed Test Bank is also available electronically through Allyn & Bacon’s computerized testing system, TestGen EQ. The fully networkable test generating software is now available on a multiplatform CD-ROM. The user-friendly interface enables instructors to view, edit, and add questions; transfer questions to tests; and print tests in a variety of fonts. Search and sort features allow instructors to locate questions quickly and arrange them in a preferred order.
- A Guide for New Teachers of Introduction to Communication by Susanna G. Porter, Kennesaw State University
This instructor’s guide is designed to help new teachers effectively teach the introductory communication course.
- The ESL Guide for Public Speaking by Debra Gonsher Vinik, Bronx Community College of the City University of New York
This guide provides strategies and resources for instructors teaching in a bilingual or multilingual classroom. It also includes suggestions for further reading and a listing of related web sites.
- Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Transparency Package
This set, produced using PowerPoint, includes 100 full-color transparencies.
- The Blockbuster Approach: Teaching Interpersonal Communication with Video, 2/e, by Thomas E. Jewell, Marymount College
This guide provides lists and descriptions of commercial videos that can be used in the classroom to illustrate interpersonal concepts and complex interpersonal relationships. Sample activities are included.
- Great Ideas for Teaching Speech by Raymond Zeuchsner, California Polytechnic State University
This book provides descriptions of and guidelines for assignments successfully used by experienced public speaking instructors in their classrooms.

Electronic Supplements

- Allyn & Bacon Digital Media Archive for Communication, Version 2.0
This CD-ROM offers still images, video clips, and assorted lecture resources that can be incorporated into multimedia presentations in the classroom.

- PowerPoint Presentation for Communication: Embracing Difference (available on the Web—www.ablongman.com/ppt). This text-specific package consists of a collection of lecture outlines and graphic images keyed to every chapter in the text.
- Allyn & Bacon PowerPoint Presentation for Introduction to Communication (available on the Web—www.ablongman.com/ppt).
- Allyn & Bacon PowerPoint Presentation for Public Speaking (available on the Web—www.ablongman.com/ppt).
- Allyn & Bacon Student Speeches Video Library
Instructors have their choice of one video from a collection of seven videos that includes three 2-hour American Forensic Association videos of award-winning student speeches and four videos with a range of student speeches delivered in the classroom. Some restrictions apply.
- Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Key Topics Video Library
This library contains three videos that address core topics covered in the classroom: Critiquing Student Speeches, Speaker Apprehension, and Addressing Your Audience. Some restrictions apply.
- Allyn & Bacon Public Speaking Video
This video includes excerpts of classic and contemporary public speeches and student speeches to illustrate various aspects of the public speaking process.
- Allyn & Bacon Communication Video Library
A collection of communication videos produced by Films for the Humanities and Sciences. Contact your local Allyn & Bacon sales representative for ordering information. Some restrictions apply.
- Allyn & Bacon Interpersonal Communication Video
This interpersonal video contains three scenarios illustrating key concepts in interpersonal communication with a guide featuring transcripts and teaching activities. A separate video guide is available as well.
- Video: Interpersonal Communication with Guidebook
Eight interpersonal scenarios examine a wide range of interpersonal issues. An extensive guide provides a script, class discussion questions, and exercises for each of the episodes.

Student Supplements

Print

- Preparing Visual Aids for Presentations, 3/e, by Dan Cavanaugh
This 32-page booklet provides ideas to improve presentations, including suggestions for planning a presentation, guidelines for designing visual aids and storyboarding, and a PowerPoint presentation walk-through.

- Public Speaking in the Multicultural Environment, 2/e, by Devorah Lieberman, Portland State University
This booklet helps students learn to analyze cultural diversity within their audiences and adapt their presentations accordingly.
- Speech Preparation Workbook by Jennifer Dreyer and Gergory H. Patton, San Diego State University
This workbook takes students through the various stages of speech creation—from audience analysis to writing the speech—and provides supplementary assignments and tear-out forms.
- Outlining Workbook by Reeze L. Hanson and Sharon Condon, Haskell Indian Nations University
This workbook includes activities, exercises, and answers to help students develop and master the critical skills of outlining.
- iSearch for Speech Communication
This resource guide for the Internet covers the basics of using the Internet, conducting Web searches, and critically evaluating and documenting Internet sources, as well as Internet activities and URLs specific to the discipline of speech communication. The book also contains an access code for ContentSelect, our online research database.

Electronic

- Interactive Speechwriter Software, Version 1.1 (Windows) by Martin R. Cox
This interactive software package for student purchase provides supplemental material, writing templates (for the informative, persuasive, and motivated sequence speeches, as well as for outlines), sample student speeches (text only), and more! This program enhances students' understanding of key concepts discussed in the text and is available for Windows and Macintosh.
- Speech Writer's Workshop CD-ROM, Version 2.0
This interactive software assists students with speech preparation and enables them to write better speeches. The software includes four separate features: (1) a speech handbook with tips for researching and preparing speeches plus information about grammar, usage, and syntax; (2) a speech workshop that guides students through the speech-writing process and includes a series of questions at each stage; (3) a topics dictionary containing hundreds of speech ideas—all divided into subcategories to help students with outlining and organization; and (4) a citation database that formats bibliographic entries in MLA or APA style.
- Companion Website with Online Practice Tests (<http://www.ablongman.com/dunn>) by Elsa Peterson
This site includes chapter objectives, weblinks, and a wealth of questions and assignments, including multiple-choice, true-false, and essay options.

• ContentSelect

This free research database (available via an access code in iSearch for Speech Communication), searchable by key-word, gives you immediate access to hundreds of scholarly journals and other popular publications. Ask your local representative for details.

Acknowledgments

We are indebted to many people for their help with this book. First, we thank the Purdue University–Calumet community for its support of this project and especially our colleagues in the Department of Communication and Creative Arts. We also want to especially thank our students for providing us with the inspiration for writing this book and for sharing their real-life experiences with us. A special thanks goes to all the past and present graduate teaching assistants in Communication and Creative Arts at Purdue University–Calumet for their ideas, inspiration, and assistance, especially Shelly Robertson, Patricia Mellon, and Erin Okamoto Protsman.

We also thank the reviewers of this text, who provided many helpful ideas and suggestions: Kelly Albada, East Carolina University; Rusalyn Andrews, Cottey College; Katrina Bell-Jordan, Northeastern Illinois University; Martin H. Brodey, Montgomery College; Diane Casagrande, West Chester University; Michael Eaves, Valdosta State University; Michael R. Elkins, Texas A&M–Kingsville; Penny Eubank, Oklahoma Christian University; Jane Flesher, Chippewa Valley Technical College; Parthenia H. Franks, Morehouse College; Donna Friess, Cypress College; Anne Gillespie, University of Central Arkansas; Kim Gyuran, Modesto Junior College; Debbi Hatton, Sam Houston State University; Debra S. Jones, Chattanooga State Technical Community College; Ray E. Karrer, Paris Junior College; Donnell King, Pellissippi State Technical Community College; Colleen Keough, University of Southern California; Steven Miura, University of Hawaii–Hilo; James McNamara, Alverno College; Kristine Mirrer, Kean University; Donna Munde, Mercer County Community College; Majia Holmer Nadesan, Arizona State University West; Alkis Papoutsis, Borough of Manhattan Community College; Kathleen Perri, Valencia Community College; James E. Reppert, Southern Arkansas University; Thomas E. Ruddick, Edison Community College; Jack Sargent, Kean University; Candice Thomas-Maddox, Ohio University–Lancaster; and Darla Williams, Millersville University.

Of course, this book would not have been completed without the editors and support staff at Allyn & Bacon. We are indebted to Karon Bowers, Executive Editor, for her support and encouragement. We thank Mande Eckersley for her marketing expertise, Christine Tridente for steering the book through production, and Jennifer Trebby for handling reviews and many other tasks along the way. We are especially indebted to Ellen Darion, Senior Development Editor, for sharing the overall vision of the book and truly believing in the project. Her creativity, inspiration, and sense of humor helped make this book better than it would have otherwise been.

Finally, we would like to thank our families. This project took us away from the ones we love the most, and we are grateful for their patience, support, and encouragement. This book is dedicated to them. Special thanks to Nancy and Joseph Goodnight.

Contents

Preface xvii

UNIT ONE The Process of Communication

1 An Overview of Communication 1

The Communication Process	3
People	5
Message	7
Encoding	7
Decoding	8
Channel	8
Feedback	9
Context	10
Noise and Interference	11
Functions of Communication	11
Ethics in Communication: Different Approaches	12
Types of Communication	15
Intrapersonal	15
Interpersonal	15
Small Group	16
Public	16
Understanding Difference, Diversity, and Communication	17
Communication and Technology: Changing the Way We Communicate	19
Summary	20
Review Questions	20

2 Perception 21

The Process of Perception	23
Selective Attention	23
Organization	25
Interpretation	27
Perceptions of Ourselves	29

Self-Concept	30
Self-Esteem	30
Self-Fulfilling Prophecy	32
Significant Others	32
Reflective Appraisal	33
Family	33
Peers	34
Communication and Technology: Presentation of Self on the Internet	35
Perceptions of Others	36
Stereotyping	37
Developing Accurate Perceptions of Ourselves and Others	39
Impression Management	39
Perception Checking	41
Ethics in Communication: Understanding Self-Concept and Self-Esteem	42
Summary	43
Review Questions	44

3 Listening 45

Hearing and Listening	47
Factors That Interfere with Listening	49
Noise	49
Delivery	50
Language	50
Message Overload	51
Perceptions	52
Ethics in Communication: The Skill of Listening	52
Effective Listening	54
Active and Passive Listening	54
Communication and Technology: Listening to Talk Radio	55
Informational Listening	56
Critical Listening	56
Empathetic Listening and Being Supportive	57
Remembering: An Essential Part of Active Listening	58
Responsive Listening Skills and Checking Our Perceptions	59
Summary	62
Review Questions	62

4 Verbal Communication 63

The Nature of Language and Meaning	65
Language Is Symbolic	66
Language Is an Arbitrary System of Symbols	67
Communication and Technology: Communicating on the Internet	68
Language Is Rule Governed	69

Language Communicates Power	69
The Meanings of Words	70
Factors That Influence Our Language Use	72
Cultural Influences	72
Ethnic, Racial, and Social Influences	74
Geographic Influences	75
Perceptions	75
Problems with Language	76
Vague Language	76
Abstraction	77
Generalization	77
Multiple Meanings	78
Technical Language or Jargon	78
Slang	79
Euphemisms	80
Racist, Sexist, and Other Insensitive Language	80
Improving Verbal Skills	81
Being Descriptive	81
Dating	82
Indexing	83
Avoiding Vulgar Language and Profanity	83
Eliminating Generic Language	83
Ethics in Communication: Appropriate Language Use	84
Summary	85
Review Questions	86

5 Nonverbal Communication 87

The Nature of Nonverbal Communication	89
Types and Functions of Nonverbal Communication	91
Bodily Movement	92
Touch	95
Paralanguage and Silence	96
Space	97
Physical Appearance and Clothing	100
Communication and Technology: Nonverbal Communication and
Business	102
Time	103
Improving Nonverbal Communication	103
Explore All Possible Meanings of Nonverbal Messages	103
Look for Nonverbal Messages That Are Consistent with Verbal Statements	104
Use Questions and Descriptive Feedback to Achieve Accuracy	104
Monitor Your Own Use of Nonverbal Communication	105
Ethics in Communication: Nonverbal Behavior	106
Summary	106
Review Questions	107

UNIT TWO Interpersonal Communication

6 Understanding Ourselves and Others 108

The Nature of Interpersonal Relationships	110
Content and Relational Messages	111
Intimacy	111
Power	112
Communication and Technology: Intimacy Online	113
Stages of Relationship Development	116
Self-Disclosure within Relationships	120
Johari Window	120
Benefits of Self-Disclosure	122
Cautions of Self-Disclosure	123
Theoretical Explanations of Interpersonal Communication	123
Interpersonal Needs Theory	124
Cost-Benefit Theory	127
Conflict within Relationships	128
Denial	129
Suppression	129
Aggression	129
Status	130
Improving Our Efforts to Resolve Conflicts	131
Deal with Feelings	131
Find a Special Time to Meet	131
Keep the Discussion Focused on the Problem	132
Use Perception Checking and Empathetic Listening	132
Find a Solution for Both Parties: Be Flexible	132
Ethics in Communication: Resolving Conflicts	133
Summary	134
Review Questions	135

7 Creating a Positive Communication Climate 136

Understanding Defense Mechanisms	138
Avoidance	139
Psychological Withdrawal	139
Distancing	141
Reaction Formation	141
Sarcasm	142
Outdoing Others	143
Overly Critical Communication	143
Formula Communication	144
Coping with Defensiveness	146
The Nature of Communication Climates	146
Evaluation versus Description	148

Control versus Problem Orientation	149
Strategy versus Spontaneity	150
Neutrality versus Empathy	151
Superiority versus Equality	152
Certainty versus Provisionalism	152
Communication and Technology: Email Flaming and Defensiveness	153
Stepping Back from Defensive Communication	154
Ethics in Communication: Creating a Positive Communication Climate	155
Summary	157
Review Questions	157

8 Interviewing 158

Interview Questions	161
Open and Closed Questions	161
Primary and Secondary Questions	162
Neutral and Leading Questions	163
Organizing the Interview	164
The Introduction	164
The Body	165
The Conclusion	166
Ethics in Communication: The Employment Interview	168
Types of Interviews	169
The Informational Interview	169
The Employment Interview	171
Preparing for an Interview	172
Self-Assessment	172
The Resume	173
The Cover Letter	174
Company Research	174
The Interviewer	177
Communication and Technology: The Internet and the Job Hunt	178
Improving Your Interview Skills	179
Listening	179
Ethics	180
Language	181
Nonverbal Communication	181
Ask Questions	182
Summary	183
Review Questions	183

9 Communicating in Small Groups 184

An Overview of Small-Group Communication	186
Types of Small Groups	187

Variables in Small-Group Communication	189
Norms	189
Roles	189
Ethics in Communication: Understanding Group Roles	192
Cohesiveness	193
Commitment	194
Arrangement	194
Participating in Small-Group Discussions	195
Phases of a Discussion	195
Decision-Making Methods	198
Communication Skills within Small Groups	199
Verbal Participation	199
Nonverbal Participation	200
Maintain a Positive Communication Climate	201
Communication and Technology: The Nature of Virtual Teams	202
Summary	203
Review Questions	204

10 Solving Problems Using Small Groups 205

Solving Problems as a Group	207
Types of Problem-Solving Formats	208
The Process of Problem Solving	209
Assessing the Question	209
Gathering Material	212
The Agenda	213
Establishing Criteria for the Solution	214
Developing Possible Solutions	214
Choosing the Best Solution	214
Leadership	214
Trait Perspective	215
Situational Perspective	215
Functional Perspective	217
Communication and Technology: Leadership in Virtual Teams	219
Effective Leadership Communication	219
Ethics in Communication: Effective Leadership	220
Summary	221
Review Questions	221

UNIT THREE Public Communication

11 Selecting a Speech Topic and Adapting to the Audience 223

Selecting a Topic	225
Yourself	225
Concerns	225