INTRODUCTION

It takes ten years to grow trees but a hundred to rear people. Through ten years of painstaking efforts, Wuyi University has blazed a trail for a regional key city to create and run a university. Now, the university has become a cradle for raising talents, a base for scientific and technological research and development, a window for opening to the outside world, and a banner for uniting the Chinese overseas and at home. Thus, it is labelled "the university of 6.6 million local people and overseas Chinese". Owing to its outstanding contributions, it has won praises from state, provincial and municipal leaders, received favorable comments from sister colleges and universities, and got strong support from overseas Chinese and the local people. It is an attractive school to numerous students and visitors.

The university has firmly carried out the Party's educational policies and put forward the principle of "being oriented toward and serving the local needs"; it has connected itself closely with local economy and society. Thus the set-up of faculties and curricula, the establishment of academic programs and the consulting committees of all the departments, the cultivation of students, and research activities are all in line with this principle. The university is intended to be a multi-discipline, multi-level, multi-form and multi-function center of learning and research.

The university was established by the joint efforts from home and abroad. By giving a full play to the advantages of the city as a hometown of overseas Chinese and the enthusiasm of the local people for education, it has raised funds from various channels and in various forms, providing a successful example for developing the higher education in our country.

The university authorities have regarded teaching as the priority of school work and set high requirements on administration, teaching and learning. The teachers are required to center their efforts on cultivating students and the students are encouraged to be "studious, thoughtful, inquisitive, and innovative". And for this purpose, a competition mechanism has been adopted to enable the students to develop morally, intellectually, and physically.

The university has persisted in putting moral education in the first place. It has gradually developed a political and moral education system in which full-time political workers, class tutors, teachers of political theories, and all the other teachers and the administrative personnel work together to better the students' moral character, so that the students can develop correct attitudes toward life and the world.

Enterprise, thrift, and hardworking have become a tradition of the university. Now it has been made a rule that the staff and students should do unpaid labor for the university. Emphasis has been laid on fostering the students' sound attitudes toward labor, collective spirit and endurance.

The school leadership is modern-minded, practical and realistic, thrifty and hardworking, enterprising, and self-disciplined. It follows a socialist orientation in education. Consequently, for many times it has been commended, by the provincial government, as "A Local-level Model of Party Construction and Clean Administration", and, by the Jiangmen Municipal Government, as "A Model Collective".

Over the past ten years, under the correct leadership of the higher authorities and with the strong support from the people of Jiangmen and the overseas Chinese, its students and faculty have made remarkable achievements. Under the banner of "Unity, reform and Progress", it has now taken shape and developed into one with a limited but competent staff, an efficient working style, academic ambitions, democratic management, strict disciplines, graceful environment, and comfortable life. Further efforts will be made to keep reforming teaching, improving the over-all conditions of the university, marking its characteristics, raising its managerial benefits and educational quality so as to develop it into one of higher quality.
