

LAW IN EAST ASIA SERIES

ANTHONY DICKS & MICHAEL PALMER (SERIES EDITORS)

BRITISH RULE IN CHINA

Law and Justice in Weihaiwei
1898–1930

Carol G S Tan

WILDY, SIMMONDS AND HILL PUBLISHING

British Rule in China

Law and Justice in Weihaiwei 1898-1930

Carol G S Tan

Wildy, Simmonds & Hill Publishing

Copyright © 2008 by Carol G S Tan

British Rule in China: Law and Justice in Weihaiwei 1898-1930

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data:

A catalogue record for this book is available from The British Library

ISBN 9780854900268

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise, without the consent of the copyright owners, application for which should be addressed to the publisher. Such a written permission must also be obtained before any part of this publication is stored in a retrieval system of any nature.

First published in 2008 by

Wildy, Simmonds & Hill Publishing
58 Carey Street, London WC2A 2JB
England

British Rule in China

Law and Justice in Weihaiwei 1898-1930

For my parents, Mr and Mrs J.B. Tan

Acknowledgements

Were it not for the excellent facilities and the professionalism of its staff, the many months spent researching the official documents relating to Weihaiwei at the National Archives in Kew would have been intolerable. I would also like to thank the staff of the following institutions - the British Library, National Library of Scotland, SOAS Library, Perkins Library (Duke University) and Duke Law Library, Middle Temple Library, Main Library and Liu Che Woo Library (University of Hong Kong), Robinson Library and Law Library at Newcastle University, University of Durham Library, the National Photographic Library of Scotland, and Cambridge University Library - for their assistance in providing access to the resources used in writing this book.

Materials from the private papers of James Haldane Stewart Lockhart are cited with the kind permission of the Education Board of the Merchant Company of Edinburgh and the School Governing Council of George Watson's College. Duncan Clark very kindly sent me an excerpt from a recording and a transcript of his father's memories of his life in China. Aisling Lee prepared two of the maps in this book. Ann Sinclair at Newcastle Law School tracked down some of the sources used to write this book. Roger Appleton and Jasper Meyers tidied my prose. I am grateful to all as I am to the editors of the series: to Michael Palmer for pointing out the official records for Weihaiwei and to Anthony Dicks, who, as my PhD supervisor, provided many detailed comments, based on which improvements to the work were made. The usual reservation with regard to errors applies.

Some parts of the present book have appeared in articles in The Journal of Legal History, Hong Kong Law Journal and Chungguksa Yongu: The Journal of Chinese Historical Researches and I am indebted to the editors of these journals for their permission to reproduce the material. I would also like to thank the Sino-British Fellowship Trust and the UCCL for grants which allowed me to conduct parts of the research and also to disseminate and test my findings at conferences. Finally, I would like to record my thanks to Brian Hill at Wildy, Simmonds & Hill Publishing Ltd for seeing this work to publication.

Tables and Graphs

Figure 1. Population figures from the 1911 census	14-15
Figure 2. Population figures from the 1921 census	15
Figure 3. Figures for the non-Chinese population at the end of 1927	17
Figure 4. Strength of Police Force	137
Figure 5. Civil cases heard in the Magistrates' Courts	186
Figure 6. Number of suicides and attempted suicides	222
Figure 7. Suicide statistics for 1914	224

Abbreviations

LDNC	Johnston, R.F., Lion and Dragon in Northern China (London: John Murray, 1910)
NCH	The North China Herald and Supreme Court and Consular Gazette
SLPNLS	Private papers of James Haldane Stewart Lockhart, National Library of Scotland, Edinburgh
WOIC	Wei-hai-Wei Order in Council, 1901
FJA	Foreign Jurisdiction Act, 1890
SSC	Secretary of State for the Colonies
SG	Secretary to the Government
CO	Colonial Office (papers)
FO	Foreign Office (papers)
H.B.M.	Her Britannic Majesty or His Britannic Majesty
H.M.	Her Majesty or His Majesty

Note on the romanisation of place names and other words

Except in references and in quotations, all place names are given in accordance with the following principles. Village names are given using the Wade-Giles system which was in use during the period of the lease. A table of equivalents in both pinyin and Chinese characters is given below. Other place names are given using a spelling recognisable at the time, e.g. 'Shantung', 'Kwangchouwan', 'Tsinan', 'Talien' and 'Tientsin' ('Shandong', 'Guangzhouwan', 'Jinan', 'Dalian' and 'Tianjin' respectively in pinyin romanisation). The exception to this rule is 'Weihaiwei', which has been rendered in pinyin. The place referred to as Kiaochou (Jiaozhou in pinyin) is now more commonly referred to as Qingdao, whilst Port Arthur and Chefoo, were and are still known as Lüshun and Yantai respectively (Lushun and Yantai in pinyin). Chinese terms are given in pinyin.

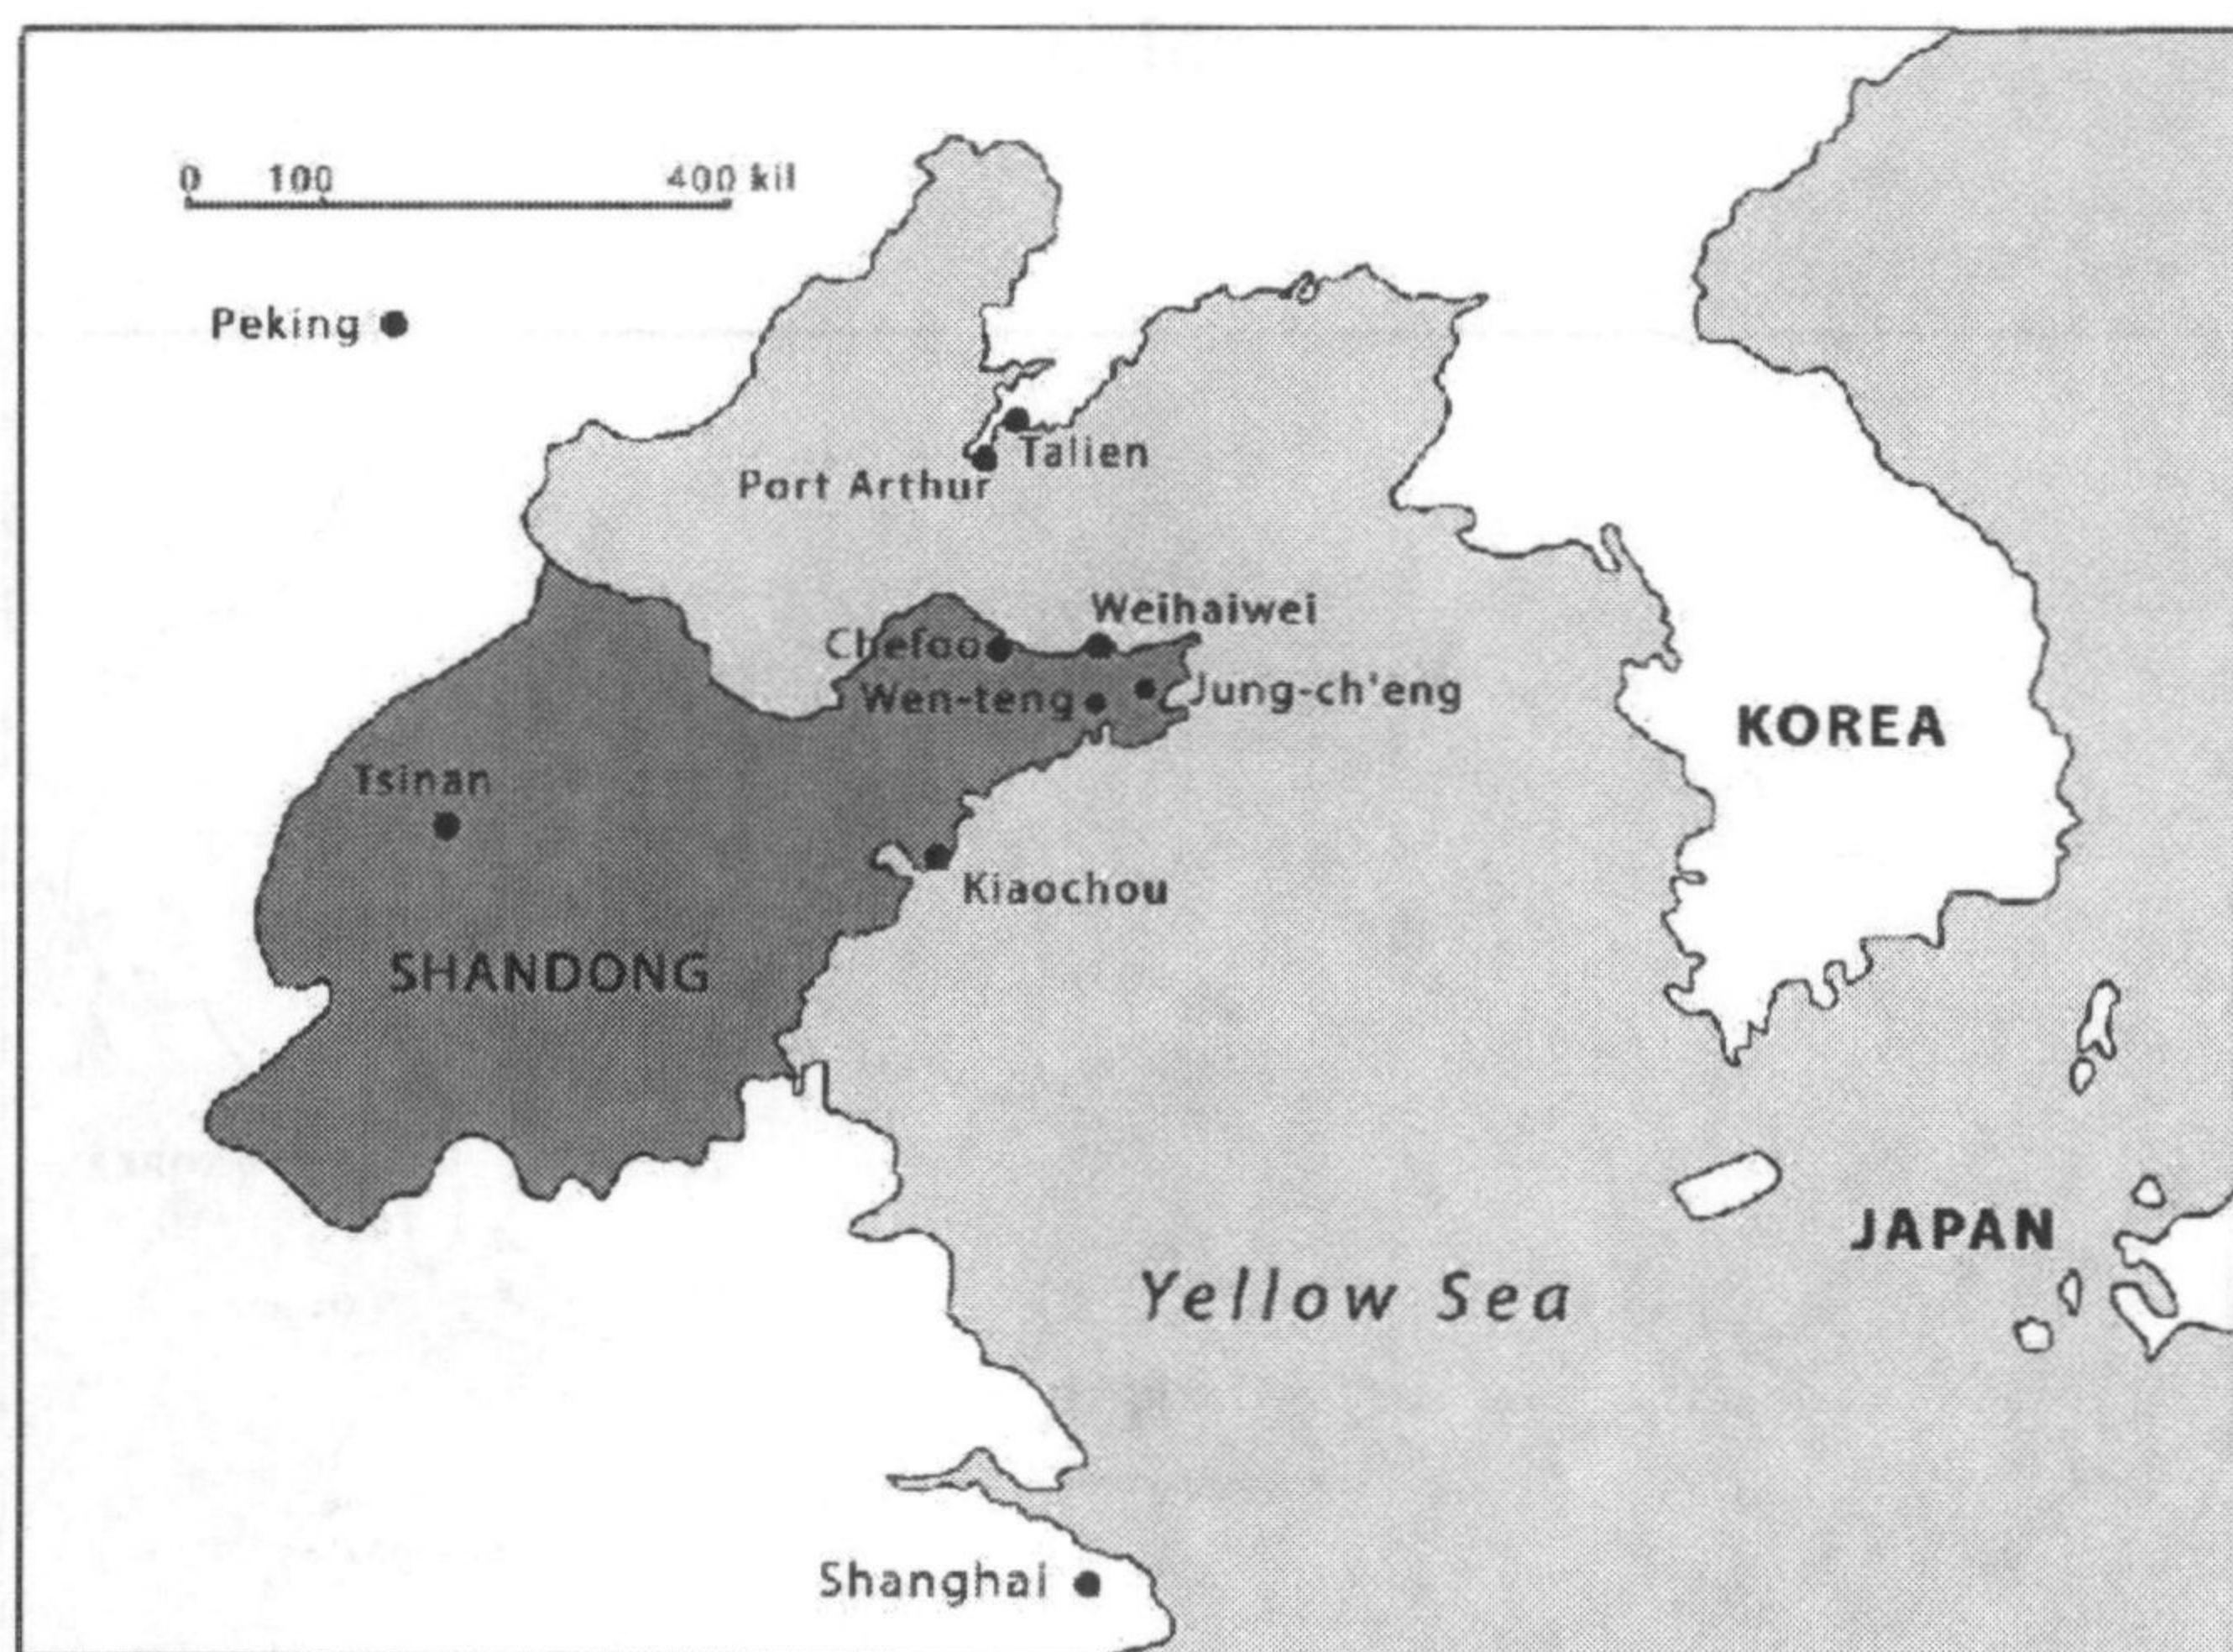

Local place names in pinyin and Chinese characters

Ao-Shang	Aoshang	敖上
Ch'iao-t'ou	Qiaotou	桥头
Chefoo	Yantai	烟台
Chiang-chia-kou	Jiangjiakou	江家口
Chien-li-kou	Qianlikou	前里口
Fan-chia-pu	Fanjiabu	范家埠
Feng-lin	Fenglin	凤林
Hai T'ou Yüan	Haitouyuan	海头院
Hai-chuang	Haizhuang	海庄
Hai-hsi-t'ou	Haixitou	海西头
Hou-li-kou	Houlikou	后里口
Hsia-chuang	Xiaozhuang	下庄
Hsiao-yen-t'an	Xiaoyantuan	小盐滩
Hsi-lao-t'ai	Xilaotai	西涝台
Jung-ch'eng	Rongcheng	荣成
Ku-shan-hou	Gushanhou	固山後
Lin-chia-yüan	Linjiayuan	林家院
Liu-chia-t'an	Liujiatuan	刘家滩
Liukung Island	Liugongdao	刘公岛
Lu-tao-k'ou	Ludaokou	麓道口

Mat'ou	Matou	码头
Meng-chia-chuang	Mengjiazhuang	孟家庄
Nan-chu-tao	Nanzhudao	南竹岛
P'o-yü-chia	Poyujia	泊于家
P'u-wan	Puwan	蒲湾
Pao-chia	Baojia	包家
Pao-hsin	Baoxin	报信
Pei-chiang-hsi	Beijiangxi	北港西
Pei-shang-kuang	Beishangkuang	北上乔
Shuang-ssŭ-k'uang	Shuangsikuang	双寺乔
Sun-chia-t'an	Sunjiatuan	孙家疃
Sun-chia-t'an	Sunjiatan	孙家滩
Sung-chia-t'an	Songjiatuan	宋家疃
Sung-lin-kuo-chia	Songlinguojia	松林郭家
T'un-hou-chia	Tunhoujia	屯侯家
Tengchou	Dengzhou	登州
Tien-shang	Dianshang	店上
Ts'ao-miao-tzu	Caomiaozi	草庙子
Tung-lao-t'ai	Donglaotai	东涝台
Wang-chia-k'uang	Wangjiakuang	王家乔
Wei-hai-Wei	Weihaiwei	威海卫
Wen-ch'üan-t'ang	Wenquantang	温泉汤
Wen-teng	Wendeng	文登
Yang-t'ing	Yangting	羊亭
Yü-chia-chuang	Yujiazhuang	于家庄

Maps

The map shows a section of the Lancaster River flowing from the top left towards the bottom right. A straight line, labeled 'New Road', runs parallel to the river. To the right of the road is a dashed line labeled 'Boundary of Lancaster Territory'. The map is oriented with North at the top.

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Tables and Graphs	xi
List of Maps and Illustrations	xiii
Abbreviations	xv
Note on Romanisation	xvii
Local Place Names	xix
Maps	xxi
Introduction	1
Sources of data	3
Structure and themes of this work	6
Chapter 1 Weihaiwei: From Reluctant Acquisition To Long Twilight	11
The leasing of the territory	11
The leased territory and its inhabitants	14
Assumption of control	17
Law, order and the administration of justice prior to the Wei-hai-Wei Order in Council	22
A lease of uncertain duration	29
British administration	42
James Stewart Lockhart and Reginald Johnston	46
Chapter 2 Towards An Order In Council For Weihaiwei	52
The Swettenham Report	53
The question of jurisdiction	68
The Wei-hai-Wei Order in Council	82
Chapter 3 Courts And Laws	86
Courts of law in Weihaiwei	87
Sources of Law	100

Chapter 4 Policing The Territory	120
Establishing a Police Force	121
Dealing with complaints from the European community	127
Wider duties of the police	131
Gradual expansion of the Police Force	132
The Magistrates	138
Village and district headmen	139
Effectiveness of the headmen	141
Chapter 5 Trying and Punishing Offenders	153
R. v. Wang and Hsieh	154
The aftermath of R. v. Wang and Hsieh	156
Legal representation of defendants	161
Jury trials	166
Chinese assessors in criminal trials	169
Criminal justice in the Magistrates' Courts	171
Petty village crimes	173
Sentencing and punishment of offenders	175
Imprisonment	177
Chapter 6 Resolving Civil Disputes	184
Access to civil justice	186
Trial procedure	190
The application of Chinese law and custom	191
Appeals and Rehearings	208
Mediation	215
Chapter 7 Dealing With Suicide	221
Suicide in the territory	221
Attempts at understanding suicide in China	226
Published materials on suicide	230
Suicide and the law in Weihaiwei	235
Rescue efforts	239
Beyond reporting and rescue	240
Conclusion
Criminal law	253
Chinese law and custom	254
Sources of law	254
Procedure in the Magistrates' Courts	254
The Magistrates	255