Preface

Luchu, the oldest district of Shenzhen Economic Special Zone, is a trade, financial and information centre of Shenzhen.

Before the reform and open-policy was carried out, the quality of education in this district remained poor because of the shortage of excellent teachers and up-to-date facilities. Ever since then, especially in the past decade, the Party Committee and Government of the District have paid great attention to the development of education and have always given priority to education. Aiming to build a powerful educational district, motivating itself to deepen the reform in education and improving the schooling efficiency as its central task, the Education Bureau of Luohu District (EBLD) completely carries out the Party's educational policy and firmly puts quality education into practice. The EBLD also carries out management of education by law, pays great attention to the educational scientific research and cultivating teaching staff. It strides to better the educational environments, varieties and systems, thus perfecting Luohu education systems gradually. Now, all kinds of schools in Luohu are developing coordinately. At present, there are 11 middle schools, 3 vocational middle schools, an adult secondary specialized school, 43 primary schools and 92 kindergartens in the area. Among them one is the key vocational school at the national level, eight are the first-class schools at the provincial level, eight at the city level and 19 at the district level. The number and grades of ranked schools occupy the first place of the city. The passing rate of entrance examination to universities is going up year by year. In addition, the new school management and teaching approaches, such as cooperation combined by police and schools, bilingual language teaching and so on, have come into being. A great number of qualified personnel of all round development have been brought up in the area.

As a result of development of education and the promotion of school quality, the investment environments of Luohu District have greatly improved. It has not only attracted personalities of various circles for business, investment and purchasing properties here, but also promoted the development of regional economy and prosperity in the District. The development of both education and economy in Luohu is on the way to help each other forward. In order to meet the 21st century challenge, the education in Luohu should be developed much faster into a brighter future.
