Speaking Section Directions

In this section of the test, you will demonstrate your ability to speak about a variety of topics. You will answer six questions into the microphone. Answer each of the questions as completely as possible.

In questions one and two, you will speak about familiar topics. Your response will be scored on your ability to speak clearly and coherently.

In questions three and four, you will first read a short text. The text will go away and you will then listen to a talk on the same topic. You will be asked a question about what you have read and heard. You will need to combine appropriate information from the text and the talk to provide a complete answer to the question. Your response will be scored on your ability to speak clearly and coherently and on your ability to accurately convey information about what you read and heard.

In questions five and six, you will listen to part of a conversation or a lecture. You will be asked a question about what you heard. Your response will be scored on your ability to speak clearly and coherently and on your ability to accurately convey information about what you heard.

You may take notes while you read and while you listen to the conversations and lectures. You may use your notes to help prepare your response.

Listen carefully to the directions for each question. The directions are not shown on the screen.

For each question, you will be given a short time to prepare your response. A clock will show how much preparation time is remaining. When the preparation time is up, you will be told to begin your response. A clock will show how much time is remaining. A message will appear on the screen when the response time has ended.

Meaning of Dreams

Everyone dreams every night. Those who claim that they don't dream simply don't remember their dreams. Some people easily remember their dreams; however, many of us lose our ability to recall our dreams as we grow older due to stress from our everyday lives. Getting enough sleep at night is essential to improve your ability to recall your dreams. If you're well rested, you'll find it easier to recall your dreams.

Now get ready to answer the question.

The professor is lecturing on dreams. Explain the significance of dreams in ancient cultures.

On-line Classes

From the new semester, students are eligible to take on-line psychology and law class as outlined below. Previously, all classes have been conducted off-line, but on-line classes will help increase the number of new students and enhance the school's reputation. As a result, classes in psychology and law will be offered on-line from the new semester.

Any students who fit the following criteria can apply for on-line classes.

Eligible students: Graduate students who are currently working at a company and wish to major in either psychology or law.

Requirements: Undergraduate students with a G.P.A. of over 3.5 and more than 1 reference from a professor of either psychology or law. (Graduate students from other universities can apply.)

Merit: Students desiring to major in either psychology or law can earn a diploma.

Now get ready to answer the question.

Depression

Depression is very common and affects as many as one in eight teens. Depression affects people of every color, race, economic status, or age; however, it does seem to affect more females than males during adolescence and adulthood. Not everyone recognizes depression when it happens to someone they know. And some people have incorrect ideas about what it means to be depressed. People who don't understand may react to the depressed person's low energy with criticism, scolding them for acting lazy or not trying. Some people mistakenly believe that depression is simply an attitude a person can change or a mood they can shake. It's not that easy.

Now get ready to answer the question.
