If ever I do not want to eat, do not 9 me. I know well when I need to and when not. When my tired legs do not allow me to walk, give me your 10, the same way I did when you gave your first step. And when someday I say to you that I do not want to live any more — that I want to 11 forever, do not get angry. Someday you will understand.

Try to understand that my age is not lived but survived. Some day you will discover that, despite my mistakes, I always wanted the 12 thing for you and that I tried to prepare the way for you. You must not feel sad, angry for seeing me 13 you. You must be next to me, try to understand me and to help me as I did it when you 14 living. Help me to walk, help me to end my way with love and 15. I will pay you by a smile and by the immense love I have had always for you.

I love you, Son.

Your father

四、阅读理解

Don't go to Kauai. Go to any of the other Hawaiian Islands—Maui, Lanai, the Big Island—but leave Kauai for us. The weather on Kauai is so unpredictable that sometimes it rains all day—in fact, it's the second-wettest spot on the earth. Yes, there are giant double rainbows all the time, and the sunlight through the clouds is magical. But if you are not interested in these, go somewhere else. You just can't control the nature on Kauai, and who wants to give in to the nature when you could be at a fine hotel, lying in a comfortable chair next to a swimming pool, with food served upon request?

So what if Kauai produces surf champions the way Texas produces cowboys? Most of its 300 white-sand beaches are unmarked. Unless you connect with the local people, the hidden spots are hard to find. While Hanalei is the most beautiful town you've ever dreamed of, you can forget about discos and clubs. Worse, it doesn't have one single four-star restaurant. What it does have is the original drive-through places where you pass by a rambutan tree, and pick a piece of fruit.

Shopping in Kauai? Forget it—unless you are interested in shell necklaces and beautifully carved wood bowls. Kauai is not about pampering. It's about going natural and finding the nature within you. It's a do-it-yourself place that offers walking along the coast, diving and swimming in the Pacific Ocean, and lying on the beach.

Don't go to Kauai unless you have a lot of time, because there's only one road, which can be slightly dull. It winds through the beautiful scenery of waterfalls, rivers flowing into the ocean. You've no choice but to look at everything, because the speed limit is 35 m.p.h.

If you're not interested in color, don't bother with Kauai, because that's what you get—red roads, blue oceans, and a hundred different shades of green. It's like diving on land. Many people on Kauai believe that this is Lemuria—a lost island in the Atlantic. Can you imagine? Those Hawaiians, surfers, New Agers, and people who love nature and beauty and want a different quality of life—what do they know, anyway? Forget about it—you're not going to like it. Early in the morning, I was taken in a nylon bag into a truck. I felt horrible as well as 1. What would she do with me? She was almost mad after the 2 of her husband.

A few minutes later, I heard the truck 3 its engine and move fast. I kept making sounds to show my protest, but failed to make any 4. Finally she put me down in a 5 place. Maybe she didn't want me to die from lack of air; she untied the bag.

I 6 out and looked up, only to see many strange faces and fingers pointing at me. It turned out that my owner meant to 7 me. I saw my owner on the truck, which was going farther and farther. So I cast my head 8 the direction of the truck: The days we spent together were like a movie playing in front of my eyes as I ran after the truck. I saw my male owner, who suffered liver cancer, look at me with his sad eyes. I saw myself 9 my owner everywhere; I saw him lie in his dying bed, she was all in tears.

I ran as fast as I could. And the 10 I saw her wave to me, my eyes became wet. I wouldn't blame her for treating me like this for she was such a(n) 11 lady. She seemed even somewhat angry at his leaving her alone, trying many ways to 12 the pain of losing him. She burnt his pictures and clothes, she redecorated the whole house. Now I was the only 13 thing to remind her of him. But later, I am pretty sure that she would realize how mad she was to do this.

The truck finally stopped when I was almost 14. She ran up to me and hugged me tightly. I heard her 15: "I know you are a present he left to me."
