Dear Sandy,

I'm going to study in Chicago University next month, so I have to find somewhere of my own. a furnished place I can share. I need to share the house or apartment because housing is so expensive in Chicago, you know. But I need to study, so I need a room of my own. Please find me a place that's close to transportation and stores at lower price (about 250 dollars), for it is not easy for me, a first-year student, to find a good part-time job soon.

 Please e-mail me if you have anything. My e-mail address is Teresa@Yahoo.com. I'm looking forward to seeing you!
 Love, Teresa

Seven Modern Wonders of the World

The Panama Canal. begun in the 1880s, wasn't finished until 1914. It joins the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Engineers describe the canal as a victory of humans over geography.

For 40 years after it was completed in 1931, the Empire State Building, in New York City, was the tallest building in the world. Amazingly, this 102-story building was completed in just 410 days.

The Netherlands North Sea Protection Works is another victory over geography. The Netherlands, which is below sea level, was often flooded by the North Sea and by rivers. Then, between 1927 and 1932, a dam was built to shut out the sea. Twenty years later, dams and canals were built to control the rivers.

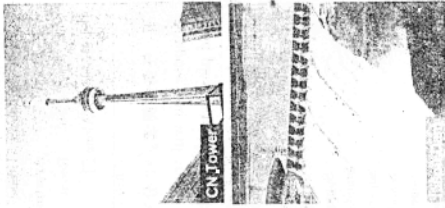

The Golden Gate Bridge, completed in 1937, was also very hard work for workers; San Francisco Bay has very strong winds and rough waves. The Golden Gate is still the world's tallest bridge. It has enough steel to go around the world three times.

At 1,815 feet, the CN Tower, in Toronto, Canada, is one of the world's tallest free-standing buildings. Completed in 1976, the tower is used for TV and radio broadcasting.

The Itaipu Dam, completed in 1984, goes across the Parana River at the Brazil-Paraguay border. It is the world's largest hydroelectric plant.

Completed in 1994, the Channel Tunnel joins France and England. The "Channel" is a great convenience; cars, buses, and trucks are all carried through the tunnel by train.

65. The _____ joins two bodies of water.
 66. The Empire State Building was the tallest building in the world for _____.
 67. The CN Tower is _____ high. It's higher than Empire State Building.
 68. The dam in Netherlands was built from 1927 to _____.
 69. It was difficult to complete the Golden Gate Bridge because there were _____ and rough waves.
 70. The Itaipu Dam crosses the borders of _____ and Paraguay.

71. If you go to England from France, you can take your car or truck through the Channel Tunnel _____.

There are 365 days in a year. We sleep 8 hours in a day, so we have 122 days for sleeping. Then our work time has 243 days left. But there are 52 weekends in a year. Each weekend is two days. We lose another 104 days a year for work. It takes us about one hour to have breakfast and supper. This comes to 15 days over a year. But we can't work all that time — we need a holiday. Let's say we have three weeks' holiday. We don't work all day. Four free hours each evening takes up 61 days. We have to remember that we get 2 days' holiday at Easter, 3 at Christmas and at the New Year. There are also 4 bank holidays. Take those 10 days away and we have 32 days for work, but then we have one and a half hours' lunch every day, and half an hour's coffee break. That comes to 30 days a year. This means that we have only a few days left for work every year!

- () 956. How many days do we sleep in a year? _____ Days.
 A. 565 B. 122 C. 8 D. 52
- () 957. We spend 15 days on _____.

Many people are surprised when they find the Internet(因特网) was set up in the 1980s. At that time, computers were large and expensive. Computer networks(网络) didn't work well. If one computer in the network broke down, then the whole network stopped. So a new network system(系统) had to be set up. It should be good enough to be used by many different computers. If a part of the network was not working, information could be sent through another part. In this way computer network system would keep on working all the time.

At first, the Internet was only used by the government, but in the early 1970s, universities(大学), hospitals and banks were allowed(允许) to use it, too. However, computers were still very expensive and the Internet was difficult to use. By the start of the 1990s, computers became cheaper and easier to use.

Today it is easy to get on-line(上网) and it is said that millions of people use the Internet every day. Sending e-mail is more and more popular among students.

The Internet has now become one of the most important parts of people's life.

- () 366. The Internet has a history of _____ years.
- A. less than 30 B. more than 30 C. about 20 D. only 10

- () 367. At first computer networks _____.

In recent years television has become the most popular form of entertainment(娱乐). It does not look as if it will be less popular in the world of the future. In fact it looks as if television will become more popular than ever. New systems of television have been made possible by the discovery of laser(激光).

A laser is a beam(光束) of light that has many strange qualities(特性). By using a laser it is possible to throw very large and very pictures onto a screen. They may be as large as three meters. Many people could watch this kind of television together.

Laser beams have also made very thin television sets possible. These sets can be hung on the wall of a room like a large picture. Another development in the future will be three-dimensional(立体的) television. the picture will look more "real".

In the near future you will be able to buy your favourite television programs already recorded on tapes. They will be like the tapes that are used in recorders today.

You will also be able to record television programs and play them back later. The laser beam will make this possible.

- () 371. In the future it seems that _____.
- A. television will be less popular

Tom's Letter and the Answers

Tom worried about his height, so he wrote a letter to a magazine:

Dear editors(编辑),
I've always been very short for my age. Most of the people around me are much taller than me. So I get a little discouraged(泄气的). It's hard to go to a show and stand the whole time looking at some tall persons' back. And if they have big hair or a high hat, that'll be even worse. My father is short too. He tells me not to worry about it. But what do you think I should do?

Tom Thumb

The editors published(出版) Tom's letter in their magazine, and two readers answered it:

Dear Tom,

Many famous people are short. Pablo Picasso, the famous artist, was one meter and sixty tall, and Elton John is only one meter and fifty-three, and Deng Xiaoping is less than one meter and sixty, and so on. But all of these people and many more have made a big contribution(贡献) to the world.

The International Space Station

Circling the earth high above, the International Space Station (ISS) is the largest spacecraft ever built. Sixteen countries are working together on the sixty-billion-dollar station. Eleven European countries, Japan, Russia, the United States, Canada, and Brazil are partners.

The ISS is made of many parts, called modules. They fit together like pieces of a puzzle. A Russian rocket brought the first module to space in November, 1998. In July, 2000, the ISS received very important module, the Zvezda (Russian for "star"). That's the station's first living area. There are many more modules and pieces of equipment (设备). Russian and US spacecraft will take them to the ISS.

The first crew to live at the station flew there on October 31, 2000. After four months, a new crew will fly to the ISS and replace them.

The ISS is important for many reasons. It is an excellent (极好的) place for scientific work. Spacecraft going to the moon, Mars, or elsewhere may stop at the station for fuel and supplies (燃料和供给). The ISS also helps to improve world peace. It brings scientists, governments, and the people of the world together.

The ISS should be finished in 2005. Scientists hope to use the station for 10 years or longer. The ISS is an important step in humankind's entry into the space age.
