講講之士的快意人生

口述及修訂◎沈富雄

撰文◎彭蕙仙

身為民進黨內大老，沈富雄到底是抱持怎樣的原則，才能在紛擾的政壇站穩腳步，而他在黨內又扮演怎樣的角色，使他在民進黨一次次的人事風波中，能夠從容面對？

本書分為兩部分，前半部沈富雄暢談人生之樂，就算在漫天的攻訐與謾罵中，他依然能微笑以對，進而享受生活。後半部敘述沈富雄從政以來發生的重要事件，在詭譎的政局中，他運用智慧與堅定的信念化險為夷，平安度過一場又一場的政治風暴。至於大家最關心的「大老」、「愛台灣」事件，沈富雄秉持「給歷史一個交代」的原則，用第三者的角度娓娓道出事件的完整始末。而他和阿扁總統的種種情結，更是首次毫不保留地誠懇表白。

Chinese Vice Premier visits Seattle

By Ron Clark

When the Chinese Vice Premier arrived in Seattle February 5, his identity for the first time was made a part of the local news.

Deng Xiaoping, the irascible political theorist who is leading China's change toward modernization, had come to Seattle for the first time to establish Chinese relations with the United States.

On the day after arrival, Deng, in a Washington Plaza restaurant with prominent Washington State business persons, said: "There was much talk in a few days ago about the importance of our agricultural industry, science and technology and economic relations. In the end of the year."

Deng said a party to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China would be held in Beijing.

Seattle was the first stop in a week-long tour of the United States, with stops in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C.

President Carter, participating in the bicentennial of America's 1776 and the Chinese anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China on October 1.

The Vice Premier arrived for the official trip to the United States with a delegation which included Madame Chen Yun, his wife, Yang Yi, minister of science and technology, Huang Hua, minister of foreign affairs, and Chen Zhen, chief of the foreign office in Washington, D.C.

According to a senior administration official, there were 20 to 30 requests from major cities for the Chinese delegation to visit. But the official said the final schedule was: Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Houston and Seattle. "We have to see what the administration thought," he said to give prominence to this kind of thing they like Chinese magazine press.

Seattle had very warm for the students, police officers, business leaders, the Port of Seattle, with its presence of absolute confidence and feeling.

despite the world press and that China has to be regarded against Korea." Tung said the foreign affairs minister quoted Mao Tse-tung's famous 1977 plans to discuss.

The delegation stayed at the Seattle Marriott Hotel, an official Washington State building. Tung said: "I am going to have a lot of fun."

Throughout the delegation's visit to the United States, including Seattle, Tung said China's approach to "negotiation" after the Chinese are seen foreign attempts to invade in the internal affairs of other nations. In his famous words, Tung said the delegation "came in the hope of strengthening peace, and we have not been disappointed to see today."

long in seeing the biggest internationalists have to be dealt with first. "Huang said the biggest internationalists in Russia," Tung added.

However, today afternoon, February 4, about 75 to 100 native Taiwanese marched in protest, across the street from the Washington Plaza where the Vice Premier was being housed by the business persons.

Earlier in the day, members of the Revolutionary Communist Party and supporters of the Nationalist regime in Taiwan held their own demonstration, both groups in front of Deng's suite, but for different reasons.

The Taiwanese demonstrators, many students in the University of Washington, argued that Taiwan is not part of China and that normalization of U.S.-China relations was achieved at the expense of the rights of the Taiwanese to determine their own future.

As part of the agreement to normalize relations with China, the U.S. government officially "acknowledged" the Chinese position "that there is but one China and Taiwan is part of China."

Yu-Huang Stern, University of Washington (UW) assistant professor of sociology and spokesperson for the Taiwanese, said that because of the Chinese, the Taiwanese do not want to be reunited with China. The Taiwanese, he added, "have developed their culture as a variant of Chinese culture." He said the present Taiwanese comprise 20 per cent of the population of Taiwan and that 10 per cent are Nationalists who hold some of the power and wealth on the island.

Supporters of the Nationalist regime in Taiwan argue, however, that there is only one China and that the Nationalists are the legitimate government of the Chinese people.

Tung said Huang was aware of Taiwan, the who argue that the Nationalist government is not representative of the people there. "But he (Huang) said China has to deal with the people in power in Taiwan," said Tung. "This is reality. If the Chinese refused to talk, nothing would happen."

Tung said the foreign minister himself was a powerful addition to the Taiwan question was that for all parties. "But in a way of strategy, the Chinese cannot make a pledge not to have a military solution," said Tung. "If they say they won't settle it by force, there would be no incentive to have Taiwan peacefully resolved."

But Shen Hui-Carrie should have gotten "more guarantee of security for the Taiwanese. Carter gave none."

"The issue of a people," Shen said, "should be based on the determination of the people themselves."

On Monday, February 5, Tung and his delegation departed Seattle from the Boeing Flight Center, heading to Anchorage, Alaska on the way back to China.

Before the Chinese left, they signed agreements of cooperation with the United States in science and technology, education, agriculture and space, in high-energy physics.

With the Washington State delegation plan for China (continued)

China is the fifth year of a 10-year plan to accelerate agriculture, Robert Kapp, U.S. national professor in International Studies and History, said. "If agricultural production does not rise to equal population growth, the plan for modernization cannot survive very long."
