☞ There was a boy called Jack. Jack sat about the house all day.

“Oh, Jack! Get a job,” said his mum.

☞ Jack got a job at the baker's shop.

☞ Mr Brown the baker gave him a penny for his pay, but he lost it.

“Oh, Jack! I’m very cross with you,” said his mum. “Put it in your pocket next time.”

☞ Jack got a job in the dairy.

Mrs Green the dairy owner gave him
a pot of milk for his pay.

☞ On the way home he put it in his pocket.
The milk spilled onto the ground.

“Oh, Jack!” said his mum. “Put it on your head next time.”

☞ Jack got a job at the market.

Mr White the stallholder gave him
a cheese for his pay.

☞ On the way home he put it on his head.
But the sun was very hot!
The cheese melted.

☞ “Oh, Jack! What a mess,” said his mum.
“Hold it in your hands next time.”

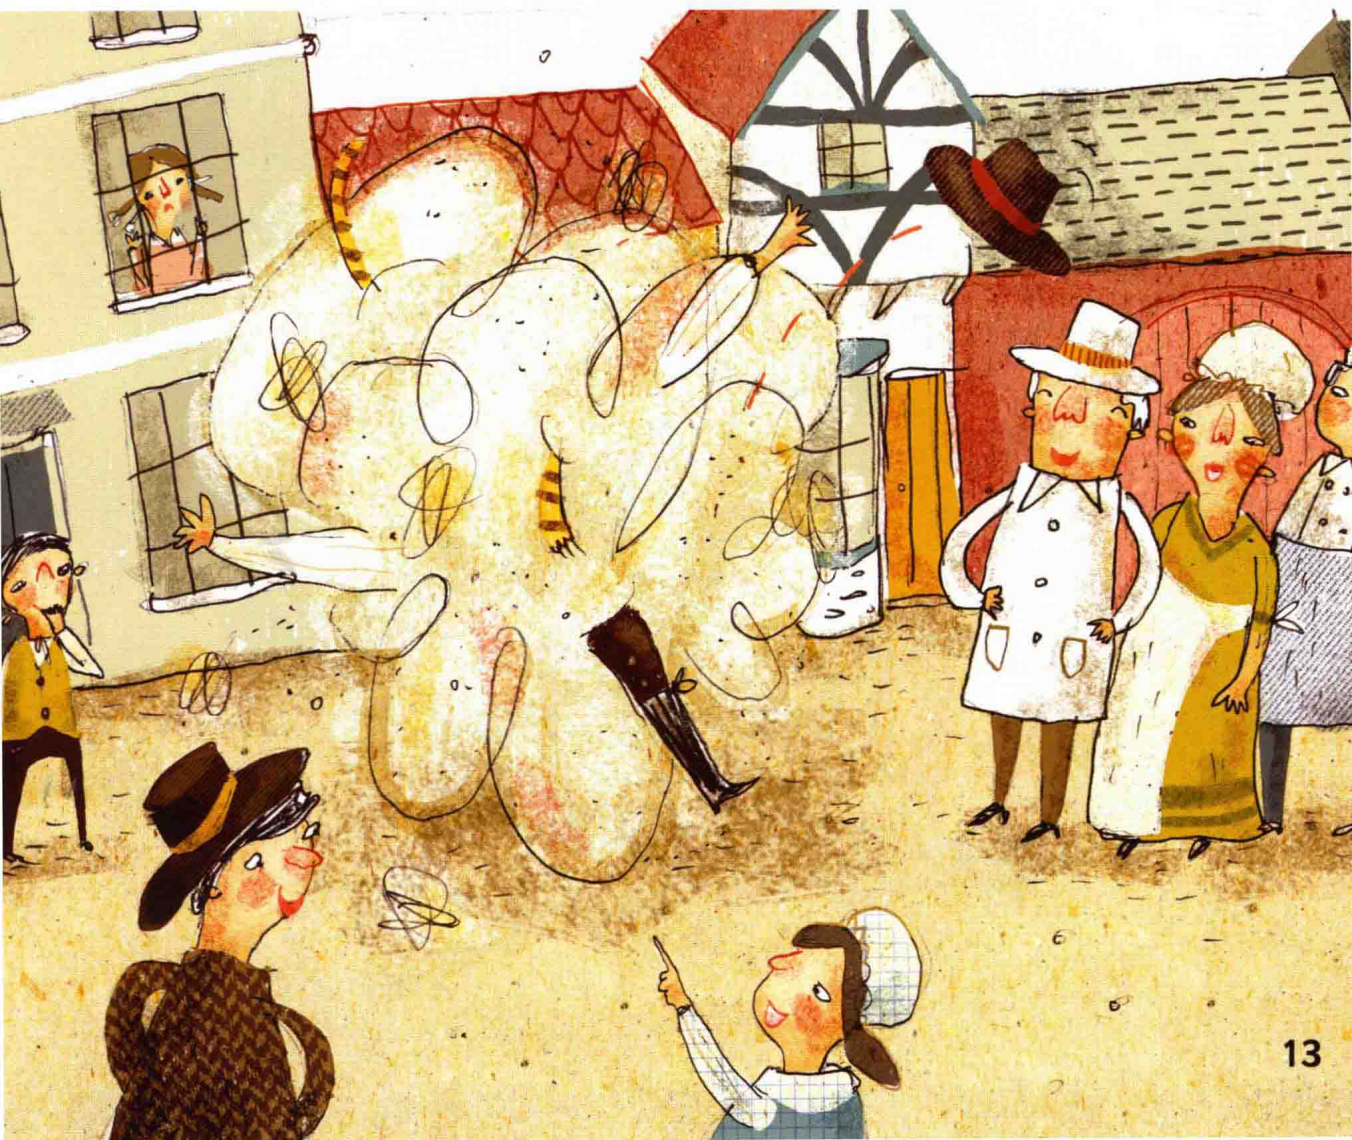

☞ Jack got a job with Miss Black the vet.

She gave him a cat for his pay.

☞ On the way home he held it in his hands.
The cat got cross!

☞ “Oh, Jack!” said his mum. “Put it on a lead next time.”
