Model Test 1

Part I Listening Comprehension (20 minutes)

Section A

Directions: (omitted) In this section, you will hear 10 short conversations. At the end of each conversation, a question will be asked about what was said. Both the conversation and question will be spoken only once. After each question there will be a pause. During the pause, you will read the four choices marked A), B), C) and D), and decide which is the best answer. The mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet with a single line through the center.

Example: You will hear:

You will read:

A) at the office.

- B) In the waiting room.
- C) At the airport
- D) In a restaurant.

From the conversation we know that the two were talking about some work they had to finish in the evening. This is most likely to have taken place at the office. Therefore, A) "At the office" is the best answer. You should choose A) on the Answer Sheet and mark it with a single line through the center.

- 1. A) Place another order.
 - B) Call to check on it.
- 2. A) She doesn't need the job.
 - B) She hasn't got a job yet.
- 3. A) She got home before 9 o' clock.
 - B) She had a bad cold.

- C) Wait patiently.
- D) Go and find the furniture.
- C) She has got a good job.
- D) She is going to start work soon.
- C) She had a car accident.
- D) She was delayed.
- 4. A) She hasn't gone camping for several weeks.
 - B) She likes to take long camping trips.
 - C) She prefers not to go camping on weekends.
 - D) She often spends a lot of time planning her camping trips.
- 5. A) A writer.
- B) A teacher.
- C) A reporter.
- D) A student.

- 6. A) She has not heard of Prof. Johnson.
 - B) She has not heard of Prof. Johnson's brother.
 - C) She is a good friend of Prof. Johnson's.
 - D)She does not know Prof. Johnson's brother.
- 7. A) Coming back for a later show.
- C) Coming back in five minutes.

B) Waiting in a queue.

D) Not going to the movie today.

- 8. A) He has got a heart attack.
- B) He was unharmed.

- C) He was badly hurt.
- D) He has fully recovered from the shock.
- 9. A) The man went to Australia during Christmas.
 - B) The man visited Australia during the summer vacation.
 - C) The man didn't have a good time because of the different weather.
 - D) The man remained home while his parents went to his uncle's.
- 10. A) To attend a party at a classmate's home.
 - B) To do homework with her classmate.
 - C) To attend an evening class.
 - D) To have supper out with her classmate.

Section B

Directions: (omitted) In this section, you will hear 3 short passages. At the end of each passage, you will hear some questions. Both the passage and the questions will be spoken only once. After you hear a question, you must choose the best answer from the four choices marked A), B), C) and D). Then mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet with a single line through the centre.

Passage One

Questions 11 to 13 are based on the passage you have just heard.

Part II Reading Comprehension (35 minutes)

Directions: There are 4 passages in this part. Each passage is followed by some questions or unfinished statements. For each of them there are four choices marked A), B), C) and D). You should decide on the best choice and mark the corresponding letter on the Answer Sheet with a single line through the centre.

Passage One

When Eric Lander is speaking, everybody listens. (91)No matter whether it is to his peer (同等之人) scientists, the ordinary public or to the media reporters, the curly-haired biologist spares no effort to describe the bright future the Human Genome Project (HGP) may bring to mankind, and to biological research itself.

When the HGP was initiated 12 years ago, few people knew exactly what it except that it would need an astronomic sum of US $ 3 billion. Scientists who promoted the project described it as a great effort to decode the 'Book of Life, 'and likened it the Apollo Project that sent human beings to the moon's surface.

A new branch in biology, called genomics, was established to study the totality of human genes, rather than pinpointing specific ones, as biologists did in the past. Scientists use a powerful machine, called sequencer, to decode the 3-billion nucleotide pairs---the building blocks of human genome (基因组). The HGP, as a whole, has the finish line in sight, with the complete map of human genome expected in 2003. By then, the 3-billion-letter "Book of Life" will be decoded, scientists promise.

However, the story is still far from over. How to read the book will be crucial for any further research based on it. Different persons may have different ways to read the book, and that will determine how we can make the best use of the book. The completion of HGP only opens way to greater, more complicated research areas. The next stage, Lander predicts, will be proteomics, the study of proteins as a whole. He defined proteomics as a subset of genomics which studies proteins—the basic dements of life—using new approaches and perspectives developed in genomies studies. Proteins and genomes carry different biological information. While an organism has one genome set, proteins within an organism may vary widely in structure and function. Each type of cells has a unique set of proteins or proteome. Each protein has unique chemical and physical properties and their interaction defines how life develops. So far, 252 types of cells have been identified within the human body, which means a vast pool of research resources for biologists.

Passage Two

Questions 26 to 30 are based on the following passage:

A good modern newspaper is an extraordinary piece of reading. It is remarkable first for what it contains: the range of news from local crime to international politics from sport to business to fashion to science, and the range of comment and special features (特写) as well, from editorial page to feature articles and interviews to criticism of books, art, theatre and music. A newspaper is even more remarkable for the way one reads it: never completely, never straight through, but always by jumping from here to there, in and out glancing at one piece, reading another article all the way through, reading just a few paragraphs of the next. A good modern newspaper offers a variety to attract many different readers, but far more than any one reader is interested in. What brings this variety together in one place is its topicality (时事性), its immediate relation to what is happening in your world and your locality now. But immediacy and the speed of production that goes with it mean also that much of what appears in a newspaper has no mere than transient (短暂的) value. (92) For all these reasons, no two people really read the same paper: what each person does is to put together out of the pages of that day's paper, his own selection and sequence, his own newspaper. For all these masons, reading newspapers efficiently, which means getting what you want from them without missing things you need but without wasting time, demands skill and self-awareness as you modify and apply the techniques of reading.

demands skill and self-awareness as you modify and apply the techniques of reading.
A modern newspaper is remarkable for all the following except its
A) wide coverage C) speed in reporting news
B) uniform style D) popularity
27. According to the passage, the reason why no two people really read the same newspaper is that
A) people scan for the news they are interested in
B) different people prefer different newspapers
C) people are rarely interested in the same kind of news
D) people have different views about what a good newspaper is
28. It can be concluded from the passage that newspaper readers
A) apply reading techniques skillfully
B) jump from one newspaper to another
C) appreciate the variety of a newspaper
D) usually read a newspaper selectively
29. A good newspaper offers "a variety" to readers because
A) it tries to serve different readers
B) it has to cover things happen in a certain locality
C) readers are difficult to please
D) readers like to read different newspaper
30. The best title for this passage would be "".
A) The Importance of Newspaper Topicality
B) The Characteristics of a Good Newspaper
C) The Variety of a Good Newspaper

D) Some Suggestions on How to Read a Newspaper

Passage Three

Questions 31 to 35 are based on the following passage:

(93) When a consumer finds that an item she or he bought is faulty or in some other way does not live up to the manufacturer's claim for it, the first step is to present the warranty (保单), or any other 'records which might help, at the store of purchase. In most cases, this action will produce results. However, if it does not, there are various means the consumer may use to gain satisfaction.

A simple and common method used by many consumers is to complain directly to the store manager. In general, the "higher up" the consumer takes his or her complaint, the faster he or can expect it to be settled. In such a case, it is usually settled in the consumer's favour, assuming he or she has a just claim.

Consumers should complain in person whenever possible, but if they cannot get to the place of purchase, it is acceptable to phone or write the complaint in a letter.

(94) Complaining is usually most effective when it is done politely but firmly, and especially when the consumer can demonstrate what is wrong with the item in question. If this cannot be done, the consumer will succeed best by presenting specific information as to what is wrong, rather than by making general statements. For example, "The left speaker does not work at all and the sound coming out of the right one is unclear" is better than "This stereo (立体声音响) does not work.."

The store manager may advise the consumer to write to the manufacture. If so, the consumer should do this, starting the complaint as politely and firmly as possible. But if a polite complaint does not achieve the desired result, the consumer can go a step further. She or he can threaten to take the seller to court or report the seller to a private or public organization responsible for protecting consumers' right.

A) how to settle a consumer's complaint about a faulty item
B) how to make an effective complaint about a faulty item
C) how to avoid buying a f	aulty item
D) how to deal with compla	aints from customers.

Passage Four

Questions 36 to 40 are based on the following passage:

If women are mercilessly exploited year after year, they have only themselves to blame. Because they tremble at the thought of being seen in public in clothes that are out of fashion, they are always taken advantage of by the designers and the big stores. Clothes which have been worn only a few times have to be put aside because of the change of fashion. When you come to think of it, only a women is capable of standing in front of a wardrobe (衣柜) packed full of clothes and announcing sadly that she has nothing to wear.

Changing fashions are nothing more than the intentional creation of waste. Many women spend vast sums of money each year to replace clothes that have hardly been worn. Women who cannot afford to throw away clothing in this way, waste hours of their time altering the dresses they have. Skirts are lengthened; neck lines are lowered or raised, and so on.

No one can claim that the fashion industry contributes anything really important to society. Fashion designer are rarely concerned with vital things like warmth, comfort and durability (耐用). They are only interested in outward appearance and they take advantage of the fact that women will put up with any amount of discomfort, as long as they look right. (95) There can hardly be a man who hasn't at some time in his life smiled at the sight of a woman shaking in thin dress on a winter day, or delicately picking her way through deep snow in high-heeled shoes.

When comparing men and women in the matter of fashion, the conclusion to be drawn are obvious. Do the constantly changing fashions of women's clothes, one wonder, reflect basic qualities of inconstancy and instability? Men are too clever to let ect themselves be cheated by fashion	designers. Do their	unchanging styles	of dress refl basic qualities of stability and reli	ability? That is for y	you to decide.

- A) by mercilessly exploiting women workers in the clothing industry
- B) because they are capable of predicting new fashions

36. Designers and big stores always make money

- C) by constantly changing the fashions in women's clothing
- D) because they attach great importance to quality in women's clothing

37. To the writer, the fact that women alter their old-fashioned dresses is seen as
A) a market of many control of tests
A) a waste of money C) an expression of taste
B) a waste of time D) an expression of creativity
38. The writer would be less critical if fashion designers placed more stress on the
of clothing.
A) cost B) appearance C) comfort B) suitability
39. According to the passage, which of the following statements is TRUE?
 A) New fashions in clothing are created for the commercial exploitation of women.
B) The constant changes in women's clothing reflect their strength of character.
C) The fashion industry makes an important contribution to society.
D) Fashion designs should not be encouraged since they are only welcomed by women.
40. By saying "the conclusions to be drawn are obvious" (Line 1-2, Para. 4) the writer means that
A) women's inconstancy in their choice of clothing is often laughed at
B) women are better able to put up with discomfort
C) men are also exploited greatly by fashion designers
D) men are more stable and reliable in character
b) then are more stable and renable in character
