IN THIS ISSUE

LEE BRAUDE is associate professor in the Department of Sociology, State University of New York, College of Arts and Sciences at Fredonia. He is currently interested in the impact of doctoral examinations on the occupational commitment of graduate students, and in the history of sociology. He is author of the forthcoming Work and Workers: A Sociological Analysis.

BERNARD J. SIEGEL is professor of anthropology at Stanford University. His main interests are in studies of social and cultural processes. He has carried on field work in the eastern pueblos of New Mexico and the peasant societies of Brazil and Portugal. He is coauthor (with Alan Beals) of Divisiveness: An Anthropological Approach to the Study of Conflict.

J. T. BORHEK is associate professor of sociology at the University of Arizona. His main interest is the sociology of knowledge.

DORRIAN APPLE SWEETSER is professor of sociology at Boston University. She is currently engaged in a study of Norwegian families in collaboration with the Institute of Applied Social Research in Oslo.

JOHN W. MEYER is assistant professor of sociology at Stanford University. He is currently involved in a series of studies of educational organization, including one on the effects of American colleges on occupational choice, and another on the political and economic factors which affect the form of national educational structures.

PAUL RITTERBAND is assistant professor of sociology at Columbia University and associate director of the Center for Policy Research. He is conducting a study of the rise and development of Jewish studies in American universities, and is extending his work on student migration with a cross-national study of foreign graduate students in science and engineering in the United States.

N. KRISHNAN NAMBOODIRI is associate professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina. He is currently interested in demography and statistics, and is working on a textbook with H. M. Blalock and L. F. Carter entitled Advanced Statistical Methods in Social Research.

HENRI THEIL is professor and director of the Center for Mathematical Studies in Business and Economics of The University of Chicago. His books include Linear Aggregation of Economic Relations (1954), Economic Forecasts and Policy (1961), Optimal Decision Rules for Government and Industry (1964), Operations Research and Quantitative Economics (with J. C. G. Boot and T. Kloek [1965]), Applied Economic Forecasting (1966), Economics and Information Theory (1967), and Principles of Econometrics (1970).

Information for Contributors

Editorial Procedures: In order to provide complete impartiality in the selection of manuscripts for publication, all papers deemed appropriate for the AJS are sent out anonymously to readers. The editors rely heavily on the judgments of those readers, although they are not bound by them. To protect anonymity, only the title should appear on the manuscript. Attach a cover page with your name and affiliation. All identifying references and footnotes should appear on a separate page. Manuscripts are accepted for publication subject to nonsubstantive editing. No manuscript that is a chapter of a book scheduled for publication, or has been published elsewhere, or has been simultaneously submitted elsewhere will be considered for publication. Upon publication, all rights, including subsidiary rights, are owned by the University of Chicago Press. The author retains the right to use his article without charge in any book of which he is the author or editor after it has appeared in the Journal.

Preparation of Copy

1. Type all copy—including indented matter, footnotes, and references—doubled-spaced on white standard paper, allowing two-inch margins at top and bottom of page.
2. Type each table on a separate page. Refer to each table in the text. Prepare tables without vertical lines.
3. Clarify all symbols with words in the margin of the manuscript. Encircle these and other explanatory notes not intended for printing.
4. Draw figures on white paper with india ink. Submit original or glossy print of each figure with manuscript.
5. An abstract of not more than 100 words summarizing the findings should be included.
6. Duplicate copies of the manuscript should be submitted with a stamped self-addressed 9 × 12 envelope.

Format of References in Text: All references to monographs, articles, and statistical sources are to be identified at the appropriate point in the text by last name of author, year of publication, and pagination where appropriate, all within parentheses. Footnotes are to be used only for substantive observations. Specify subsequent citations of the same source in the same way as the first one; do not use “ibid.,” “op. cit.,” or “loc. cit.”

1. When author's name is in the text: Duncan (1959). When author's name is not in the text: (Gouldner 1963).
2. Pagination follows year of publication: (Lipset 1964, pp. 61-65).
3. With dual authorship, give both names; for more than three, use “et al.” For institutional authorship, supply minimum identification from the beginning of the complete citation: (U.S. Bureau of Census 1963, p. 117).
4. With more than one reference to an author, distinguish them by use of letters (a, b) attached to the year of publication: (1965*a*).
5. Enclose a series of references within a single pair of parentheses, separated by semicolons.

Format of References: List all items alphabetically by author and, within author, by year of publication, in an appendix, titled “References.” Use no abbreviations. Examples follow:

- Davis, K. 1963*a*. “The Theory of Change and Response in Modern Demographic History.” Population Index 29 (October): 345-66.
- . 1963*b*. “Social Demography.” In The Behavioral Sciences Today, edited by Bernard Berelson. New York: Basic Books.
- Goode, W. J. 1967. “The Protection of the Inept.” American Sociological Review 32 (February): 5-19.
- Moore, Wilbert E., and Arnold S. Feldman. 1960. Labor Commitment and Social Change in Developing Areas. New York: Social Science Research Council.
- Sanford, Nevitt, ed. 1962. The American College. New York: Wiley.
