同學會祝詞

今當吾校文科商科畢業之日吾儕與畢業諸君居有年矣平日親 好不

啻骨肉敦行勉學夙有同懷際茲盛會非不能繪藻文章來爲頌語然世

之言頌者吾見之矣摭辭以成頌辭盡而意與俱盡周旋應對所謂有禮。

心固莫動於中情無由通於外此之謂碩豈吾儕所欲獻於諸君諸君之

所願聞哉吾儕所望於諸君與諸君所自期者甚大以世界潮流之浩瀚。

人類要求之繁複吾儕處其間負其責欲全厥功前途正長今特一跬步

之進程耳有志者奮迹邁往猶虞不及然則今之稱辭以頌者誠不 如其

掬誠以勉矣吾儕以爲人所以賴以涵養偷樂者爲天地之眞美生息滋

長者經濟之互助於斯以外而欲別所謂人生不可得也今諸君所熟習

而 畢業者曰文科曰商科則凡以涵養偷樂生息滋長乎人者其責任己

集於諸君之身矣諸君將何以應之耶語日任重致遠諸君其念此重任

自求致遠之功哉泱泱乎前途吾儕無多頭大成功之歡呼會當不遠耳。

VALEDICTORY OF CLASS 1921

We, the graduates of Fuh-Tan University for the year of grace, 1921, desire to express our gratitude to our beloved Alma Mater, for all the benefits,—educational, spiritual, and corporeal—which we have received at her hands, and our joy that, by her means, we are enabled, this year, to take our stand among the mighty and ever-increasing army of the graduates of our dear Native Land.

May our beloved College long prosper, and continue to train ever increasingly efficient teachers, who shall prove a boon and a blessing to all succeeding young students who shall continue to enter her portal and pass through her classes.

That our College may prove a great blessing to our much tried Country, rent asunder by internal dissensions and external enmities, is our fervent desire.

We ardently hope that our College may be a means of spreading true knowledge among the masses of our Country; that error and ignorance and vice may be largely eradicated through the medium of the students who have followed her courses of instruction and been subjected to her influence.

We wish our College to be a tower of Strength, of Purity, of Knowledge among the vast Chinese nation; and that we, her students, may one and all make it our life-long aim to contribute to the welfare of our fellow-men, by living up to all that we have learnt here of high and noble ideals; so that the coming Chinese generation may far surpass any previous one in virtuous strength, in unity of purposes in all that is best and noblest, in forming a strong and stedfast front against the foe that would threaten our nation to her very foundations, sowing disunion and disaccord among us, especially among the unenlightened members of our population.

We, the graduates of Fuh-Tan University for the year of grace, 1921, would again most humbly thank our glorious College for all the benefits we have received at her hands; we would venture to tender our most unworthy thanks to all our kind teachers and associates, and to all the College assistance, and to hope that our relations may ever continue to be the same happy ones that have prevailed hitherto.

Mistorical Sketch of Fuh=Tan University

Fuh-Tan University was established in the autumn of 1905. Mr. Ma Liang became its first President.

For want of a suitable building, the premises of the Woosung admiralty, near the city of Woosung, were, with the sanction of the Kiangsu provincial authorities, secured as a temporary accommodation.

The original aim of the founders of the institution was to offer advantage of modern education to Chinese literati and officials as the result of changing conditions in the country; and in this respect its position was unique in that a large proportion of the students who matriculated at its opening were men of advanced learning in the old school of Chinese literature.

The University at first comprised two separate departments—the English and the French—each maintaining its own faculty.

Two years later, however, for the purpose of centralization and economy, the French department was merged into the English and became a part of the general curriculum. A course in Germam was subsequently added to what is now known as the Department of Modern Languages.

The course of study was also extended from four to nine years—five years for the preparatory and four for the collegiate—in accordance with the requirement of the then Board of Education.

Mr. Yen Fuh, the well-known Anglo-Chinese scholar, succeeded Mr. Ma Liang a year later, and during his administration the Institution was formally registered as a Provincial College with an annual grant of $20,000 from the Kiangsu Government.

Taotai Hsia Ching Koan was subsequently appointed the official representative of the Viceroy of Kiangsu at the resignation of Dr. Yen Fuh.

When Chang Jen Chuen became Viceroy of Nanking, Mr. Ma Liang was returned as President. He remained in office until the outbreak of the Revolution in 1911, when the Institution was temporarily closed down, and subsequently removed to its present premises.

After the Revolution, the University was maintained by the Provisional Government of Nanking which gave it an endowment of $10,000. Among the Board of Trustees were the then President Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Tutuh Chen Teh Chuan of Nanking, Tutuh Chen chi Mei, Dr. Wang Chung Hui, and other prominent Republicans.

Dr. T. H. Lee was appointed as successor to Mr. Ma Liang as President in August, 1912.

The Revolution of 1913 was a critical period in the history of the Institution as a result of the departure of many of its supporters to foreign countries, and the sudden stoppage of the usual financial support.

The financial difficulty was gradually overcome, first, by the rapid increase of students from ninety to four hundred, and, secondly by the increase of the school fees from $120 to $160 per year. The latter gave it an additional revenue of $6,000 per annum.

A new Board of Trustees was then organized, composing of Honorable Tang Shao-yi, ex-Premier of the Chinese Republic (as Chairman), Mr. C. T. Wang, Vice Speaker of the Senate, Dr. Wang Chung Hui, ex-Minister of Justice, Mr. C. C. Nieh, cotton merchant, and other prominent local Chinese.

At the last Board of Trustees' Meeting held on October 7, it was decided to add the Boards of Management and Advisers to the original Board of Trustees, and the number of committee members has been consequently enlarged.

The Institution is now almost self-supporting and its revenue from students alone amounts to $50,000 a year.

A site of seventy Chinese acres has been purchased at Kiangwan for the erection of its permanent building at the estimated cost of $320,000. About $16,000 has already been raised and the construction of some of the buildings began last year, 1920.

The University now has four departments—the School of Arts, the School of Science, the School of Commerce, and the School of Chinese Literature. Degrees are given when students graduated from any of these schools. t is contemplated to add two more departments in the near future—the School of Pedagogy and the School of Engineering.

COLLEGE SONG

Ye sons of the morning,

With bright hopes a-dawning,

Raise high your cheerful voices loud and true.

With aim and high ambition,

And full of anticipation,

Let's cheer this day for dear old F. T. U.

Cheer, cheer! Cheer, boys, cheer!

Cheer once more again for Fuh-tan blue!

For hardship's ne'er availing,

And courage's all prevailing,

Whene'er we cheer for dear old F. T. U.

Hip, hip, Hurrah (three times).

Retrain: - For hardship's ne'er availing,

And courage's all prevailing,

Whene'er we cheer for dear old F. T. U.
