General Information

Founded in October 1941 under the Education Ministry of the National Government, Guizhou Normal University (GZNU) was originally named National Guiyang Teachers' College. It was one of the eight national teachers colleges at that time and also the first college in Guizhou to train middle-school teachers and research high education. With the aim to build a fine and complete cradle for teachers of secondary education, GZNU has "taken its own responsibility for supplying the educational resource in Southwest China", fostered its spirit of "Patriotism, Contribution, Dedication and Cultivation", and developed its motto of "Contemplation, Honesty, Erudition and Creativity" for seventy years. GZNU has evolved into a normal university of eleven disciplines such as philosophy, economics, law, education, literature, history, science, engineering, agriculture and management, with focuses on both normal and non-normal education. Its comprehensive strength, including teacher-training and non-teacher-training, takes a lead in higher-learning institutions in Guizhou province, which makes great contributions on economic construction, social development of the province, particularly in compulsory education. With all careers improving and overall strength enhanced, GZNU has developed into a multidisciplinary Normal University featuring normal education.
