THE COMPETITION

The Society of Publication Designers Annual Competition draws several thousand entries from the United States and abroad. A distinguished jury, representing various design and editorial disciplines, judges the works submitted in twenty-one categories.

Once the most outstanding has been selected for the exhibition and publication design annual, the jury awards, Gold and Silver medals, the highest awards for editorial design, and Merit awards for distinction. The result, is a body of work representing the best in design, photography, and illustration.

This year, the Society inaugurated two new categories: Overall Design, honoring outstanding and consistent design achievement throughout the year, and Online Design, recognizing exceptional design on the world wide web.
