

CHINESE (TAIWAN) YEARBOOK OF INTERNATIONAL LAW AND AFFAIRS

Edited by Ying-jeou Ma

VOLUME 31 (2013)

BRILL | NIJHOFF

The Chinese (Taiwan) Society of International Law -
The Chinese (Taiwan) Branch of the International Law Association

Chinese (Taiwan) Yearbook of International Law and Affairs

Edited by

Ying-jeou Ma

VOLUME 31 (2013)

The Chinese (Taiwan) Society of International Law —
The Chinese (Taiwan) Branch of the International Law Association

BRILL
NIJHOFF

LEIDEN | BOSTON

Editorial Advisory Board

William P. Alford (Harvard Law School, USA)
Ove Bring (National Defence College, Sweden)
C.V. Chen (National Chengchi University, Taiwan, ROC)
Christine Chinkin (London School of Economics and Political Science, UK)
James Crawford (International Court of Justice)
Jacques deLisle (University of Pennsylvania, USA)
Gerhard Hafner (University of Vienna, Austria)
Bing Ling (University of Sydney, Australia)
William A. Lovett (Tulane University, USA)
Shigeru Oda (International Law Association of Japan, Japan)
Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann (European University Institute, Italy)
Sang-Myon Rhee (Seoul National University, Republic of Korea)
Torsen Stein (Saarland University, Germany)
Stefan Talmon (University of Bonn, Germany)
Helmut Tuerk (International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea)
Alexander Yankov (International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea)

All correspondences concerning the Yearbook should be sent to:

Professor Chun-i Chen
P.O. Box 1-171 Mucha, Taipei 116, Taiwan, ROC
Tel: 886-2-29388218
E-mail: yearbook@nccu.edu.tw

ISSN 0731-0854

ISBN 978-90-04-30609-7 (hardback)

ISBN 978-90-04-30650-9 (e-book)

Copyright 2016 Koninklijke Brill NV, Leiden, The Netherlands.

Koninklijke Brill nv incorporates the imprints Brill, Brill Hes & De Graaf, Brill Nijhoff, Brill Rodopi and Hotei Publishing.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, translated, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without prior written permission from the publisher.

Authorization to photocopy items for internal or personal use is granted by Koninklijke Brill nv provided that the appropriate fees are paid directly to The Copyright Clearance Center, 222 Rosewood Drive, Suite 910, Danvers, MA 01923, USA. Fees are subject to change.

This book is printed on acid-free paper

Preface

We are delighted to present Volume 31 of the Chinese (Taiwan) Yearbook of International Law and Affairs, which includes articles and international law materials relating to the Asia-Pacific and, specifically, the Republic of China (ROC) on Taiwan in 2013.

This volume begins with six articles. In the first article, Professor Roda Mushkat of Johns Hopkins University analyzes the implementation of the Sino-British Joint Declaration on the Question of Hong Kong from legal and policy perspectives. Professor Erik Franckx and Mr. Marco Benatar of Vrije Universiteit Brussel authored the second article, in which they analyze the duty of cooperation under the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) for countries bordering (semi-)enclosed seas. Furthermore, by comparing regional anti-terrorism conventions in Asia, Professor Irena Ilieva of the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences stresses their implications for the protection of human rights.

In the fourth article, Professor Björn Ahl of the University of Cologne explores the delimitation of treaty-making powers between Mainland China and Hong Kong under their constitutional framework. Dr. Jure Vidmar of the University of Oxford, in the next article, surveys the modern practice of recognition of states and governments with a focus on case studies of Kosovo, Libya, and Taiwan. In the final article, Dr. Tomoko Yamashita of Kyoto University examines war compensation cases brought by Chinese and Korean victims in Japanese courts. The article focuses on whether jus cogens norms can invalidate procedural obstacles such as the waiver of claims under treaties and state immunity.

In the Special Report section, Professor Michael Sheng-ti Gau (高聖惕) of National Taiwan Ocean University provides an overview of the ongoing arbitration that the Philippines initiated against Mainland China, which has so far refused to respond, under the UNCLOS in 2013. The maps included in this report also demonstrate respective claims of Taipei, Beijing and Manila in the South China Sea.

The Contemporary Practice and Judicial Decisions section contains materials on the ROC's state practice in international law. These documents explain Taiwan's participation in the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) after a departure of 42 years since the ROC lost its representation in the United Nations in 1971, its position on East and South China Seas, and responses to Mainland China's declaration of an Air Defense Identification Zone (ADIZ). Notably, the section collects statements on the development of the Guang Da

Xing No. 28 fishing boat incident. In May 2013, the Philippines Coast Guard shot dead a Taiwanese fisherman with automatic weapons in the overlapping exclusive economic zones of the two countries. The ROC's approach to dealing with this incident reinforced its commitments to the peaceful settlement of international disputes based on international law. The subsequent Treaties/Agreements section selects various instruments that the ROC concluded, including the Economic Cooperation Agreement with New Zealand and the Economic Partnership Agreement with Singapore.

Volume 31 represents a milestone of the Yearbook since its publication in 1981. The volume is published by Brill which, formerly known as Nijhoff, has a long and world-wide reputation for publishing leading law journals. I hope our cooperation will allow a wider range of readers to understand legal and political issues on the Asia-Pacific region and Taiwan. I also warmly welcome prominent international law scholars who recently joined our editorial board, including Judge Helmut Tuerk of Austria, Professors Seung Hwan Choi of Kyung Hee University, Władysław Czapliński of Polish Academy of Sciences, Jacques deLisle of University of Pennsylvania, Erik Franckx of Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Julian Ku of Hofstra University and Stefan Talmon of University of Bonn.

Finally, I would like to extend my gratitude to Professors Chun-i Chen (陳純一), Pasha Hsieh (謝笠天), Winnie Ma (馬若梅), Judges Chun-Liang Lai (賴淳良) and I-Hon Hsiao (蕭一弘), Ms. Chun-li Ouyang (歐陽純麗) and Dr. Pei-Lun Tsai (蔡沛倫) for their efforts in putting together this volume. The assistance of Lee & Li Attorneys-at-Law in translating Chinese documents into English is also gratefully acknowledged.

Ying-jeou Ma (馬英九), s.J.D.

Editor-in-Chief

April 2015

The Chinese (Taiwan) Society of International Law —
The Chinese (Taiwan) Branch of the International Law Association

President of the CSIL

Chun-i Chen

Members of the Executive Committee

C.V. Chen
Chun-i Chen
Spenser Y. Hor
Der-Chin Horng
Bernard Yuk-Chun Kao
Nigel N.T. Li
Herbert H.P. Ma
Ying-jeou Ma
Wei-Ta Pan
Huei-Yi Shyu
Yann-huei Song
Yeong-Chin Su
Dustin Kuan-Hsiung Wang
Jen Yang
Syue-Ming Yu

Overseers

John K.T. Chao
Chia-jui Cheng
Fredrick F. Chien
Chong-Koei Li
Fuldien Li

Secretary-General

Sea-Wain Yau

Vice Secretaries-General

Pasha L. Hsieh
Yao-Ming Hsu
Blake C.Y. Wang

Chinese (Taiwan) Yearbook of International Law and Affairs

Editor-in-Chief

Ying-jeou Ma

Associate Editor-in-Chief and Executive Editor

Chun-i Chen

Editors

Seung Hwan Choi
Władysław Czapliński
Erik Franckx
Miachael Sheng-ti Gau
Spenser Y. Hor
Julian G. Ku
Nigel N.T. Li
Yann-huei Song
Yeong-Chin Su
Kuan-hsiung Dustin Wang
Syue-Ming Yu

Associate Editors

I-Hon Hsiao
Yoshimichi Ishikawa
Chun-Liang Lai
Winnie Ma
Clara Portela
Omar Ramon Serrano
Han-yi Shaw
Raymond C-E Sung
Pei-Lun Tsai
Jure Vidmar
Timothy Webster

Assistant Editors

Marco Benatar
Kai-Chih Chang
Yun Pei Tu

Student Editors

Hui-Yun Chen
Fu-Jung Chin
Wei-Chen Hung

Managing Editor

Pasha L. Hsieh

Contents

Preface XIII

Ying-jeou Ma

Articles

The Intricacies of Implementing International Law: A Juxtaposition of Theories with the Actualities of the Sino-British Joint Declaration Regarding the Future of Hong Kong 1

Roda Mushkat

The "Duty" to Co-Operate for States Bordering Enclosed or Semi-Enclosed Seas 66

Erik Franckx and Marco Benatar

Countering Terrorism and Protecting Human Rights: An Asian International Legal Dimension 82

Irena Ilieva

The Delineation of Treaty-Making Powers between the Central Government of the People's Republic of China and the Special Administrative Region of Hong Kong 116

Björn Ahl

States, Governments, and Collective Recognition 136

Jure Vidmar

Do Jus Cogens Norms Invalidate State Immunity? International Restorative Justice and Japanese War Compensation Cases 160

Tomoko Yamashita

Special Report

The Prospects for the Sino-Philippine Arbitration on the South China Sea (U-Shaped Line) Dispute 195

Michael Sheng-ti Gau

Contemporary Practice and Judicial Decisions of the Republic of China

(Taiwan) Relating to International Law, 2013 231

Compiled by Chun-i Chen, Pasha L. Hsieh, Pei-Lun Tsai, Chun-Liang Lai, I-Hon Hsiao, and Kai-Chih Chang, with the Assistance of Lee & Li Attorneys-at-Law

Explanatory Note 231

I. International Law in General 232

Foreign Policy Report, 8th Congress of the Legislative Yuan, 3rd Session (March 18, 2013) 232

Foreign Policy Report, 8th Congress of the Legislative Yuan, 4th Session (September 25, 2013) 247

President Ma Ying-jeou's National Day Address 260

II. Subjects of International Law 268

III. International Organizations 268

General 268

Republic of China (Taiwan) and Intergovernmental Organizations 268

Republic of China (Taiwan) and International Non-Intergovernmental Organizations 273

International Civil Aviation Organization 274

ICAO Invites the Republic of China (Taiwan) to Attend the 38th Session of the ICAO Assembly 274

Letter from the Director-General of the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) to the President of the Council of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) 276

IV. Individuals 277

President Ma Welcomes International Experts to Taiwan to Review the ROC's First National Human Rights Report 277

Supreme Administrative Court Judgment (July 18, 2013) 102-Pan-Zi No. 453 280

Environmental Impact Assessment, International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, Legal Interest, Rights to Adequate Living Standards

Police Agency, Ministry of the Interior (October 7, 2013)

Jing-Shu-Bao-Zi-10201518811 282

Freedom of Assembly, International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, Principle of Proportionality

Supreme Court Judgment (October 21, 2013) 102-Tai-Shang-Zi-4289 282

Death Penalty, International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, Mental or Intellectual Disabilities

- V. Territory and Territorial Jurisdiction 285
- The Republic of China (Taiwan) Protests Vietnam Law Claiming South China Sea Islands* 285
- President Ma Attends 2013 (5th) International Conference on Diaoyutai Islands Issue* 286
- The Republic of China (Taiwan) Protests the Philippines' Dispatch of Naval Vessels to Renai Shoal* 289
- MOFA's Position Paper on the Diaoyutai Islands and the East China Sea Peace Initiative* 290
- VI. State Responsibility 300
- VII. The Law of the Sea, Environment, Health, and Aviation 300
- Republic of China (Taiwan) Signs Fisheries Agreement with Japan* 300
- ROC Statement on Beijing's Announcement of the East China Sea Air Defense Identification Zone* 302
- National Security Council of the ROC Responds to Beijing's Announcement of East China Sea Air Defense Identification Zone* 303
- Executive Yuan Reaffirms ROC Stance on Mainland China's Announcement of ADIZ* 304
- Guang Da Xing No. 28 Incident (May 9, 2013) 306
- President Ma Holds National Security Council Meeting, Issues Demands Regarding Incident Involving Guang Da Xing No. 28 Fishing Vessel* 306
- MAC Position on Mainland China's Concern over Fatal Shooting of Taiwanese Fisherman by the Philippines* 307
- Official Statement of the Republic of China (Taiwan) on the Intentional Shooting Conducted by the Philippine Law Enforcement Vessel against the Guang Da Xsin 28* 307
- The ROC Government Takes a Pragmatic Approach toward Taiwan-Philippines Cooperation in the Investigation of the Guang Da Xing No. 28 Incident* 310
- Philippines Violated International Law in the Guang Da Xing No. 28 Incident* 314
- MOFA's Announcement regarding the Restoration of Cooperative and Friendly Relations between the ROC and the Philippines* 316
- VIII. The Law of Treaties 319
- IX. Diplomatic, Consular, and Similar Relations 320
- Statement by the Republic of China on Its Relations with the Republic of The Gambia* 320

- The Government of the Republic of China Terminates Diplomatic Relations with the Republic of The Gambia to Uphold National Dignity and Principles of Viable Diplomacy* 321
- X. Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes 322
- East China Sea Peace Initiative Viable Model for Regional Peace* 322
- East China Sea Peace Initiative and the Use of Dialogue to Resolve Disputes* 323
- MOFA's Position on the Republic of Korea's Announcement of Its Air Defense Identification Zone* 326
- President Ma Attends Academic Conference on Contemporary International and Transnational Law* 327
- XI. Arms Control, Use of Force, and International Criminal Law 329
- ROC's Condemnation of North Korea's Provocative Nuclear Test* 329
- ROC Government Concerned about use of Chemical Weapons in the Syrian Civil War* 330
- XII. International Economic Relations 330
- Supreme Court Decision (January 30, 2013)*
- 102-Tai-Shang-Zi-193* 330
- Bankruptcy Order, Hong Kong, Territorialism, Universalism
- Intellectual Property Office, Ministry of Economic Affairs (June 21, 2013) Ref. No.: Tian-Tzu-Yu-Chien-Zi-1020621b* 333
- Copyright Notice, Principle of Protection upon Creation
- Republic of China Signs Economic Cooperation Agreement with New Zealand* 334
- The Republic of China (Taiwan) and the Republic of Singapore Sign an Economic Partnership Agreement* 335
- Taiwan-New Zealand Economic Cooperation Agreement to Formally Enter into Force December 1, 2013* 337
- XIII. Private International Law 338
- Supreme Court Decision (July 18, 2013) 102-Tai-Shan-Zi-1367* 338
- Civil Procedure, Mutual Recognition, Singapore
- XIV. Others 340
- Supreme Administrative Court Judgment (March 28, 2013)*
- 102-Pan-Zi No. 137* 340
- Peking University, Regulations Governing the Accreditation of Schools in Mainland China

President Ma Attends the Opening Ceremony of the 2013 ILA-ASIL Asia-Pacific Research Forum 342

President Ma Attends International Conference on 70th Anniversary of Cairo Declaration 346

Cross-Strait Relations 350

President Ma Attends Reception to Mark 20th Anniversary of Koo-Wang Talks 350

MAC's Statement on Establishing Reciprocal Institutions between the Straits Exchange Foundation (SEF) and the Association for Relations Across the Taiwan Straits (ARATS) 355

Conclusion of the Ninth Round of Cross-Strait High-Level Talks 357

President Ma's Remarks on the Benefits of the Cross-Strait Trade in Services Agreement 359

Realization of "Mutual Non-Denial" and the Normalization of Cross-Strait Official Interactions 361

Treaties/Agreements and Official, Semi-Official or Unofficial Agreements Concluded by the Republic of China (Taiwan) with other Countries in 2013 363

Compiled by Chun-i Chen, Pasha L. Hsieh, and Pei-Lun Tsai

Chronological List 363

Selected Texts 374

Japan 374

Fisheries Agreement between the Association of East Asian Relations and the Interchange Association, Japan 374

New Zealand 378

Agreement between the Separate Customs Territory of Taiwan, Penghu, Kinmen, and Matsu and New Zealand on Economic Cooperation 378

Singapore 384

Agreement between Singapore and the Separate Customs Territory of Taiwan, Penghu, Kinmen and Matsu on Economic Partnership 384

United States 391

Agreement on Privileges, Exemptions and Immunities between the American Institute in Taiwan and the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States 391

Table of Cases 401

Index 403

Guidelines for Submissions to the Chinese (Taiwan) Yearbook of International Law and Affairs 407

The Intricacies of Implementing International Law: A Juxtaposition of Theories with the Actualities of the Sino-British Joint Declaration Regarding the Future of Hong Kong

Roda Mushkat

Table of Contents

- I Introduction
- II Policy Making with “Chinese Characteristics”
 - A Domestic Dimension
 - B International Dimension
 - C Legal Dimension
- III Theory Meets the Sino-British Joint Declaration
 - A Systematic Explorations of Chinese Policies toward Hong Kong in the Context of the One Country-Two Systems Framework
 - B Some Informative Cases
 - 1 National Security Legislation
 - 2 National/Patriotic Education
 - 3 Curtailing Judicial Authority in Hong Kong
- IV Conclusion

I Introduction

International law is both theory rich and theory poor. The abundance is attributable to the proliferation of schools of thought—some normative, some positivist, some purely abstract, some policy oriented, some geared toward system maintenance, and some poignantly critical—their diversity, their multiple origins, and their range of concerns. The sense of insufficiency stems from the often less-than-satisfactory fit between theory and reality and severe

* Professor of International Law, Hopkins-Nanjing Center, Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), Johns Hopkins University and Honorary Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Hong Kong. I wish to thank Miron Mushkat for helping me navigate through social science territory, but I am solely responsible for the views expressed herein.

fragmentation in the absence of constructive bridge-building or serious efforts to achieve at least a partial synthesis. There are thus gaps in the theoretical façade, whose development is impeded by excessive, zero-sum-style intellectual competition in areas where pursuing complementarity might prove potentially beneficial.

This duality, the wealth of ideas and the incompleteness and looseness of the conceptual architecture, manifests itself in the positivist segment of the theoretical space. That is the analytical domain where international legal researchers continue to systematically seek credible answers to the question "how nations behave," authoritatively and compellingly addressed, albeit inevitably without providing closure and a clear roadmap to follow, by a leading scholar in the field nearly half a century ago.¹ For the most part, they have employed the logic of expected consequences, assuming that actors in the global arena, when confronting choices, generate an array of alternatives, assess them in terms of their perceived net favorable effects, and select the one that best meets this criterion.²

In its pure and stylized, and a somewhat more elaborate and precise, form such an essentially rationalist framework thus consists of four components: alternatives (a set of feasible courses of action), expectations (the consequences associated with each alternative and the probabilities attached to them), preferences (the values ascribed by the decision maker to the expected consequences), and a decision rule (stipulating how the choice is to be made among the alternatives on the basis of the values accorded to their consequences; the notion of a cost-utility, or disutility-utility balance/equation most tellingly encapsulates this proposition).³

This is not an entirely homogeneous theoretical space. There are crucial differences between researchers who believe that players in an intensely competitive global milieu are primarily driven by power and its correlates (realists and their descendants)⁴ and those who posit that international cooperation is

1 See generally Louis Henkin, How Nations Behave: Law and Foreign Policy (1968).

2 See James G. March, A Primer on Decision Making: How Decisions Happen 2–3 (1994).

3 See id. at 2–3.

4 See Kal Raustiala, "Compliance and Effectiveness in International Regulatory Cooperation", 32 Case W. Res. J. Int'l L. 387, 400–05 (2000); Oona A. Hathaway, "Do Human Rights Treaties Make a Difference?", 111 Yale L.J. 1935, 1944–47 (2002); Kal Raustiala & Anne-Marie Slaughter, "International Law, International Relations, and Compliance", in Handbook of International Relations 539–40, (Walter Carlsneas & Beth A. Simmons eds., 2002); Willam C. Bradford, "In the Minds of Men: A Theory of Compliance with the Laws of War", 36 Arizona State L.J. 1243, 1251–61, 1264–66 (2004).

a source of value and generally recognized as such (institutionalists).⁵ A fundamental distinction may also be drawn between these two intellectual camps, largely united in their view that it is mostly reasonable to consider the State as a unitary actor, and those who disaggregate it and highlight the role played by domestic forces in shaping attitudes and policies toward international law (liberals).⁶

However, there is thought to be sufficient common ground to treat the three groups as a single (rationalist) category.⁷ According to this perspective, the vital conceptual difference that needs to be emphasized is that between scholars who belong to this broad analytical cluster and those who are influenced by the logic of appropriateness.⁸ This form of reasoning lays stress on the relevance of normative, as distinct from utilitarian, values that transcend the seemingly narrow ethical parameters associated with rationalism.⁹ In the international legal context, it underscores the intrinsic value of collective ideas, common rules, cross-border cooperation, mutual obligations, productive worldwide discourse, and shared knowledge.¹⁰

Four cautionary observations are in order. First, strictly speaking, a focus on international rule-following should not be equated with a pronounced normative orientation, and vice versa. From a philosophical standpoint, rationalism is not devoid of normative underpinnings (nor do the so-called normative theories of international law lack a positivistic dimension). Indeed, utilitarianism is a normative school of thought par excellence. It does not merely qualify as such but (e.g., unlike egoism) in fact occupies a highly respectable place in the normative theory space by virtue of being agent neutral rather than agent centered:

[T]here is a distinction between normative theories that are agent neutral, and those which are agent centered. A theory is agent neutral if it gives to everyone the same advice or aims. According to an agent neutral theory, your (theory-given) aims are better fulfilled exactly when mine are. By

5 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 400–05; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1947–52; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 540.

6 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 409–11; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1952–55; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 547–48; Bradford, supra note 4, at 1255–57.

7 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 400–05, 409–11; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1944–55; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 539–40, 547–48; Bradford, supra note 4, at 1251–61.

8 See March, supra note 2, at 57–102.

9 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 405–09; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1955–62; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 541–45; Bradford, supra note 4, at 1261–64, 1268–77.

10 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 405–11; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1955–62; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 541–45; Bradford, id., at 1261–64, 1266–77.

contrast, an agent centered theory gives to us at least some prescriptions or advice or aims which include indexicals. Sometimes the things an agent centered theory advises me to do will conflict with the things the same theory advises you to do. Your theory-given ends can be achieved only at the expense of mine. The classic and paradigmatic agent centered theory is egoism. Egoism tells me to pursue my good and you to pursue yours. The classic and paradigmatic agent neutral theory is utilitarianism. It tells us to promote the greatest happiness of the greatest number. Things are going better from your perspective exactly when they are going better from my perspective, according to utilitarianism.¹¹

Second, the rationalist-normative dichotomy is restrictive because it leaves little room to accommodate schools of thought that do not squarely fall into one of the two categories. Constructivist,¹² eclectic/Grotian,¹³ fairness/legitimacy-focused,¹⁴ legal positivist,¹⁵ managerial,¹⁶ natural law-derived,¹⁷

11 See James Dreier, "Structures of Normative Theories", 76 The Monist 22, 22 (1993).

12 See Bradford, supra note 4, at 1271–73. See also Friedrich V. Kratochwil, Rules, Norms, and Decisions: On the Conditions of Practical and Legal Reasoning in International Relations and Domestic Affairs (1989); Benedict Kingsbury, "Indigenous Peoples' in International Law: A Constructivist Approach to the Asia Controversy", 92 Am. J. Int'l L. 414 (1998); Anthony C. Arend, Legal Rules and International Society (1999); Jutta Brunnee & Stephen Toope, "International Law and Constructivism: Elements of an Interactional Theory of International Law", 39 Colum. J. Transnat'l L. 19 (2000); Phillip A. Karber, "Constructivism' as a Method in International Law", 94 Am. Soc'y Int'l L. Proc. 189–92 (2000); Martin V. Totaro, "Legal Positivism, Constructivism, and International Human Rights Law: The Case of Participatory Development", 48 Va J. Int'l L. 719 (2008); Gerry Nagtzaam, The Making of International Environmental Treaties: Neoliberal and Constructivist Analyses of Normative Evolution (2009); Jutta Brunnee & Stephen J. Toope, Legitimacy and Legality in International Law: An Interactionist Approach (2010); Adriana Sinclair, International Relations Theory and International Law (2010).

13 See A. Claire Cutler, "The 'Grotian Tradition' in International Relations", 17 Rev. Int'l Stu. 41 (1991); Christopher A. Stumpf, The Grotian Theology of International Law (2006).

14 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 405–09; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1958–60; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 541–42; Bradford, supra note 4, at 1269–71. See also Thomas M. Franck, The Power of Legitimacy among Nations (1990); Thomas M. Franck, Fairness in International Law and Institutions (1995).

15 See Stephen Hall, "The Persistent Specter: Natural Law, International Order, and the Limits of International Legal Positivism", 12 Eur. J. Int'l L. 269 (2001).

16 See Raustiala, supra note 4, at 405–09; Hathaway, supra note 4, at 1955–58; Raustiala & Slaughter, supra note 4, at 542–44; Bradford, supra note 4, at 1261–64. See also Abram Chayes & Antonia Handler Chayes, The New Sovereignty: Compliance with International Regulatory Agreements (1995).

17 See Hall, supra note 15.