

Love and Conflict in Medieval Drama

The Plays and their Legacy

LYNETTE R. MUIR

CAMBRIDGE

33804964

Love and Conflict
in Medieval Drama

The Plays and their Legacy

LYNETTE R. MUIR

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS
Cambridge, New York, Melbourne, Madrid, Cape Town, Singapore, São Paulo

Cambridge University Press
The Edinburgh Building, Cambridge CB2 8RU, UK

Published in the United States of America by Cambridge University Press, New York

www.cambridge.org
Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9780521827560

© Lynette R. Muir 2007

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2007

Printed in the United Kingdom at the University Press, Cambridge

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

ISBN 978-0-521-82756-0 hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

Acknowledgements

This study of non-biblical, serious plays from the tenth to the sixteenth centuries, and their legacy to the Renaissance drama, has only been made possible by the assistance of many friends and colleagues from all round the world.

Individual contributions are acknowledged in the relevant endnotes but I also owe a huge debt to those who have helped find and organise the source material and the lay-out of the different sections. Thanks are especially due to Elizabeth Williams who has provided me with much information on the development of the romance and the difference between a theme and a motif in folklore and fairy tale. Peter Meredith, John Tailby and Penny Robinson have read and corrected various sections and Alan Hindley has been of great assistance in identifying the morality plays that are based on relevant stories. Alan Knight has provided copies of unpublished plays from Lille and Nerida Newbiggin has made available much Italian material (courtesy of e-mail) including unpublished plays. Elsa Strietman has furnished (and translated where necessary) much of the Dutch material.

Photographs from the History Roll MS have been provided by the Brotherton Library, whose staff have been consistently helpful in finding and obtaining books for me. The illustration of a performance of the Dutch play of Esmoreit was kindly provided by Meg Twycross, and this and other photographs have been prepared for publication by Gavin Fairpo who has also kept my computer going. Diana Wyatt has undertaken the preparation of the bibliography. The editors for the Cambridge University Press, especially Victoria Cooper and Rebecca Jones, have been endlessly patient and helpful.

The important role played by French drama in the evolution of the European theatre in the period between 1450 and 1550 is emphasised by the sheer volume of material composed and performed. Many of the texts used here have been made available by one scholar and I want to acknowledge our debt to him by dedicating this book to my good friend and colleague, Chevalier des Arts et Sciences, Graham Runnalls.

Abbreviations and short titles used in the text and notes

- AASS: Acta sanctorum: Collegit Joannes Bollandus et al. 61 vols. Brussels, 1965–70.
- Abruzzese: V. De Bartholomaeis. Il teatro abruzzese del medio evo. Bologna, 1924.
- Best, Bidermann: Thomas W. Best. Jacob Bidermann. New York, 1975.
- Black: Nancy B. Black. Medieval narratives of accused queens. Gainesville, Fla., 2003.
- Boysse: E. Boysse. Le théâtre des Jésuites. Slatkine repr. Geneva, 1970.
- BSS: The book of saints. A dictionary of servants of God canonised by the Catholic Church. Compiled by the Benedictine monks of St Augustine's Abbey Ramsgate. Sixth edition, London, 1989.
- Bullough: Geoffrey, Bullough. Narrative and dramatic sources of Shakespeare. 8 vols. London, 1957–75.
- Cangé: (Cangé MS) Miracles de Notre Dame par personnages. Ed. G. Paris and U. Robert. SATF. 8 vols. Paris, 1876–93.
- CFMA: Classiques Français du Moyen Age.
- Cohen, Mons: Gustave Cohen. Le livre de conduite du régisseur . . . pour le mystère de la passion à Mons en 1501. Paris, 1925.
- Creizenach: W. Creizenach. Geschichte des neueren Dramas. 3 vols. Halle, 1911–23.
- D'Ancona: A. D'Ancona. Sacre rappresentazioni dei secoli XIV, XV, XVI. 3 vols. Florence, 1872.
- De Bartholomaeis: V. De Bartholomaeis. Laude drammatiche e rappresentazioni sacre. 3 vols. Florence, 1943.
- De Bruyn: Lucy De Bruyn. Woman and the Devil in sixteenth-century literature. Tisbury, 1979.
- EDAM: Early Drama, Art and Music.
- Edelman: Nathan. Edelman. Attitudes of seventeenth-century France towards the Middle Ages. New York, 1936.
- EMD: European Medieval Drama.

- Florentine drama: Florentine drama for convent and festival.* Ed. and trans. J. W. and B. C. Cook. Chicago, 1996.
- Harbage: Alfred Harbage. Annals of English drama, 975–1700. London, 1964.
- Henrard: Nadine Henrard. Le théâtre religieux médiéval en langue d'oc. Geneva, 1998.
- HLF: Histoire littéraire de la France.
- Hüsken, Everaert: W. M. N. Hüsken. De spelen van Cornelis Everaert. 2 vols. Hilversum, 2005.
- IMR: International Medieval Research.
- Lancashire: Ian Lancashire. Dramatic texts and records of Britain: a chronological topography to 1558. Cambridge, 1984.
- Lancaster: H. Carrington Lancaster. Théâtre français du 17^e siècle. Part I, 1610–35, 2 vols. Part II, 1635–42. 2 vols. Baltimore, 1992.
- Lanson: G. Lanson. Etudes sur les origines de la tragédie classique en France. Revue d'histoire littéraire de la France, 10 (1903).
- Lebègue: G. Lebègue. Etudes sur le théâtre français. Paris, 1977.
- Legenda: The Golden Legend of Jacobus de Voragine. Trans. Granger Ryan and Helmut Ripperger. New York, 1969.
- Lille: Les mystères de la procession de Lille. Ed. Alan Knight. 5 vols. (I–III pub.). Geneva, 2001– (in progress).
- Loukovitch: K. Loukovitch. L'évolution de la tragédie religieuse classique en France. Paris, 1933.
- Mainte belle œuvre faite: Mainte belle œuvre faite.* Etudes offertes à Graham Runnalls. Orleans, 2005.
- McCabe: W. H. McCabe, SJ. An introduction to the Jesuit theater. The Institute of Jesuit Sources, Missouri, 1983.
- McKendrick: Merveena McKendrick. Theatre in Spain, 1490–1700. Cambridge 1989.
- Meredith and Tailby: P. Meredith and J. Tailby, eds. The staging of religious drama in Europe. EDAM. Kalamazoo, 1983.
- Metz, Sources: G. H. Metz. Sources of four plays ascribed to Shakespeare. Columbia, 1989.
- Mystères:* L. Petit de Julleville. Les mystères. 2 vols. Repr., Geneva, 1969.
- Newbigin: N. Newbigin. Feste d'Oltrarno. Plays in churches in fifteenth-century Florence. 2 vols. Florence, 1996.
- PMLA: Publications of the Modern Language Association.
- Repertorium: M. M. Hummelen. Repertorium van het Rederijkersdrama, 1500–c. 1620. Assen, 1968.

- Répertoire*: L. Petit de Julleville. Répertoire du théâtre comique en France au moyen âge. Repr., Geneva, 1967.
- Rouanet: L. Rouanet. Autos, Farsas y Coloquios del siglo XVI. 4 vols. Barcelona and Madrid, 1901.
- Sachs: Hans Sachs. Werken. Ed. A. V. Keller and E. Goetzer. Bibliothek des literarischen Vereins, Stuttgart, CIV–CXXIV. Stuttgart, 1866–92.
- SATF: Société des Anciens Textes Français.
- Spel en Spektakel*: Spel en Spektakel: middleeuws toneel in de Lage Landen, ed. H. van Dijk and Bart Ramakers. Amsterdam, 2001.
- Stegmann: A. Stegmann. L'héroïsme Cornélien, II: L'Europe intellectuel et le théâtre, 1580–1650. Paris, 1968.
- Szarota: E. M. Szarota. Das Jesuitendrama im deutschen Sprachgebiet. 3 vols. (in two parts each). Munich, 1979–83.
- TIE: Theatre in Europe. A Documentary History.
- TIE Medieval: The medieval European stage, 500–1550. Ed. W. Tydeman. Cambridge, 2001.
- TIE German: The German and Dutch theatre, 1600–1848. Ed. G. Brandt. Cambridge, 1993.
- TLF: Textes Littéraires Français
- Ukena: E. Ukena. Die deutschen Mirakelspiele des Spätmittelalters. Studien und Texte. 2 vols. Bern, 1975.
- Valentin: Jean-Marie Valentin. Le théâtre des Jésuites dans les pays de langue allemande (1554–1680). 3 vols. Bern, 1978.
- Viel Testament*: Le mystère du Viel Testament. Ed. J. de Rothschild. 6 vols. SATF. Paris, 1878.
- V & A: Victoria and Albert Museum.
- Weaver: E. B. Weaver. Convent theatre in early modern Italy. Spiritual fun and learning for women. Cambridge, 2001.
- Worp: J. A. Worp. Geschiedenis van het Drama en van het Toneel in Nederland. 2 vols. Rotterdam, 1903.
- Wright: Stephen Wright. The Vengeance of Our Lord. Medieval dramatizations of the Destruction of Jerusalem. Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, Toronto, 1949.

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Acknowledgements	xi
List of abbreviations and short titles used in the text and notes	xiii
Introduction: staging the stories
From sacred drama to secular play	1
Subject matter and the plays	2
Who staged the medieval stories?	3
PART ONE WAR IN HEAVEN: SAINTS AND SINNERS
1 The noble army of martyrs	9
The virgin in the brothel and other female saints	9
The Church triumphant: St Stephen and his successors	11
The three faces of St George	12
The New Job, or the sufferings of St Eustace	13
Mime and martyr: the story of St Genesius	15
2 White martyrdom – the hermits	22
The Desert Fathers	22
St Onofrio and other hairy hermits	24
Barlaam and Josaphat	26
St Bernard of Menthon	28
St Guillaume du desert and Guillaume d'Aquitaine	29
3 Soldiers of Christ: the Church militant	31
St Francis of Assisi	31
St Dominic and the Order of Preachers	31
The Society Jesus and saints of the Counter-Reformation	35

PART TWO MIRACLES OF SALVATION

4	Miraculous conversions of Jews (and a few pagans)	45
	St Nicholas and the Iconia plays	45
	Merchants and money-lenders	47
5	Sacrament plays	50
	The Paris miracle of the profaned host	50
	The Florentine sacrament play	51
	The Croxton sacrament play	52
	The Bolsena miracle	53
	The Dutch sacrament play from Nieuwervaart	53
6	Your adversary the Devil: the saved and the damned	55
	Children of the Devil	56
	The Devil's paramours	59
	Doubt and damnation	62
7	Who sups with the Devil: the rash bargain	65
	Theophilus and other miracles of the Virgin	65
	The Devil's slave	69
	Dr Faustus	71

PART THREE CONFLICTING RELATIONSHIPS: LOVE, HATE AND MARRIAGE

8	Happily ever after: friends and lovers	79
	The heroine in the harem	79
	Star-crossed lovers	86
	Friends and rivals	88
9	Premarital problems	91
	The slandered fiancée and the substitute bride	91
	The threat of the incestuous father	92
10	The falsely accused queen and other suffering wives	95
	Patient Griselda	95
	The wicked mother-in-law	95
	The wicked brother-in-law	97
	Other jealous husbands	98

11	Domestic dramas	100
	The guilty wife	100
12	The wager	102
	Ostes d'Espagne	103
	The wife's revenge	104
13	Hell hath no fury: the woman scorned	106
	The story of Joseph	106
	Phedre and other ladies of rank	106
	The innkeeper's daughter	108
14	Family feuds	109
	Inheritance problems	110
15	The theatre of cruelty	112
	Plays of rape and seduction	112
	The monstrous ransom	115
	Edward III and the countess of Salisbury	117
16	Le cœur mangé and other culinary surprises	120
	Alboin and Rosamunda	122
PART FOUR POWER, POLITICS AND PATRIOTISM
17	The siege of Troy	131
	L'histoire de Troie	132
	Other early plays on the story of Troy	133
	The Trojan war and European history	145
18	The siege and destruction of Jerusalem in AD 70	147
	The Vengeance Jésus Christ	147
	Vengeance plays in the sixteenth century	149
	German plays of the destruction of Jerusalem	151
	The siege of Jerusalem in England	154
19	Early Christian Europe: Constantine to the crusades	156
	The conversion and baptism of Constantine	156
	The invention of the Holy Cross	159
	The exaltation of the Holy Cross	160

	Sixteenth-century German plays of Constantine and the Cross	162
20	Christianity goes west	165
	The baptism of Clovis	165
	St Genevieve, patron saint of Paris	166
	Baldwin, St Louis and the crusades	168
21	The worthy, the proud and the popular	171
	The worthies	171
	Les neuf preuses and other women warriors	173
	Joan of Arc and the siege of Orleans	175
22	Pride and the wheel of Fortune	179
	He shall put down the mighty	180
	Fortunes of war	182
23	Affairs of state	185
	Sophonisba	186
	Elizabeth and Essex	190
24	Patriots and popular heroes	196
	Regulus	196
	William Tell	199
	Robin Hood	200
	From martyr to champion: St George of England: a unique case	201
	Conclusion: from Queen of Heaven to Fairy Queen	203
	Changing fortunes of the Virgin Mary	203
	Notes	205
	Bibliography	265
	Index	282

Illustrations

1a	St Anthony the Great with his pet pig (Rappresentazione di Santo Antonione Abate (Florence, 1572))	page 38
1b	St Eustace goes hunting (La divota rappresentazione di Sancto Eustachio (Florence, 1493))	38
2a	The 'hairy hermit' is captured by the huntsmen (Jan van Beverley Volksboek (Brussels, 1903).	39
2b	St Jan van Beverley seduces his sister, then kills and buries her (Jan van Beverley Volksboek (Brussels, 1903))	39
3a	The Devil tries to kill Mariken before she can repent (Mariken van Nieuweghen (Naarden, c. 1920))	40
3b	Her uncle's prayers save Mariken's life (Mariken van Nieuweghen (Naarden, c. 1920))	40
4a	Theophilus, the Devil and the Virgin Mary (La Rappresentazione di Teofilo (Florence, 1498))	41
4b	The Jew obtains a Host from the woman and then tortures it (Rappresentazione di un miracolo del sacramento (Florence, 1578))	41
5a-f	Pictures from a broadsheet of the sacrament miracle in Passau (1470)	42
6	Esmoreit, prince of Sicily (from a performance at Lancaster University)	124
7a	The queen arranges for Stella to be kidnapped and killed (La rappresentazione divota di Stella: miracolo della Madonna (Florence, 1508))	125
7b	Judith saves the city by cutting of Holofernes' head (La divota rappresentazione di Iudith Hebreä (Florence, 1519))	125

- | | | |
|----|---|-----|
| 8 | The Trojans flee from Troy (Leeds Brotherton Library, MS 100) (French fourteenth century) | 126 |
| 9 | Godefroi of Bouillon and his kinsmen sail to Jerusalem (Leeds Brotherton Library MS 100) | 127 |
| 10 | Fortune and her wheel, French translation of Boccaccio's De casibus (Paris, 1483) | 128 |

Introduction: staging the stories

FROM SACRED DRAMA TO SECULAR PLAY

The plays discussed in this companion volume to The biblical drama of medieval Europe are based on many kinds of serious stories from medieval sources: saints' lives and miracles, romances, epics and historical events from the siege of Troy to the Hundred Years War. The only biblical plays included are a few from Lille on the victories of Joshua, not previously available.¹ Polemical and morality plays are limited to examples relevant to the stories being discussed, and I have excluded (with a few exceptions) plays of situation rather than story, especially farces and Shrovetide plays.

What then is left after these omissions? The answer is a very substantial body of serious medieval plays on love and war, especially in French and Italian, with smaller but still significant collections in Spanish, German, English and Dutch. The varying amounts of medieval drama surviving from different countries has been vividly described by Peter Meredith: 'Where French language drama has hundreds of thousands of lines of texts (much still unedited) . . . England has a handful, an armful, perhaps a scaffold load.'² An imbalance in the number of references to the different language groups when discussing the stories is therefore inevitable but no attempt has been made to measure the relative quality of the plays – that is a task for the reader.

In a recently published article, Graham Runnalls, the acknowledged expert on medieval French play texts, has made it quite clear that to suggest that French medieval drama stops around 1500 is 'frankly absurd'.³ Runnalls is referring here not only to religious drama, both biblical and hagiographic, but to the whole range of plays from miracles to farces. I have therefore taken the year 1550 as the end of half a millennium of medieval plays, and the beginning of the first century or so of retellings of these stories on both amateur and professional stages, which I have called the 'legacy'.⁴

SUBJECT MATTER AND THE PLAYS

In Aspects of genre, a study of the characteristics of late medieval French drama, Alan Knight distinguished between the serious plays which were historical and therefore based on true stories, and the comedies and farces which were fiction.⁵ Among the serious group he lists the Bible, saints' lives and profane history such as the fall of Troy. Plays are also based on the narrative epics and romances. The plays discussed in this volume cover a wide range of subjects and forms but all belong to this 'serious' drama. They also include a genre principally found in earlier centuries: the miracle play, whose stories must also by definition be history, though as will appear they do not necessarily fit into any of Knight's categories. In contrast to the biblical drama whose source is indisputable, these plays have a variety of backgrounds, both religious and secular, but they have one thing in common: they are never original, which helps to account for the large number of plays on the same or similar subjects.⁶ It is the minor variations in these stories over the centuries that reflect the changes in the theatrical world of different parts of Europe at the end of the Middle Ages and the beginning of the early modern period.

For convenience, the plays have been divided into four groups, according to subject matter. The divisions are based on the important collection of forty miracle plays found in the fourteenth-century Cangé MS, composed for performance at the annual meeting and dinner of a Parisian confraternity dedicated to the Virgin Mary, one each year from 1349 to 1382 (excluding 1354 and 1358–60 – years when Paris was under siege).⁷ In an article for the Histoire littéraire de la France (xxxix), the eminent French scholar, Alfred Jeanroy, pointed out that although all the plays are introduced as a 'miracle de Notre Dame' and contain an obligatory scene in which the Virgin Mary is honoured by the heavenly host singing specially composed rondeaux, more than half the plays are based on stories that have no connection with the Virgin. Jeanroy therefore divided the plays into four divisions: 'Légendes mariales' (seventeen plays); 'Légendes de saints' (eight plays); 'Légendes romanesques et héroïques' (eleven plays) and 'Légendes historiques romancées' (four plays).

The first group are straightforward dramatisations of well-known Marian miracles.⁸ But the Virgin Mary has no real connection with the saints' lives in group two, or with most of the historical events in group four, while many of the plays in group three are based on well-known stories from romances, such as the falsely accused queen, which were told and retold all over Europe in both religious and secular forms.⁹ These Canged groups do not, of course, include all the subjects treated in the book, many of which were added in the fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries, including the theatre of cruelty inspired by the classical plays of Seneca but also reflecting the violence of the Passion and martyrdom scenes in the medieval plays.

WHO STAGED THE MEDIEVAL STORIES?

Saints' plays, like biblical subjects, were usually staged by religious communities or civic groups, but were rare in the celebrations of Corpus Christi, except as part of a procession.¹⁰ There were a few examples of more personal arrangements. For example, in Metz in 1468, a play of the newly canonised St Catherine of Siena was commissioned by one Catherine de Baudoiche. The role of the saint was taken with great success by a girl of eighteen.¹¹ Stories on secular subjects, or presented in the form of miracle plays, might also be organised by trade guilds or religious confraternities, literary guilds or Puys (the title probably developed from the fact that the earliest such group was founded at Notre Dame du Puy in Valenciennes (Hainault). These Puys were most frequently found in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries in northern France and the Low Countries. There was also a Puy de London modelled on the continental ones.¹²

Some of them were dedicated to poetry and music rather than drama, but others continued staging plays through to the sixteenth century. A morality, 'De la dame à l'Agneau et de la dame à l'Aspic' was presented as part of the ceremony at the meeting of the Puy de la conception de la vierge (also called the Puy de palinods) in Rouen in 1520. The play has an interesting double form: the conflict between the Dame à l'agneau (lamb) and the Dame à l'aspic (serpent) is not merely a struggle between the Virgin Mary and the Devil, it is also a clash between Rouen, whose crest was a Lady with a Lamb, and the Viper, the crest of Milan against whom Francis I had just declared war. I am grateful to Alan Hindley for finding me a copy of this interesting play. Further details of the Puys and an interesting account of the confraternity of the 'guilde des Archers' of Antwerp in 1493 is provided by Nigel Wilkins in an article based on a picture of the Schuttersfeest or 'fête de la guilde des archers du maître de Francfort (1493) et la musique des confréries'.¹³